

Contents

Contributors	page vii
Preface	xiii

Introduction: between exploitation and respectful coexistence	1
Raymond Corbey and Annette Lanjouw

Part I Moving beyond speciesism

1	Who lives, who dies, and why? How speciesism undermines compassionate conservation and social justice	15
	Marc Bekoff
2	The rights of sentient beings: moving beyond old and new speciesism	27
	Joan Dunayer
3	Indexically yours: why being human is more like being here than like being water	40
	David Livingstone Smith
4	Apeism and racism: reasons and remedies	53
	Edouard Machery
5	“Race” and species in the post-World War II United Nations discourse on human rights	67
	Raymond Corbey
6	Addressing the animal–industrial complex	77
	Richard Twine

Part II Sentience and agency

7	Humans, dolphins, and moral inclusivity	95
	Lori Marino
8	The expression of grief in monkeys, apes, and other animals	106
	Barbara J. King

9	Great ape mindreading: what's at stake?	115
	Kristin Andrews
10	Intersubjective engagements without theory of mind: a cross-species comparison	120
	Daniel Hutto
11	"Unnatural behavior": obstacle or insight at the species interface?	141
	Lucy Birkett and William McGrew
12	Animals as persons in Sumatra	156
	Jet Bakels
13	Interspecies love: being and becoming with a common ant, Ectatomma ruidum (Roger)	164
	Eben Kirksey
Part III Toward respectful coexistence
14	Social minds and social selves: redefining the human–alloprimate interface	179
	Agustín Fuentes
15	The human–macaque interface in the Sulawesi Highlands	189
	Erin Riley
16	The fabric of life: linking conservation and welfare	197
	Annette Lanjouw
17	Home flocks: deindustrial domestications on the coop tour	206
	Molly Mullin
18	Entangled empathy: an alternative approach to animal ethics	223
	Lori Gruen
19	Extending human research protections to non-human animals	232
	Hope Ferdowsian and Chong Choe
20	The capacity of non-human animals for legal personhood and legal rights	241
	Steven Wise
	Afterword	246
	Jon Stryker
	References	249
	Index	284