PART 1: CAN I SURVIVE?

My Story: The Doorbell Rings	11
What do I do with the feeling that I want to die to be with my child?	14
How can I live for the rest of my life with this much pain?	15
Will my tears ever stop?	17
Am I going crazy?	19
Will life ever feel worth living again?	21
How can I accept something so fundamentally, horribly unfair?	23
How can I function when my brain is in a fog, when I can't remember things or pay attention?	24
Will my body always feel so wracked with pain?	26
What if I can't "get over it" or "get on with life" the way others think I should?	27
What can I do about these recurring flashbacks?	29
What if I can't stop thinking about my child, or think I see him sometimes?	32
What if I find myself talking to my child?	34
How can anyone know how I feel?	36

How can I go on when I feel so estranged from the world, from others, from myself, when everything is so unreal?	38
What do I do with these feelings of bitterness?	39
How do I stop feeling so guilty?	42
How do I stop thinking "If only . . .?"	44
How do I cope with the terrible guilt and remorse over my child's suicide?	46
What do I do with all my anger?	49
How can I maintain my faith in God when I feel so angry?	51
What if faith is not an option?	53
Sometimes I imagine my child's presence. What do I make of this?	55

PART 2: WILL MY FAMILY SURVIVE?

My Story: Phone Calls	61
How can I be there for my other children when I'm so preoccupied and in such pain?	65
What do my other children need from me now?	67
What are the special issues siblings face?	70
What if my child doesn't want to speak of her brother or sister?	73
Will we ever get back to the way we were?	75
How can we cope with the changes in our family?	77
As a single parent, how can I cope with such a loss?	80
What do I do with this tremendous fear that something will happen to my other child?	82
We lost our only child. How do we create a future?	84
Will I ever be able to see or hear about other people's children without feeling jealous, angry, or resentful?	87
Will our marriage survive?	88
What if my partner and I are not in sync?	91
What are the special issues fathers face?	93

How can we feel sexual now?	96
How can we get through the holidays?	98
How do I share my feelings with others?	100
What do I do with these feelings of loneliness or separation, the feeling that no one else in the family understands?	102
How do I handle my parents' or other family members' different ideas about grieving?	105

PART 3: ONE YEAR AND BEYOND: WHERE AM I NOW?

My Story: Remembering Victor	109
How can I handle the first anniversary?	114
Who am I now?	116
Everyone expects me to be "better" after a year, but what if I don't feel better?	118
Should I still be feeling this sad?	120
What if my marriage doesn't survive?	122
Where am I finding strength?	125
How can I continue to help my children cope?	128
How do we keep our child as a part of our family?	130
How can I protect my health as grief takes its toll?	133
What if I find myself working, eating, or drinking too much?	135
What do I do when friends don't understand my feelings or needs?	137
What if my relationship to my child still feels unfinished?	139
How can I feel a psychic or spiritual connection with my child?	141
How can my dreams help me?	144
How is my relationship to my God changing?	146
How do I find a new sense of meaning and purpose in life?	148

PART 4:
AS THE YEARS GO BY,
WHAT CAN I EXPECT?

My Story: Windy Hill	153
When does the pain become bearable?	157
When is grieving finished?	160
What if I feel guilty about feeling better?	163
Will I begin to forget my child?	165
How can I keep my child with me over time?	167
What do I say when people ask how many children I have?	171
How do I handle the continuing feelings of grief and jealousy as I watch my friend's children grow?	173
What if depression and sadness still color my days?	175
What will strengthen my relationship with my partner now?	178
What is it like to be a single bereaved parent and thinking of a new relationship?	180
Who remembers my child?	183
How do I say good-bye to some old friends and hello to new ones?	185
How have I changed?	187
Will I be reunited with my child?	190
How have my feelings about death changed?	192
What makes my life worth living?	194
Poem: "We Remember Them," by Sylvan Kamens and Rabbi Jack Riemer, from The Union Prayer Book	199
 Appendix A: For Family and Friends: Wondering What to Do or Say?	 201
Should I call? How do I know what would be most helpful?	203
What do grieving people say helps the most?	205
