

CONTENTS

About the author	7
Author's Preface	9
Introduction	11
Definitions of basic concepts for the purposes of this publication	13
1. Politics of public relations - genesis	19
1.1 Shaman, king and cardinal	19
1.2 Politics, a public matter	20
1.3 Modern society and the new elite	21
1.4 The birth of public relations	23
1.5 War propaganda and the Great War	25
1.6 E. L Bernays, the father of public relations	27
1.6.1 Engineering public consent	27
1.6.2 Revolution, bananas and the CIA	29
1.6.3 Propaganda, affluence and democracy	31
1.7 Joseph Goebbels – Lord of the ideas of the Third Reich	33
1.7.1 Film, Nazism and political propaganda	35
1.7.2 Der Ewige Jude (The Eternal Jew)	37
1.7.3 Jud Süs (Jew Suss)	39
1.8 Propaganda and public relations	42
1.8.1 Propaganda in history	43
1.8.2 Propaganda, truth and education	45
1.8.3 Propaganda, its classification and characterization	46
1.8.4 Argumentation and rhetorical manipulation - techniques	47
2. Public relations – theory and practice	51
2.1 Definition of public relations	51
2.1.1 Public relations and public opinion	52
2.1.2 Public relations, social control and the hegemony of elites	53
2.1.3 Public relations and ideology	54
2.1.4 Public relations and propaganda	56
2.1.5 Public relations and ethics	57
2.1.6 Public relations and psychological operations	58
2.1.7 Public relations and PR agencies	60
2.1.8 Public relations and marketing	62
2.1.9 Public relations and advertising	64
2.1.10 Public relations and marketing communications	65
2.2 The regulation of information flow	66
2.2.1 Public relations and publicity	66
2.2.2 Public relations and streamlining information	67
2.2.3 Active public relations	69
2.2.4 Reactive public relations	73

2.3	Interest-conditioned communication	73
2.3.1	Public relations, information sources and communication channels	76
2.3.1.1	How and where to deliver	80
2.4	Public relations and the mass media	88
2.4.1	Mass media and modern society	88
2.4.2	Information filters	90
2.4.3	Information filters, PR tactics and strategies	93
2.4.4	The critical school and the hegemony of elites	93
2.4.5	Dominant sources and information monopoly	94
2.4.6	Cultural imperialism	96
2.4.7	Liberal competition paradigm	98
2.4.8	Chaotic flow and the onset of the new hegemony	99
2.4.9	The social function of the mass media	101
2.4.10	Basic influences on media and journalistic output	102
2.4.11	Audiences and the effect of mass media	109
2.4.12	The effect of the mass media on individuals	111
3.	Public relations and political practice	117
3.1	The power elite and public relations	117
3.1.1	The power elite and the political class	118
3.1.2	The circulation of elites and the theory of elites	120
3.2	Political propaganda and the manufacture of consent	123
3.2.1	Political propaganda and authority	123
3.2.1.1	Authority and pandemic	124
3.2.2	Political propaganda and front organizations	131
3.2.3	Political propaganda and policy institutes	134
3.2.4	Political propaganda and the manipulation of information	137
3.2.4.1	Wagging the dog	145
3.2.4.2	Sex, lies and aggression	146
3.2.5	Political propaganda and the shaping of public opinion	148
3.2.6	Political propaganda and the picture of the enemy	151
3.2.7	Public relations and political speech	154
4.	Case Studies	159
4.1	PR and US missile defence in Eastern Europe (Act I)	159
4.1.1	The missile base, the general public and the manufacture of consent	162
4.1.2	US missile defence base and the Czech government's public relations	163
4.1.3	Wagging the radar – general public gets active	166
4.2	PR and US missile defence in Eastern Europe (Act II)	169
4.3	Public relations and regional war	170
4.3.1	Russia – Georgian war for South Ossetia	171
4.3.1.1	GPlus versus Aspect Consulting	171
4.3.1.2	PR policy and international public opinion	172
4.3.1.3	Fox News, mistakes happen	175
4.3.1.4	War in film, Olympus Inferno vs. Georgia	177
4.3.2	Operation Cast Lead in the Gaza Strip	178
4.3.2.1	The loss of innocence, PR machinery coming to a halt	180
4.3.2.2	Loss of fear and PR failure	181
	Conclusion	183
	Sources	185