

Contents

Acknowledgments      VII
List of Figures      IX

Introduction: Why Czechs and Turks?      1

1    The Return of the “Terrible Turk”      26

    1    The Turkish Wars and Czech Variations on the Turkish Theme      32

    2    “The Turk” as a Proxy      39

    3    The Oppressors of Our Slavic Brethren      50

    4    The Turkish Race      57

    5    The Longevity of Stereotypes      62

    6    Conclusion      68

2    Czechs Abroad      70

    1    Getting Ready to Travel      77

    2    Entering the Orient      83

    3    Backward or Exotic?      88

    4    Turkish Men (To Say Nothing of the Dogs)      96

    5    Women      104

    6    The Turks and Others      110

    7    Conclusion      115

3    Civilizing the Slavic Muslims of Bosnia-Herzegovina      118

    1    What’s in a Name?      125

    2    The Orient at One’s Doorstep (Safe Even for Ladies)      133

    3    Occupation as Liberation      144

    4    Czech Colonial Ambitions      150

    5    Conclusion      155

4    “Our Mission in Oriental Studies”      159

    1    The Founding Fathers of Czech Oriental Studies      165

    2    Oriental Studies “as Translation”      170

    3    Finding a Voice of Their Own      180

    4    Scholars and Czech Society      190

    5    Conclusion      195

Conclusion: The New Republics 199Bibliography 211Index 236