

Contents

---

Preface and Acknowledgements	vii
1 The Natures of Nature	1
Interpretations and representations of 'nature':
towards a historical nature	3
Diagnoses of the intellectual roots of misconduct	10
The role of ideas	12
The emergence of a feeling for nature	13
The study of nature: enter environmental history	17
2 Ancient Greece and Rome	23
Ancient processes of environmental change	24
Classical attitudes to nature and the natural world	26
3 The Middle Ages	40
The stages of the English natural world's recession	42
The medieval woods: from historical ecology
to social history	46
The contribution of Christianity	48
The Franciscan alternative	52
Medieval approaches to nature	55
4 The Advent of Modernity	67
The repercussions of Renaissance humanism	68

The scientific revolution	70
Theological consequences of scientific innovation	78
5 The World Beyond Europe	82
American Indians and ecological sainthood	84
Aboriginal transformations of the natural world	92
Nature and Asian religious traditions	95
Conservation and colonialism, ecology and empire	100
Nature and nationalism	104
6 Nature as Landscape	110
Nature enclosed	111
Nature as landscape of leisure: eighteenth-century parks and gardens	114
The pastoral illusion	120
7 Reassessments of Nature: Romantic and Ecological	125
The solid ground of nature	126
Mountain glory	129
The limits of Romanticism	134
Darwinism, ecology and nature	139
8 The Disunited Colours of Nature	145
Nature, capitalism and socialism	146
The greening of socialism	152
The British 'green' tradition and nature as outdoor amenity	155
Nature beyond the left	162
9 The Future of Nature	173
The mortality of the earth and the end of nature	174
Tampering with the essence: biotechnology	178
The nature of animals	179
The postmodernist challenge	184
The 'new' ecology	186
The old nature	188
Notes	192
Index	240