

Contents

List of figures	viii
Acknowledgements	xiii
About the authors	xiv
Introduction	1
1 Geopoetics in context	9
2 Seeing, listening, acting	30
3 Deep mapping and slow residency	50
4 A call to action: reclaiming habitats through creative eco-social collaborations	75
5 Perception and cultural memories of place	100
6 Creative communities of practice: towards an ecosophical understanding of collaboration	121
7 Emergent practices	141
8 On the curation of landscapes and volcanoes	166
9 The slow pursuit of fidelity	189
10 'Fieldwork', reconsidered	209
Bibliography	223
Index	237