

Contents

88	Europe Emerges	1
88	The New Invaders: Arab, Magyar, and Magyar	1
	The New Invaders: The Vikings	1
	King Alfred's Defeat and the Birth of England	1
	The Emergence of "National" France	1
	The Problem of "National" Germany	1
	Salisbury's Revolution	1
	101: The English and the Normans	1
	1066: The Vikings, Normans, and the Normans	1
Maps and Illustrations		viii
Preface: Marking Time		ix
Prologue: Europa: Myth and Landscape		1
PART I LATE MEDITERRANEAN ANTIQUITY AND EARLY NORTHERN EUROPE		11
1 The Beginning and End of the Roman Peace		11
The Empire of Rome From Republic to Principate	11
The Invention of the Emperor: From First Citizen
to Lord of the World	14
Roman Society: Free and Slave	19
Trajan's Column and Hadrian's Travels	23
Gallia and Germania	27
The Third-Century Crisis	31
Diocletian and Constantine: Reform and Recovery	35
2 Religion and Society in Late Antiquity		39
Gods of the House, Communities, and Individuals	39
Judaism in Palestine and the Diaspora	43
The Emergence of Christianity	46
Spirit and Flesh, Body and Gender	49
Conversion and Opposition	51
Orthodoxy and Heterodoxy: Normative Christianity	53
Christians Abandon the World: Hermits and Monks	56
Christians Order the World: Emperors and Bishops	59
3 The Roman and Other Worlds Transformed		67
Old Rome and New Rome: The Founding of Constantinople	67
Migrants and Invaders	71
The World of Galla Placidia Augusta	74
The Age of Theoderic: Ostrogoths, Franks, and Visigoths
in the Western Empire	77
Boethius and Cassiodorus	82
The Empire and the World	85

PART II	TWO HEIRS OF THE ROMAN WORLD	88
4	The Making of Byzantine Civilization	88
	Power and Devotion in the East Roman Empire, 450–527	88
	The Emperor Who Never Sleeps	92
	The City	97
	The Age of Heraclius	101
	From the East Roman to the Byzantine Empire, 627–718	103
5	The House of Islam and the House of War	107
	The Arab Peoples and the Roman and Persian Worlds	107
	The Messenger	109
	Islam	110
	The Protectors of the Faith and the Spread of Islam	113
	Jihad	115
	Sunnis and Shiites	116
	The Umayyad Dynasty at Damascus	118
	The Abbasid Caliphate in Baghdad	120
	Islamic Civilization	121
PART III	THE EXPANDING LATIN WEST, 550–950	124
6	Rome and the West	124
	Italy in the Sixth and Seventh Centuries	124
	God's Consul	126
	The Desert in the West: Monks, Missionaries, and Culture	130
	The Conversion of Ireland	132
	Angles and Angels	136
7	Land, People, and Kings in Merovingian Francia	140
	From Gallia to Francia	140
	Landscape and Folkscape	141
	Lords of the Land	145
	Gender and Power	148
	Religion as the Framework of Culture	151
	The Long-Haired Kings	154
8	The Book and the Sword	160
	An Island Set Beyond the World	160
	Pippin's Revolution: The Last of the Long-Haired Kings	163
	The Articulation and Expansion of Frankish Power	166
	The Carolingian Renewal	170
	The "Kingdom of Europe" and the Empire of the Romans	174
	Charlemagne: The Succession, the Successors, and the Legend	179

9	Europe Emerges	183
	The New Invaders: Arabs and Magyar 183
	The New Invaders: The Vikings 184
	Kings and Warlords 187
	The Emergence of Englaland 188
	The Problem of “National” Origins 189
	Sailing to Byzantium 193
PART IV	CHRISTENDOM: AUTHORITY AND ENTERPRISE, 950–1100	199
10	Material Civilization	199
	The Population Growth of Medieval Europe 199
	The Agricultural Takeoff 202
	The Rhythms of the Working Year 205
	Rural Society: Manor and Village 208
	Rural Society: Servitude and Freedom 209
	Town and City 210
	The Adventure of Trade 214
11	Power and Society	217
	Lordship and Kingship 217
	East Francia and the Imperial Title 222
	The Principalities and Kingdoms of Central Europe 224
	From West Francia to France 226
	Anglo-Norman England 228
	The Other Isles 231
	The Iberian Peninsula: Conquest or Reconquista ? 233
	From Lordship to Kingship in South Italy and Sicily 236
12	Christendom East and West	238
	The Idea of Reform 238
	Popes, Emperors, and Christian Society 242
	New Monks in a New Desert 246
	Lay Piety on the Eve of the First Crusade 249
	The Islamic and Byzantine Worlds on the Eve of the First Crusade 251
	The Expedition to Jerusalem 252
	The Crusader States and the Fall of the Latin Kingdom 254
PART V	CULTURE AND SOCIETY IN THE HIGH MIDDLE AGES, 1150–1325	258
13	New Art and New Learning	258
	A White Robe of Churches 258
	The Search for the Schoolmaster 262

Anselm of Aosta, Bec, and Canterbury	265
Peter Abelard and Héloïse	265
Law and Learning in the Twelfth Century	269
Canon Law and Theology	271
The Invention of the University	273
14 The Church and the World	277
Papal Authority and the Pontificate of Innocent III (1198–1216)	277
The Fourth Lateran Council and the Community of the Faithful	279
Dissent and Heterodoxy	283
The Athletes of God	286
Heresy, Crusades Against Christians, and the Office of Inquisitor	288
Jews in Christian Europe	290
Thirteenth-Century Crusades and Christian Attitudes Toward Muslims	295
15 The Political Culture of Christian Europe	297
Kingship and the Political Community	297
The Old Order: The Conflict Between the Popes and Emperors	300
England: From Angevin Empire to Island Kingdom	308
The Iberian Peninsula: Aragon, Castile, Portugal	316
The Most Christian Kings of France, 1108–1328	317
The New Order: The Conflict Between Popes and Territorial Monarchs	324
16 Reason and Imagination in the Thirteenth Century	327
The Triumph of Aristotle	327
Thomas Aquinas and Bonaventure	335
Gothic Engineering and Architecture	336
The Knight and the Lady Between God and the World	343
Court and City in the World of Dante Alighieri	349
PART VI CHRISTENDOM AND EUROPE, 1325–1500	355
17 Apocalypse Then? Crisis and Recovery in the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Centuries	355
The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse and Prophetic Christianity	355
The Silk Road and the Roads of War	356

The Black Horseman: Hunger	361
The Pale Horseman: Plague	363
The White Horseman: War	366
The Red Horseman: Financial Collapse and Recovery	367
18 Clergy and Laity	373
Christendom and Europe	373
The Ecclesiastical Structure: Normative Religion	376
The Revolt Against Aristotle and Aquinas	378
The Popes at Avignon	380
The Great Schism and the Conciliar Movement	382
Varieties of Devotion: Lived Religion	383
19 Power and Order	387
Debates About Power and Its Legitimacy	387
Emperors, Kings, Princes, and Cities in Germany	389
The Hundred Years' War: England and France	391
Patterns of Recovery: France	396
“I, a Woman, Dare”	398
Patterns of Recovery: England	399
The Great Duchy of the West: The Burgundian Low Countries	400
20 Frontiers and Horizons	406
The World on the Last Day	406
The Third Rome	409
The First Rome	410
Ancients and Moderns	413
“Here There Bee Tygres”	417
Epilogue: Empress Europa and Her Ambassadors	423
Bibliography	429
Appendix	469
Index	477