

Table of Contents

Notes on the Contributors	xv
Introduction	xvii
Hiroya Nakakubo and Takashi Araki
Chapter 1
Fixed-Term Work in Australia	1
Anthony O'Donnell
I. General Overview of Fixed-Term Employment in the Labour Market	2
A. How Many, and Who?	2
B. The Relation between Fixed-Term Employment and Other Non-standard Working Arrangements	5
C. Fixed-Term Employment and 'Temporary' Work in Australia	8
D. Fixed-Term Work in Historical Perspective	9
II. Historic Development of Fixed-Term Contract Regulations	11
III. Current Regulations and Problems Concerning Fixed-Term Contracts	15
A. Regulating the Use of Fixed-Term Employment	15
B. Regulating the Conditions of Fixed-Term Employees	16
C. Termination and the Application of Unfair Dismissal Regulation	17
D. A Note about Temporary Migration	18
E. A Note about the Australian Public Service	19
IV. Conclusions	20

Chapter 2

The Regulation of Fixed-Term Work in Britain

Aristea Koukiadaki

23

I.	General Overview of Fixed-Term Work in the British Labour Market	23
A.	Historic Overview of Temporary Work and Fixed-Term Workers	23
B.	Relationship between Fixed-Term Work and Other Non-standard Forms of Work	25
C.	Characteristics and Attributes of Fixed-Term Workers	27
II.	Historical Development of Fixed-Term Work Regulation	31
A.	History of Fixed-Term Work Regulation and Its Impact on the Labour Market	31
III.	Current Regulation Concerning Fixed-Term Work	35
A.	General Approach	35
B.	The Right to an Indefinite Contract	37
C.	The Principle of Equal Treatment	41
D.	Transition to Open-Ended Employment	44
E.	Social Security System	45
IV.	Evaluation of the Current Regulation on Fixed-Term Contracts in Labour Policy and Future Prospects	46

Chapter 3

Practice and Problems: The Fixed-Term Employment Contract in China

Li Kungang

51

I.	Introduction	51
II.	General Overview of Fixed-Term Employment in the Labour Market	52
A.	Present State of the Fixed-Term Employment	52
B.	The Problems Caused by Short Fixed-Term Employment Contracts in China	53
C.	The Relationship among Fixed-Term Employment Contracts, Open-Ended Employment Contracts, and Atypical Employment	56
III.	Historic Developments of Fixed-Term Contract Regulations	60
A.	The Employment System under the Planned Economy	60
B.	China's Reforms to the Regular Employment System	60
C.	The Fixed-Term Employment Established by the Labor Contract Law of China in 1995	61
IV.	Current Regulations and Problems Concerning Fixed-Term Contracts	62
A.	Current Regulations Concerning Fixed-Term Contracts	62
B.	The Opinion of Scholars on the Fixed-Term Employment Contract in China	65

V.	Evaluation of Current Regulations on Fixed-Term Contracts in Labour Policy and Future Prospects	66
A.	The Open-Ended Employment Contract: A Common Practice in China in the Future?	66
B.	The Objections from Enterprises and Government Efforts to Comfort Them	67
C.	The Future of Fixed-Term Employment Contracts in China	68
VI.	Concluding Remarks	69

Chapter 4

Fixed-Term Contracts in France

Pascal Lokiec

71

I.	Introduction	71
II.	Reasons	72
A.	Replacement	72
B.	Variations in the Activity of the Firm	73
C.	Seasons Work	74
D.	Sector Fixed-Term Contracts ('CDD d'usage')	74
E.	Welfare Reasons	75
III.	Duration of the Contract	75
IV.	Successive Contracts	76
A.	For the Same Job	76
B.	With the Same Employee	77
V.	Formalism	78
VI.	Termination of the Contract	78
VII.	Status of the Fixed-Term Employee	80
A.	Equality of Treatment	80
B.	Social Security	81
C.	Information on Job Vacancies	81
D.	Indemnities and Sanctions	81
VIII.	New Developments	82
A.	The Unique Contract	82
B.	The Project Contract	83

Chapter 5

Labour Policy and Fixed-Term Employment Contracts in Germany

Bernd Waas

85

I.	General Overview of Fixed-Term Employment in the German Labour Market	85
II.	Historic Development of the Regulation of Fixed-Term Contracts	87

Table of Contents

III.	Present Regulation of Fixed-Term Contracts	88
A.	General Remarks	88
1.	Legal Aim	88
2.	Legal Definitions	89
3.	'Undocking' of the Fixing of Terms from Dismissal Protection	89
B.	Prohibition of Discrimination	90
C.	Lawful Fixing of Terms	91
1.	Section 14(1): Requirement of Objective Grounds	91
a.	Statutory Examples	91
b.	General Rules	92
c.	The Objective Grounds in More Detail	93
2.	Section 14(2): Limited Fixing of Terms without Objective Grounds	98
a.	Short-Duration Contracts	98
b.	Contracts Concluded by Newly Established Enterprises	100
c.	Contracts Concluded with Older Workers	101
D.	Agreement on Fixing the Term in Writing	102
E.	End of Fixed-Term Contracts	102
F.	Legal Consequences of Invalid Fixing of Terms	103
G.	Legal Proceedings	104
H.	Other Provisions of the Part-Time and Fixed-Term Employment Act	104
I.	Co-determination Issues	104
J.	Fixed-Term Contracts and Social Security Law	105
IV.	Evaluation of the Present Regulation of Fixed-Term Contracts in Labour Policy and Future Prospects	106

Chapter 6

The Regulation of Fixed-Term Employment in Japan	109
Hisashi Takeuchi-Okuno

I.	Introduction	109
II.	General Overview of Fixed-Term Employment in the Japanese Labour Market	110
A.	Structure of the Japanese Labour Market, and the Increased Prevalence of Atypical and Fixed-Term Employment	110
1.	Positions of Regular and Atypical Employees in the Japanese Labour Market	110
2.	Increases in Atypical and Fixed-Term Employment since the Mid-1990s	111

B.	Characteristics and Attributes of Fixed-Term Employees	112
1.	Fixed-Term Employment and Other Types of Atypical Employment	112
2.	Gender, Age and Types of Fixed-Term Employees	113
3.	The Aims in Enacting a Fixed-Term Employment Contract	114
4.	The Wages and Employment Stability of Fixed-Term Employees	115
III.	Development and Current State of Regulations Regarding Fixed-Term Contracts; Limitations on the Maximum Allowable Period for Single Contract Terms and on Refusals to Renew Fixed-Term Contracts	115
A.	Development of Regulations Regarding Maximum Limits for Single Contract Terms	116
1.	Civil Law Regulations on Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	116
2.	Development of the LSA Limitation on Single Contract Terms	117
a.	Initiation of the LSA in 1947	117
b.	The 1998 Amendment to the LSA	117
c.	The Current Law: The 2003 Amendment to the LSA	118
B.	Development of Regulations vis-à-vis the Termination of Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	120
1.	Development of Case Law Regarding the Refusal to Renew Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	120
2.	The Current Law Regarding Refusals to Renew Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	121
3.	Administrative Standards Regarding the Initiation and Termination of Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	123
IV.	The Current State of Regulations Regarding Other Aspects of Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	124
A.	Regulations Concerning the Initiation of Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	124
1.	No Required Reasons for Entering into Fixed-Term Employment Contracts	124
2.	Clear Statement of Conditions Concerning the Contract Term	125
B.	Regulations Concerning Renewal	125
C.	Equal Treatment	125
D.	Transitions to Open-Ended Employment	126
E.	Fixed-Term Employees and Social Security	126
V.	Concluding Remarks: Evaluation of Current Regulations on Fixed-Term Employment Contracts, and Future Prospects	127

Chapter 7

Labour Policy on Fixed-Term Employment Contracts in Korea

129

John Lee

I.	Introduction	129
	A. Research Objectives	129
	B. Research Scope and Methodology	130
II.	The Present Conditions and Aspects of Discrimination of Temporary Employees	131
	A. The Present Conditions of Temporary Employees	131
	1. The Actual Situation of Temporary Employees	131
	2. The Actual Employment Situation and Main Peculiarity of the Temporary Employee Situation	132
	a. Necessity to Recognize the Actual Situation	132
	b. The Actual Situation of Labour and Management and the Category of Temporary employees	133
	i. The Actual Situation of Labour and Management and the Reasons behind the Increase of Temporary Employees	133
	ii. Reasons for the Difficulties of Conversion into Regular Employees	133
	iii. Main Characteristics of Temporary Employees	134
	B. Discrimination Problems of Temporary Employees	135
	1. Statement of the Problems	135
	2. Problems of Discrimination in Working Conditions (the Problems of Equal Pay for Work of Equal Value)	136
III.	Main Contents of the Irregular Workers Protection Law	136
	A. The Scope of Application and the Limitation of Employment Period in the Irregular Workers Protection Law	136
	1. Scope of Application in the Irregular Workers Protection Law	136
	2. Limitation of Employment Period in the Irregular Workers Protection Law	137
	3. Conversion into Workers under a Contract without a Fixed-Term	138
	B. Main Contents and Characteristics of the Application of the Discriminatory Prohibition Law to Irregular Workers	139
	1. Characteristics of the Application of the Discriminatory Prohibition Law to Irregular Workers	139

2.	Main Contents of the Discriminatory Prohibition Law as It Applies to Irregular Workers	140
a.	Act on the Protection, and So Forth, of Fixed-Term and Part-Time Employees	140
i.	The Significance of Article 8, Clause 1	140
ii.	The Examination of Article 8, Clause 1	141
iii.	The Significance of Article 8, Clause 2	141
iv.	Consideration on Article 18 of the Labor Standards Act	142
C.	Actual Management Situation and Evaluation of the Discrimination Correction System	143
1.	The Procedures of Discrimination Correction against Temporary Employees	143
2.	The Present Condition of Redress of Discrimination against Temporary Employees	143
3.	Evaluation	145
VI.	Problems with the Irregular Workers Protection Law and Their Solution	145
A.	Problems with the Discrimination Prohibition Regulation against a Fixed-Term and a Part-Time Employee	145
1.	Problems of the Discrimination Prohibition Regulation against a Fixed-Term Employee	145
B.	Solutions for a Fixed-Term Employee	146
1.	Fair Compensation for Work	146
2.	Prohibition of Intra-subcontract	147
3.	Relief System for Dismissal for Managerial Reasons (Solutions through the Structural Reform of Public Enterprise and Attracting Foreign Capital)	147
4.	Concrete Social Insurance System for the Protection of Temporary Employees	148
C.	Legal and Institutional Improvement Measures of the Discrimination Correction System	149
1.	Enlargement of the Scope of Workers Who Are Entitled to Application for Discrimination Correction	149
2.	Reinterpretation of the Application Period of Discrimination Correction and Discriminatory Treatment	150
3.	Simplification to Elucidate Concrete Reasons When Applying for Discrimination Correction	150
4.	Flexible Management of the Area of Discrimination Prohibition Subjects	150
5.	Omission of the Selection of Other Employees Compared with When the Discrimination Is Obvious	151
V.	Conclusion	151
	References	153

Chapter 8
Labour Policy on Fixed-Term Employment Contracts in Sweden	157
Mia Rönnmar
I.	Introduction 157
II.	Regulation of Fixed-Term Employment Contracts: Background and Historic Developments 158
III.	Current Regulation on Fixed-Term Employment Contracts 167
IV.	Concluding Remarks 172
Chapter 9
Laws and Practice of Fixed-Term Labour Contracts in Taiwan	175
Chih-Poung Liou
I.	Introduction 175
II.	Current Status Regarding Fixed-Term Contract Workers 176
III.	Laws Governing Fixed-Term Labour Contracts 178
	A. Civil Code and Factory Act 178
	B. Other Fixed-Term Contracts-Related Laws and Regulations 179
	1. Workers Hired under the Governmental Plan for Expanding Employment through Public Service 179
	2. Foreign Worker 179
	3. Gender Equality in Employment Act 180
	4. Military Service Act 180
	C. Labour Standards Act 180
	1. Provisions under the Current Act 180
	2. Definition and Determination of 'Continuous Work' 182
	3. Definitions of Temporary, Short-Term, Seasonal and Specific Works 184
	4. Mechanism That Mandatorily Converts a Fixed-Term Contract into a Non-fixed-Term Contract 186
	5. Comparison between a Fixed-Term Labour Contract and a Non-Fixed-Term Labour Contract 187
IV.	Direction of Reform of Laws on Fixed-Term Contracts 191
V.	Conclusion 195