

Contents

Notes on contributors	vii
1 Introduction	1
PART I
The theoretical nexus democracy – secession	7
2 An update on secession as the “ultimate right”: For a liminal legality	9
COSTANZA MARGIOTTA
3 Secession v forceful union: A provisional enquiry into the right to decide to secede and the obligation to belong	29
JOXERRAMON BENGOTXEA
4 A critique of the theory of democratic secession	49
CARLOS CLOSA
5 Decide on what? Addressing secessionist claims in an interdependent Europe	62
DANIEL INNERARITY AND ANDER ERRASTI
PART II
The instruments of the theory of democratic secession	85
6 Constitutionalists’ guide to the populist challenge: Lessons from Canada	87
GIUSEPPE MARTINICO

7	Sovereignty referendums: A question of majority?: Or how “majority” actually begs numerous questions	105
	STÉPHANE BEAULAC
8	Independence referendums: History, legal status and voting behaviour	133
	MATT QVORTRUP
PART III
	Non-institutional actors	153
9	The framing of secessionism in the neo-liberal crisis: The Scottish and Catalan cases	155
	DONATELLA DELLA PORTA, FRANCIS O’CONNOR AND MARTÍN PORTOS
10	The Europeanization of the Catalan debate: A “war of attrition”?	173
	MATTIA GUIDI AND MATTIA CASULA
PART IV
	Case studies	193
11	On Brexit and secession(s)	195
	NIKOS SKOUTARIS
12	An attempt to disentangle the Crimean impasse	213
	LUIGI CREMA
	Index	229