

Contents

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Introduction  | 9   |
| Acknowledgments   | 11  |
| Foreword  | 15  |
| 1. How the Kabbalah can be relevant to people today.  | 35  |
| 2. Maharal - MORENU HA RAV - OUR TEACHER AND OUR RABBI -Judah ben Bezalel - The High Rabbi of Prague -The greatest personality in Czech Judaism (1525-1609) | 62  |
| 3. Some Aspects of the Religious Philosophy of the Maharal  | 68  |
| 4. Some aspects of the philosophies of Heidegger and Levinas  | 113 |
| 5. Kabbalah as an Infinite Encounter between God and Man  | 128 |
| 6. Face and Infinity in Emmanuel Levinas and in the Kabbalah  | 140 |
| 7. Judaism and Love   | 155 |
| 8. The influence of Gnosticism and Platonism on the Kabbalah  | 180 |
| 9. Neoplatonic influences on three Spanish Jewish poets.  | 200 |
| 10. Longing for God and Zion in the poems of Judah Haleviconfronting the suffering of the Jewish people   | 226 |
| 11. The Possibility of Redemption   | 244 |
| 12. Exile and Evil  | 264 |
| 13. Why do the Jewish people have to suffer so much?Unde malum? Where is the origin of evil according to kabbalisticsources?                                | 295 |
| 14. The Messianic idea in Judaism   | 330 |

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| 15. Solomon ibn Gabirol's yearning for God             | 366 |
| 16. Gleanings from Modern Hebrew Poetry and Philosophy | 387 |