

CONTENTS

FOREWORD	7
Acknowledgments	10
Summary	11
1. FROM THE "INVISIBLE HAND" OF THE MARKET TO THE WORLD TRADE	12
1.1 Supply and demand in individual markets	12
1.1.1 The law of supply and shifts of the supply curve.....	12
1.1.2 The law of demand and shifts of the demand curve	14
1.1.3 Market equilibrium	16
1.1.4 Perfect and imperfect competition. Four market structures	22
1.2 Elasticity	25
1.2.1 Price elasticity of demand and supply	25
1.2.2 Income elasticity of demand.....	29
1.2.3 Cross-price elasticity	29
1.3 The role of foreign trade in the country's economic performance.....	30
1.3.1 Opportunity cost	31
1.3.2 The principle of comparative advantage	31
1.3.3 Comparative advantage in international trade	32
1.4 The world trade in goods and services.....	34
1.4.1 The growing volume of the world trade.....	34
1.4.2 The territorial structure of the world trade	38
1.4.3 The commodity structure of the world exports	42
2. THE CONCEPT OF GOODS AND SERVICES MARKETS	45
2.1 Characteristics of goods and services markets	45
2.1.1 Definition of goods and services markets.....	45
2.1.2 Classification of goods and services markets	46
2.1.3 Variability of goods and services markets	47
2.1.4 Competing goods and services markets	50
2.2 Main indicators in goods and services markets	50
2.2.1 Indicators as the main tool for the business cycle analysis.....	50
2.2.2 Indicators of output, consumption and inventories of specific goods or services	52
2.2.3 Indicators of foreign trade in specific goods and services	54
2.3 Prices of goods and services in international trade	56
2.3.1 Sources of price information	56
2.3.2 Types of prices in international trade.....	57
2.3.3 Price changes in international trade.....	61
2.3.4 Consequences of price changes in international trade	62
2.3.5 International comparison of value indicators	63

3. BUSINESS CYCLE FACTORS	64
3.1 Basic Concepts	64
3.1.1 The course of the business cycle	64
3.1.2 Significance of business cycle factors analysis.....	65
3.1.3 Aspects of business cycle factors.....	65
3.2 Classification of business cycle factors	65
3.2.1 Main criteria for classification of business cycle factors	65
3.2.2 Four main groups of factors for business cycle analysis.....	67
3.2.3 Factors which significantly influence individual goods and services markets.....	71
3.3 Mutual dependence of business cycle factors.....	76
3.3.1 Relations between business cycle factors.....	76
3.3.2 Factors with the dominant role in goods and services markets.....	78
4. GOODS AND SERVICES MARKETS AND THE GLOBAL BUSINESS CYCLE	81
4.1 Impact of global business cycle on goods and services markets	81
4.1.1 Main factors influencing the impact of global business cycle on goods and services markets	81
4.1.2 Development of goods and services markets related to the business cycle of the global economy	83
4.1.3 Goods and services markets contrary to the business cycle of the global economy	85
4.1.4 Goods and services markets not sensitive to the business cycle of the global economy	86
4.2 Mutual goods and services markets.....	87
4.2.1 Link of business cycle of a good or a service market with other goods and services markets.....	87
4.2.2 Goods and services markets with the continuity in the production process	89
4.2.3 Substitute markets.....	89
4.2.4 Markets for complements.....	91
APPENDIX.....	93
1. The Average Growth Rate	95
1.1 The Application of the geometric mean.....	95
1.2 Definition and computation of the geometric mean	95
1.3 A crucial property of the geometric mean.....	96
1.4 A simple way of computation of the average growth rate	97
1.5 Pitfalls of the average growth rate	97
1.6 The average growth rate in the long run	99
1.7 Tricks with the compound annual growth rate – the gross domestic product of the Czech Republic as an example.....	101

2. Index Numbers	105
2.1 Definition of index numbers.....	105
2.2 Selection of the base period.....	106
2.3 Conversion of base-type indexes into chain-type indexes and vice versa	108
2.4 Decomposition of aggregate indexes	108
List of Figures	110
List of Tables	112
REFERENCES	113
INDEX.....	118