

Contents

List of Figures, Tables and Boxes	viii
Preface and Acknowledgements	xi
1 Why Elections?	1
Political parties	1
Functions of elections	4
The turnout paradox	6
Limitations of elections	7
Recurring themes	10
Voters, electorates, parties and party systems	12
The axis of political competition and the median voter	13
Representation	14
Electoral change	15
Topics	18
Countries	21
Institutional arrangements	21
Voters and the puzzle of the ignorant electorate	24
Plan of the book	25
2 Studying Elections, Parties and Voters	27
The political context: party systems	27
The institutional context	29
Problems of parliamentary government	34
Problems of presidential systems	38
Government formation	39
How elections condition coalition bargaining	41
Institutional influences on the structure of political life	44
Habits and routines	46
Socialization, immunization and party identification	49
Preferences and choice	53
Institutional change	56
3 Electoral Institutions	58
Free and fair elections	58
Votes and outcomes	59

Electoral rules	63
Trade-offs in designing an electoral system	69
Electoral reform	71
Rules of the game for government formation	74
The role of the voters	78
The majoritarian and proportional visions	81
Dispersed versus concentrated power	83
Presidents and monarchs in parliamentary systems	84
4 Voters and Parties	87
Party identification	87
Age, immunization and generational differences	89
Group loyalties	92
The decline of cleavage politics	95
The rise of issue voting	98
Long-term changes in electoral competition	101
Strategic considerations	103
The role of the Prime Minister in parliamentary regimes	108
Tactical voting	109
Candidate evaluations	113
Implications	114
5 Outcomes of Elections	118
Consequences of electoral shifts	119
Incumbency and term limits	121
Accountability	123
Fairness in election outcomes	125
Trade-offs between proportional and majoritarian systems	127
Bias in election outcomes	129
Turnout and bias	130
Protest voting	131
The structuring effects of strategic considerations	136
Split-ticket voting, 'balance' and mid-term loss	138
Consequences of party positions	140
Leadership	143
Learning from elections	144
6 The Role of Public Opinion	146
Ways of studying public opinion	146
Why do people hold the opinions that they do?	147
The puzzle of the ignorant electorate	154
From issues to issue spaces	157

The issue space and proximity (smallest distance) theory	161
Party competence and issue ownership	166
The directional theory of party support	168
The responsiveness of public opinion	170
The swing of the pendulum	174
A sophisticated electorate?	177
7 Voter Orientations	179
The decline of partisanship	179
Generational replacement and electoral change	182
Political change and political realignments	183
The hand of the past	187
The dynamics of generational replacement	189
Events and economic news	194
Studying party preferences	194
What accounts for preferences?	199
Mandates versus accountability (prospective versus retrospective voting)	207
Effects on preferences in newly established and consolidating democracies	208
8 Assessing Electoral Democracy	213
Representing citizens' preferences	213
Do elections matter?	220
What we have learned	222
The quality of electoral processes	223
Evaluating the institutional arrangements for electoral democracy	228
What role for electoral democracy?	232
Possibilities for reform	234
A work in progress	239
Appendix: Use of Statistical Analysis	240
Notes	247
Guide to Further Reading	252
Bibliography	265
Author Index	292
Subject Index	298