

STUDIES

Ol'ga Chadaeva: The Superlunary World in Baroque Homiletics (in the Sermons of Ioanikii Galiatovsky, Lazar Baranovich and Symeon Polotsky) . . . . .	257–275
Sergey Skorvid: Czech Prayers and Songs from the Northern Caucasus and Siberia Recorded in Cyrillic . . . . .	276–289
Jakub Mikulecký: Kremikovtsi Steel Works as a Literary Topos. Bulgarian Post-War Literature in Conflict of Discourses . . . . .	290–305

MATERIALS AND DISCUSSIONS

Renata Bizior: Communicative Strategies Modeling the Image of Socialists in Polish Religious Discourse (Turn of the 19 th and 20 th Centuries) . . . . .	306–317
Jarosław Pacuła: The Words Belonging to the Category ‘Theft’ in the Polish Criminal Sociolect – Diachronic Analysis (on the basis of Lexis Used in the Short Story Fatum by Antoni Lange from 1925) . . . . .	318–335
Anna Alekseevich: Bohemisms in the East Slavic Written Languages of the 14 th –18 th Centuries . . . . .	336–348
Ludwig Selimski: On the Sinners “smashkom glavom hodeshti” in Abagar of Philip Stanislavov . . . . .	349–354
Erzsébet Bárány – Adalbert Bárány: Philological Achievements of István Udvari . . . . .	355–363