

Contents

List of figures	10
List of tables	12
List of boxes	13
Abbreviations	17
Preface	21
Introduction	25
Development cooperation in an era of globalisation	31
More and more new actors on the scene: is the sector still a community?	34
Big donors, generous donors	39
More conflicting views and approaches: the arena is getting tough	46
More transactional interests: market appeal	50
Do new donors have other interests?	56
Everybody from payers to players: the emergence of a new paradigm	61
From colonialism to the Sustainable Development Goals	65
Colonial warm-up exercises	65
Technical cooperation and knowledge transfer	70
Faith in development aid	72
Development cooperation: aid in a global setting	76
The Washington Consensus and structural adjustments	79
International cooperation, the Millennium Development Goals and the Sustainable Development Goals	80
Addressing poverty in exchange for debt relief	84
International development cooperation and Paris: introducing order to the community and the market	88
The SDGs and the need for a whole-of-government and whole-of-society approach	92

It takes two to tango	99
Internationally: among specialists	99
Recipient countries: donor darlings and donor orphans	104
The first pillar: official bilateral cooperation	115
Many small players and institutional pluralism	115
In search of an institutional foundation for development cooperation	119
Decentralisation: to reach the SDGs or also for other reasons?	121
The second pillar: multilateral cooperation	127
Europe's development cooperation patchwork	128
Multilateral cooperation: the UN galaxy fans out further	144
The third pillar: non-governmental development organisations	163
A movement with many faces, roles, visions and strategies	164
Several generations of NGDOs	169
A sector with many different visions and strategies	172
A movement with a plural support base	180
The sector breaks free from the NGDOs	182
Is the new social movement becoming an established network movement?	184
The fourth pillar: towards a whole-of-society approach	187
The key players of the fourth pillar	189
The fourth pillar: the children of globalisation challenge the children of the North-South	223
Starting from a different field	226
From a level 'telling' field to joint action	227
The near and distant future of a whole-of-society approach	230
Humanitarian aid: more dispersed or more networked?	233
What place for emergency aid?	238
Overcoming the humanitarian nemesis	241
Cash-and-carry on the market	244

The unbearable lightness of the support for development cooperation	247
The uneasy relationship with the support base	247
No (more) aid fatigue?	248
Popular, yet little understood	250
Something needs to be done: but by whom?	251
Time for a new narrative: from development education towards education for global citizenship	253
Sixty years of international development cooperation: where has the bumpy road led us?	261
Progress, but not for everyone	262
Is aid future-proof?	266
Are we really that generous?	268
Who is receiving aid?	269
The effectiveness and impact of development cooperation	271
Development cooperation: a stumbling-block?	279
Conclusion: the past will not come back but is still there	285
Notes	293
Bibliography	299