

CONTENTS

Abbreviations . . . . .	viii
Introduction . . . . .	ix
PART ONE: THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE PRIMACY
IN THE FIRST FIVE CENTURIES. . . . .	1
I. Stating the Problem: Preliminary Questions and Answers . . . . .	1
II. The Religious and Spiritual Significance of the Roman Church . . . . .	4
III. Rome as Privileged Locus of Tradition . . . . .	7
1. Individual Witnesses . . . . .	8
2. Acceptance of Responsibility for the Whole Church . . . . .	11
3. But in the Long Run . . . . .	14
IV. Rome as Center of Communio . . . . .	17
1. The Early Church as Communio ecclesiarum . . . . .	17
2. From the Third Century Onward: Rome's Prominence within the Solidarity of the Whole Church . . . . .	18
3. Turning Point: Constantine . . . . .	21
4. The Arian Controversy and Bishop Julius of Rome: The Universal Church Closes Ranks against Regional Autonomy . . . . .	22
5. The Synod of Sardica: Rome Assumes the Task of Supervision . . . . .	24
6. Rome as Refuge in Critical Situations . . . . .	26
V. From Center of Communio to Leadership of the Whole Church . . . . .	28
1. Further Development of the Roman Concept of Primacy . . . . .	28
2. Background: Roma christiana . . . . .	31
3. To What Extent Was the Roman Claim Recognized? . . . . .	32
4. Theological Assessment of the Development of the Idea of Primacy in the First Five Centuries . . . . .	36

PART TWO: DIFFERENCES IN THE UNIFYING FUNCTION OF PAPAL PRIMACY IN EAST AND WEST . . . . .	41
I. Primacy and Imperial Church Structures, 400–900 . . . . .	41
1. The Test Case: The Councils of Ephesus II (449) and Chalcedon (451) . . . . .	42
2. The Constellations of Authority after Chalcedon . . . . .	46
3. Church Unity: Rifts and Restorations . . . . .	51
4. Did the East Ever Recognize a Roman Primacy? . . . . .	59
II. Primacy in the Emerging West . . . . .	61
1. Primacy and the Autonomous Regional Churches in the Political and Ecclesiastical Context of the Early Middle Ages . . . . .	61
2. German Inculturation: Roman Tradition as the Guarantor of “Correct” Church Procedures . . . . .	63
3. Primacy and the Collapse of Episcopal-Synodal Structures . . . . .	68
4. Prima sedes a nemine iudicatur : The Development and Limitations of a Principle . . . . .	73
PART THREE: THE PAPACY AS HEAD OF THE MEDIEVAL CHURCH AND CHRISTIANITY . . . . .	78
I. The Historical Background . . . . .	79
1. Libertas ecclesiae . . . . .	80
2. The World of the Cities and the New Mobility . . . . .	82
3. The World of State Sovereignty and National Differentiation . . . . .	84
II. Stages of the Concept of Papal Primacy . . . . .	85
1. Gregory VII (1073–1085) and the Reformers of His Period . . . . .	85
2. Bernard of Clairvaux . . . . .	89
3. Innocent III (1198–1216) . . . . .	91
4. Innocent IV (1243–1254) and the Theorists of Absolute Papal Monarchy . . . . .	93
III. Primacy in Relation to Councils and Bishops . . . . .	95
1. The Resumption of Councils . . . . .	96
2. From Election to Appointment of Bishops . . . . .	97
IV. The Crisis of Primacy in the Late Middle Ages . . . . .	100
1. The Papal Schism . . . . .	100
2. Conciliarism . . . . .	102
3. The Councils of Pisa (1409), Constance (1414–1418), and Basel (1431–1449) . . . . .	106
4. The Problems with the Decree Haec sancta . . . . .	111
Excursus 1: Primacy and the Separation from the Eastern Church: The Council of Florence . . . . .	114
Excursus 2: Origins of the Doctrine of Papal Infallibility . . . . .	117

PART FOUR: PRIMACY AS A MARK OF CONFESSIONAL IDENTITY IN THE MODERN ERA . . . . .	128
I. From the Reformation to the Enlightenment . . . . .	128
1. The Strengthening of Papal Authority in the Post-Tridentine Period . . . . .	129
2. Centrifugal Counterforces . . . . .	133
II. From the French Revolution to Vatican I . . . . .	143
1. The Impact of the French Revolution . . . . .	144
2. The Victory of Ultramontanism . . . . .	147
III. The First Vatican Council . . . . .	155
1. Factors and Forces . . . . .	155
2. Tendencies and Positions . . . . .	157
3. The Outcome and Historical Importance of Vatican I . . . . .	162
IV. After 1870: Is There a Future? . . . . .	166
1. Between Vatican I and Vatican II . . . . .	167
2. The New Accents of Vatican II and the Lack of Integration . . . . .	169
CONCLUDING REFLECTIONS . . . . .	175
TEXTS . . . . .	184
1. Irenaeus of Lyons, Adversus haereses 3.3.1-2 . . . . .	184
2. The Canons of Sardica 3, 4, 5 (343) . . . . .	185
3. Gregory VII, Dictatus papae (1075) . . . . .	185
4. The Council of Constance, Decree Haec sancta (April 6, 1415) . . . . .	186
5. The Council of Florence, Formula of Primacy . . . . .	188
6. The Four Gallican Articles, Declaration of the Clergy of France (March 19, 1682) . . . . .	188
7. Papal Primacy of Jurisdiction and Papal Infallibility According to Vatican I (1870) . . . . .	189
8. Episcopal Collegiality and Papal Infallibility According to Vatican II ( Lumen gentium 22) . . . . .	190
INDEX OF SUBJECTS . . . . .	192