

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

Preface xi

Introduction 1

1 The Desiring-Machines 11

Desiring-production 11

The body without organs 20

The subject and enjoyment 28

A materialist psychiatry 34

The machines 50

The whole and its parts 56

2 Psycho-Analysis and Familialism: The Holy Family 67

The imperialism of Oedipus 67

Three texts of Freud 73

The connective synthesis of production 86

The disjunctive synthesis of recording 93

The conjunctive synthesis of consumption-consummation 103

A recapitulation of the three syntheses 128

Social repression and psychic repression 136

Neurosis and psychosis 146

The process 155

3 Savages, Barbarians, Civilized Men 163

- The inscribing socius 163
- The primitive territorial machine 170
- The problem of Oedipus 179
- Psychoanalysis and ethnology 193
- Territorial representation 213
- The barbarian despotic machine 223
- Barbarian or imperial representation 231
- The Urstaat 251
- The civilized capitalist machine 257
- Capitalist representation 276
- Oedipus at last 301

4 Introduction to Schizoanalysis 313

- The social field 313
- The molecular unconscious 323
- Psychoanalysis and capitalism 337
- The first positive task of schizoanalysis 367
- The second positive task 387

Notes 435

Index 451