

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Publication History	viii
Introduction	1
Part 1 Rethinking and Redirecting Classical Resources	17
1 Before “The Sacred” Became Theological: Rereading the Durkheimian Legacy	19
2 Durkheim’s Reconciliation of the Social and the Religious	33
3 Sacred Order	45
4 World	63
5 The Concept of World Habitation: Eliadean Linkages with a New Comparativism	81
Part 2 Some New Levels for Cross-Cultural Patterns	93
6 Elements of a New Comparativism	95
7 Universals Revisited: Human Behaviors and Cultural Variations	107
8 Theaters of Worldmaking Behaviors: Panhuman Contexts for Comparative Religion	121
9 Comparison in the Study of Religion	139
Part 3 Responses to Evolutionary Sciences	161
10 Connecting with Evolutionary Models: New Patterns in Comparative Religion?	163
11 Reappraising Durkheim for the Study and Teaching of Religion	177

12	The Prestige of the Gods: Evolutionary Continuities in the Formation of Sacred Objects	197
13	The History of Religions and Evolutionary Models: Some Reflections on Framing a Mediating Vocabulary	215
	Epilogue	229
	Notes	235
	Index	251