

Contents

Introduction	1
Jochen Böhler, Ota Konrád, and Rudolf Kučera
Chapter 1. The Baltikumer : Collective Violence and German Paramilitaries after 1918	10
Mathias Voigtmann
Chapter 2. Pogroms and Imposture: The Violent Self-Formation of Ukrainian Warlords	28
Christopher Gilley
Chapter 3. Toward an Interactional Theory of Sexual Violence: The White Terror in Hungary, 1919–1921	45
Béla Bodó
Chapter 4. The Many Lives of Mrs. Hamburger: Gender, Violence, and Counterrevolution, 1919–1930	65
Emily R. Gioielli
Chapter 5. “A Little Murderous Party”: Poland after World War I in the Works of Joseph Roth	89
Winson Chu
Chapter 6. Suicide Discourses: The Austrian Example in an International Context from World War I to the 1930s	107
Hannes Leidinger
Chapter 7. The “Healthy Nerves” of the Nation: War Neuroses in Austria-Hungary and its Successor States	123
Maciej Górny
Chapter 8. Forging a “Winning Spirit”: The North American YMCA and the Czechoslovak Army, 1918–1921	142
Ondřej Matějka

Chapter 9. When the Defeated Become Victorious: Averting Violence with Football in Post-1918 Romania Cătălin Parfene	163
Afterword: The End of the Great War and Postwar Problems Boris Barth	183