

Contents

Notes on the authors	xi
Glossary	xxiii
Acknowledgements	xxvii

Introduction	1
Ideological conflict in Indonesian history	2
Conceptualising political thinking	7
The search for a political format, 1965–73	11
The New Order at its height, 1973–88	13
Tensions and contradictions: 1988–97	16
Crisis and reform: 1997–9	18
Legacies	21

PART I

The search for a political format, 1965–73	25
1 The organicist camp	27
1.1 Api: keep attacking them	30
1.2 Supersemar	31
1.3 Banning communism	33
1.4 Ali Moertopo: the dual function of the armed forces	34
1.5 Soeharto: Pancasila democracy	37
1.6 Abdulkadir Besar: the family state	41
1.7 Ali Moertopo: national political history	43
1.8 Ali Moertopo: the floating mass	45
1.9 Soeharto: democratic rights may not be used as masks	49
2 Modernising pluralism	56
2.1 Soemarno: a two-party system	59
2.2 Soelaiman Soemardi: the need for a progressive, independent force	64

2.3	A. Rahman Tolleng: voting and the composition of parliament	67
2.4	Kompas: the concept of the floating mass	70
2.5	Mahasiswa Indonesia: the holy anger of a generation	71
2.6	The White Group: boycott the elections	73
2.7	Arief Budiman: the moral force	74
2.8	Abadi v. Berita Yudha: polemic on the military's dual function	76
3	Marginalised Islam	82
3.1	Idham Chalid: protecting the umat	84
3.2	Hamka: the shocking draft bill on marriage	85
3.3	Nurcholish Madjid: Islam yes, Islamic parties no!	88
3.4	H.M.S. Mintaredja: development-oriented Islam	92
PART II
	The New Order at its height, 1973–88	95
4	Organicism ascendant	97
4.1	Soeharto: Muslims who fail to understand	99
4.2	Soeharto: Pancasila, the legacy of our ancestors	103
4.3	Ali Moertopo: Indonesianising Indonesians	110
4.4	The law on social organisations	112
4.5	Abdulkadir Besar: the armed forces must not take sides	115
5	Pluralist critiques	118
5.1	ITB Student Council: White Book of the Students' Struggle	120
5.2	The Petition of Fifty	126
5.3	Indonesian Legal Aid Institute: threats to NGOs in the bill on social organisations	128
5.4	H.R. Dharsono: the promise of the New Order betrayed	132
5.5	Abdurrahman Wahid: we can be Pancasilaists and liberals	136
6	Islam out in the cold	139
6.1	K.H. Hasbullah Bakry: critique of Pancasila democracy	141
6.2	Sjafruddin Prawiranegara: don't let Pancasila kill Islam	144
6.3	The Indonesian Muslim Students' Association: no more political engineering	148
6.4	Amir Biki: let me die for the Islamic world!	151
6.5	Abdurrahman Wahid: choices facing the Muslim middle class	155

PART III

Themes in the later New Order	159
7 Radicalism and new social movements	161
7.1 Setiakawan: the need for an independent trade union	163
7.2 Fazlur Akhmad: the Indonesian student movement – a force for radical social change?	167
7.3 Taufik Rahzen: anti-violence manifesto	170
7.4 SKEPHI: people-oriented forest management	172
7.5 Nursyahbani Katjasungkana: gender equality, a universal struggle	175
7.6 Wiji Thukul: a caution	179
7.7 People's Democratic Party: manifesto	179
8 'Political openness' and democratisation	185
8.1 Soemitro: aspiring to normal politics	188
8.2 Soeharto: openness	192
8.3 Gadjah Mada alumni: the state of emergency is over	195
8.4 Democratic Forum: rekindle society's critical capacity	197
8.5 LIPI: reforming the New Order	199
8.6 Megawati Soekarnoputri: an agenda for reform	203
8.7 Muhammad Shiddiq Al-Jawi: must Islam accept democracy?	207
9 State and society relations	212
9.1 Kopkamtib: intelligence test	215
9.2 W.S. Rendra: poem of an angry person	216
9.3 Iwan Fals: Bento	217
9.4 Marsillam Simanjuntak: speak out!	218
9.5 International NGO Forum on Indonesia: democracy and the right to organise	219
9.6 The Sirnagalih Declaration	223
9.7 Abdurrahman Wahid: Islam and the state in the New Order	224
9.8 Dawam Rahardjo: ICMI's vision	226
9.9 Y.B. Mangunwijaya: communists	230
10 Human rights and the rule of law	234
10.1 Hamid S. Attamimi: the separation of powers is alien to our constitution	237
10.2 Padmo Wahyono: Indonesian human rights	237
10.3 Harry Tjan Silalahi v. Adnan Buyung Nasution: human rights and the constitution	239

10.4	Harjono Tjitrosoebono: the concept of the integralist state hinders democracy	241
10.5	Budiono Kusumohamidjojo: the need for a reliable legal system	244
10.6	Juwono Sudarsono: the diplomatic scam called human rights	246
10.7	Indonesian NGOs for Democracy: joint declaration on human rights	248
10.8	Government of Indonesia: rights and obligations	250
11	Federalism, regionalism and the unitary state	255
11.1	Frans Seda: regional autonomy, a constitutional right	258
11.2	Manuel Kaisiepo: the trouble in Irian Jaya	260
11.3	Mohammad Daud Yoesoef: Aceh might still secede	263
11.4	Anonymous: if only I were free	265
11.5	Y.B. Mangunwijaya: federalism as an antidote to separatism	269
11.6	Major-General Sudrajat: federalism is not right for Indonesia	271
 PART IV
	Crisis and reform	275
12	Looking beyond the New Order	277
12.1	Amien Rais: succession in 1998 – an imperative	280
12.2	LIPI researchers: restore our dignity as a nation	282
12.3	People's Democratic Party: end the dictatorship!	284
12.4	Jakarta students: proposal for an Indonesian People's Committee	285
12.5	Emil Salim: total reform	288
12.6	Indonesian professionals: no justice and transparency, no tax	290
12.7	I. Sandyawan Sumardi: crimes against humanity	291
12.8	President B.J. Habibie: a new beginning	295
12.9	Media Indonesia: an ideology of tolerance	302
12.10	The armed forces: a new paradigm	303
12.11	Agus Wirahadikusumah: overhaul the military	306
	Bibliography	310
	Index	319