

CONTENTS

List of illustrations	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
Notes on Contributors	ix
Introduction Ann R. David, Michael Huxley and Sarah Whatley	1
1. Dance in UK Universities: Another World? Stephanie Jordan	5
2. Dance Studies in the UK 1974-1984: A Historical Consideration of the Boundaries of Research Michael Huxley	9
3. Intergenerational Dance Revival: The Multiple Contexts and Values of Revisiting Historical Dance Repertoire Christy Adair and Laura Griffiths	42
4. Youth Dance in Britain: A Hidden History Jayne Stevens and Linda Jasper	64
5. From Direct Action to Being There: The Ambiguous Politics of Community Dance and the Occupy Movement (A History of Resemblance) Ruth Pethybridge	81
6. Dance Studies in Brazilian Universities: Enhancing Dance Fields and Interrogating Dance Studies Geography Mônica Fagundes Dantas	105
7. Ambidexterity within the Professional Ballet World: Scottish Ballet's Dancers' Education Group (DEG) Bethany Whiteside, Holly Patrick and Catherine Cassidy	132

8. Dancing Critical Somatics – An Emancipatory Education for the Future?	154
Thomas Kampe in Dialogue with Glenna Batson
9. Towards a Deterritorialised Field of Dance	185
Carol Brown, Ruth Gibson and Jenny Roche
10. This is... where we are now	204
Sally Doughty and Pete Shenton
11. Dancing with Clio: History, Cultural Studies, Foucault, Phenomenology, and the Emergence of Dance Studies as a Disciplinary Practice	220
Helena Hammond
12. The Archival Turn in Dance/Studies: Reflections on (Corporeal) Archives and Documents	249
Susanne Foellmer
Index	273