

Table of Contents

Foreword	v
Martti Koskenniemi
List of Contributors	xiii
1. Editors' Introduction Immi Tallgren and Thomas Skouteris	1
2. Unprecedents Gerry Simpson	12
3. Founding Moments and Founding Fathers: Shaping Publics through the Sentimentalization of History Narratives Kamari Maxine Clarke	30
4. From the Sentimental Story of the State to the Verbrecherstaat , Or, the Rise of the Atrocity Paradigm Lawrence Douglas	54
5. International Criminal Justice History Writing as Anachronism: The Past that Did Not Lead to the Present Frédéric Mégret	72
6. Redeeming Rape: Berlin 1945 and the Making of Modern International Criminal Law Heidi Matthews	90
7. 'Voglio una donna!': On Rewriting the History of International Criminal Justice with the Help of Women Who Perpetrated International Crimes Immi Tallgren	110
8. Writing More Inclusive Histories of International Criminal Law: Lessons from the Slave Trade and Slavery Emily Haslam	130
9. The 'Africa Blue Books' at Versailles: The First World War, Narrative, and Unthinkable Histories of International Criminal Law Christopher Gevers	145
10. Crimes Against Humanity: Racialized Subjects and Deracialized Histories Vasuki Nesiah	167
11. Nazi Atrocities, International Criminal Law, and Soviet War Crimes Trials: The Soviet Union and the Global Moment of Post-Second World War Justice Franziska Exeler	189

12. Theodor Meron and the Humanization of International Law Aleksi Peltonen	220
13. Histories of the Jewish 'Collaborator': Exile, Not Guilt Mark Drumbl	237
Index	253