

Contents

List of contributors	vii
Preparing a written, codified Constitution for New Zealand: is there a need that can be met?	ix
SIR GEOFFREY PALMER QC
Table of cases	xxiii
Table of legislation	xxvi
Introduction: The space between ordinary and constitutional law	1
RICHARD ALBERT AND JOEL I. COLÓN-RÍOS
PART I
Forms	11
The comparative examination of (quasi-)constitutional statutes—an unstable discourse	13
CLAUDIA GEIRINGER
1 The rise and recognition of constitutional statutes	27
SCOTT STEPHENSON
2 How to identify quasi-constitutional legislation? An example from Chile	45
SERGIO VERDUGO
3 Exploring constitutional statutes in common law systems	64
RIVKA WEILL
PART II
Functions	87
Unearthing the ‘constitutional’ in quasi-constitutionality	89
ORAN DOYLE

4	Quasi-constitutionality and the Treaty of Waitangi: historicity and the political	94
	MARK HICKFORD
5	Quasi-constitutionality in Canada and the weak-form model of constitutionalism and judicial review	117
	JOHN HELIS
6	Quasi-constitutional amendments	135
	RICHARD ALBERT
7	Reflecting and building asymmetries: the role of (sub-)constitutional statutes in Spain and the UK	156
	NIKOS SKOUTARIS
8	Quasi-constitutionality in armed conflict detention	176
	JONATHAN HAFETZ
PART III
	Applications	195
	Quasi-constitutionality and the constitutional jigsaw puzzle: characteristics, directionality and purpose	197
	DEAN R. KNIGHT
9	Constitutionally obligatory legislation: a case study in legal constitutionalism	204
	LAEL K. WEIS
10	Quasi-constitutionalism and informal legislative entrenchment: a case study: The case of the Affordable Care Act	224
	SOFIA RANCHORDÁS
11	Quasi-entrenched living statutes: creating a multicultural rights regime	242
	FRANCISKA COLEMAN
12	The quasi-constitutionality of non-statutory law: executive constitutional interpretation in Japan	261
	JAMES C. FISHER
	Index	279