

Editorial	1-2
Articles
Elizabeth Agnew: Sexting among Young People: Towards a Gender Sensitive Approach	3-30
Lovise Grape, Renee Thørnblad and Bjørn Helge Handegård: Children sharing Preferences on Contact and Residence Arrangements in Child-inclusive Family Mediation in Norway	31-53
Susana Sanz-Caballero: Towards a Uniform and Informed Interpretation of the Best Interests of the Child by the Judiciary: Inter-American and European Jurisprudence	54-77
Emmie Henderson-Dekort, Veronica Smits and Hedwig van Bakel: The Meaningful Participation and Complex Capacities of Children in Family Law	78-98
Natasha Kravchuk: Privacy as a New Component of “The Best Interests of the Child” in the New Digital Environment	99-121
Iselin Huseby-Lie, Øystein Sivertsen Sørvig and Ragnhild Dybdahl: Unregistered Children: a Systematic Literature Review of Explanations and Consequences Associated with Failure to Fulfil Children’s Right to Registration	122-147
Anthony Shuko Musiwa: A Rights-Based Approach to Child Poverty Measurement and Child Rights Realisation in Zimbabwe	148-198
Gamze Erdem Türkelli: Children’s Rights when Financing Development through Multilateral Development Banks: Mapping the Field and Looking Forward	199-238
Book Reviews
Jenny Krutzinna: Barbara Bennett Woodhouse, The Ecology of Childhood. How Our Changing World Threatens Children’s Rights	239-243
Manfred Liebel: Ingo Richter, Lothar Krappmann and Friederike Wapler (eds.), Kinderrechte. Handbuch des deutschen und internationalen Kinder- und Jugendrechts.	244-248
Noam Peleg: Lydia Bracken, Same-Sex Parenting and the Best Interests Principle	249-254