

Contents

08		Light and shadow of the kings of the sun
10		Acknowledgement
13		Maps
18		Chronological table
25	I.	Abusir Rediscovered
27	I.1	Abusir and its place in the history of ancient Egyptian civilisation
37	I.2	Abusir – consigned to oblivion and rediscovered
45	II.	Abusir as a Mirror of Ancient Egypt's History
47	II.1	The Kings of the Sun and their afterlife residences in Abusir
57	II.2	The royal pyramid necropolis in Abusir
87	II.3	The world of the non-royal tombs in Abusir
103	II.4	The solar cult and the sun temples during the Old Kingdom
125	II.5	“Little is known about the history of the necropolis at Abusir during Dynasties 7 to 17”
137	II.6	Abusir in the New Kingdom
145	II.7	Abusir in the first millennium BCE
157	II.8	Abusir during the Ptolemaic and Roman Period and in the late antiquity
167	III.	Life and Death in the Shadow of the Pyramids
169	III.1	Ludwig Borchardt at Abusir Pyramid Field
179	III.2	The gods of Abusir
191	III.3	Egyptian princesses in the Old Kingdom
205	III.4	Statues of Raneferef
221	III.5	Images for eternity – Old Kingdom elite sculptures from Abusir
233	III.6	Administrative papyrus archives
241	III.7	Burial equipment
257	III.8	Burials at Abusir
271	III.9	The pottery from Abusir
285	III.10	The pyramid complex of Sahura
295	III.11	From temple archives to burial chambers: texts in the tombs of priest Iufaa and general Menekhibnekau
303	III.12	Seeing the invisible – using new technologies to investigate the ancient Egyptian civilisation
315	III.13	Re-measuring the Fifth-Dynasty Abusir Pyramids
321	III.14	What do the remains of flora and fauna found in Abusir tell us?
333	III.15	Archaeological discoveries for the future – the restoration and reconstruction of monuments and finds in Abusir
347	III.16	What skeletal remains reveal about ancient Egypt's inhabitants
355		In conclusion
356		Abbreviations
357		Bibliography