

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

	PAGE
Quakerism part of a much larger religious movement . . . . .	xxv
Little conscious imitation of others, but much subconscious assimilation of ideas . . . . .	xxv
The creative leaders of religious movements usually highly suggestible	xxvii
Commonwealth period rich in persons of this type . . . . .	xxvii
Psychical traits prominent in George Fox . . . . .	xxviii
Instances given . . . . .	xxix
Summing-up of his character . . . . .	xxxi
Preparation of those who received his message . . . . .	xxxiii
Type of religion created by Quakerism . . . . .	xxxiv
Its mystical characteristics . . . . .	xxxiv
Its prophetic characteristics . . . . .	xxxviii
Its moral and social features . . . . .	xlii

CHAPTER I

THE PURITAN REVOLUTION

Quotation from John Richard Green . . . . .	I
Success of Puritan revolution in securing dominance of Parliament, but failure in securing dominance of Calvinism . . . . .	I
Puritans under Queen Elizabeth . . . . .	2
Thomas Cartwright's advocacy of Presbyterianism . . . . .	4
Establishment in 1583 of Ecclesiastical Commission . . . . .	4
Beginnings of Anabaptism and Independency . . . . .	5
Repression of Nonconformists and Separatists by James I. . . . .	6
Close relation between the Puritan and Parliamentary movements . . . . .	6
Presbyterianism accepted in Solemn League and Covenant of 1643 . . . . .	8
Cromwell's mistrust of a rigid Presbyterian system . . . . .	8
Rapid growth of Independency . . . . .	9
Its allowance of a qualified religious liberty . . . . .	10
Proposals of the army in this sense . . . . .	10
Religious liberty existed de facto , 1643-1649 . . . . .	11
Growth of Baptists, General and Particular . . . . .	12

x THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
Their relation to Quakerism indicated . . . . .	12
London became a hot-bed of sectaries . . . . .	13
Mary Penington's early religious experience in London . . . . .	13
Institutional religion about 1643 at its lowest and doctrinal (Calvinism) at its highest . . . . .	15
With period of religious liberty, polemic took the place of persecution	17
Question of Liberty of Press sprang into importance . . . . .	18
Sketch of some of the less stable Puritan sects :
THE FIFTH MONARCHY MEN . . . . .	18
THE MUGGLETONIANS . . . . .	19
THE RANTERS and their relation to Friends . . . . .	21
THE FAMILISTS and their relations to Friends . . . . .	22
THE SEEKERS AND WAITERS . . . . .	25
Their direct connection with the spread of Quakerism . . . . .	26

CHAPTER II

THE FOUNDER OF QUAKERISM

Quotation from George M. Trevelyan . . . . .	28
Birth and Parentage of George Fox . . . . .	28
His boyhood . . . . .	29
The spiritual crisis of his life . . . . .	30
His years of wandering, 1643-1647 . . . . .	31
The "openings" which came to him . . . . .	33
His direct experience of an indwelling Christ . . . . .	34
The "light" and the "seed" . . . . .	36
His sorrows and tribulations . . . . .	37
His experience of being renewed up into the Paradise of God . . . . .	38
How far were his convictions due to Familist or Boehmist teaching ? . . . .	40
The first small beginnings of Quakerism, 1647 . . . . .	42
Fox's church-fellowship with separated Baptists at Mansfield in 1648	43
Elizabeth Hooton . . . . .	44
The name "Children of the Light" . . . . .	44
Rice Jones and the "Proud Quakers" . . . . .	45
Fox conscious of his apostolic commission about 1649 . . . . .	46
The scope of his message described, both as to reality in religion and practical righteousness of life . . . . .	46

CHAPTER III

PIONEER WORK

(1649-1652)

Quotations from William James and John Wilhelm Rowntree . . . . .	51
Fox imprisoned at Nottingham . . . . .	52
His imprisonment for blasphemy at Derby, Oct. 1650-Oct. 1651 . . . . .	53
Its effect on the Nottinghamshire "Children of the Light" . . . . .	55
The Lichfield episode . . . . .	56

CONTENTS

xi

	PAGE
The nickname "Quakers" . . . . .	57
Fox goes North into Yorkshire . . . . .	58
The Balby group of Seekers . . . . .	58
Spiritual experiences of Richard Farnsworth and Thomas Aldam . . . . .	59
The Wakefield group of Seekers . . . . .	60
Spiritual experiences of James Nayler and William Dewsbury . . . . .	61
Fox travels through the East and North Ridings . . . . .	65
His leather dress, etc. . . . .	66
His intense spiritual vitality . . . . .	66
When he goes forward to Westmorland, Farnsworth and Dewsbury continue his work . . . . .	71
The Pentecostal meetings at Malton . . . . .	71
A General Meeting settled in the East Riding by Dec. 1652 . . . . .	77

CHAPTER IV

THE PEOPLE IN WHITE RAIMENT

(JUNE 1652)

Quotation from First Publishers of Truth . . . . .	78
Fox's Vision from Pendle Hill . . . . .	78
His coming to Sedbergh, June 1652 . . . . .	79
The widespread Westmorland community of Seekers, and the history of Thomas Taylor's position among them . . . . .	80
Fox's foundation meetings at Sedbergh, Firbank, Preston Patrick Chapel, Kendal, and Underbarrow . . . . .	83
Spiritual experiences of Francis Howgill and John Audland . . . . .	87
Experiences of Edward Burrough and John Camm . . . . .	89
Other leaders of the community, especially Gervase Benson, Robert Widders, Richard Hubberthorne, and some women Publishers of Truth . . . . .	91
Thomas Taylor's conviction . . . . .	93
Great importance of the accession to Fox of the Westmorland com- munity of Seekers . . . . .	94
The warm fellowship of these early days . . . . .	95
Howgill's description of the way in which a Seeker fell short of the fuller experience which the message of Fox brought . . . . .	96

CHAPTER V

SWARTHMORE

(1652)

Quotation from William Caton . . . . .	98
The Furness District . . . . .	98
Swarthmore and its mistress, Margaret Fell . . . . .	99
Fox's visit . . . . .	100
Conviction of Margaret Fell and her household, including Thomas Salthouse, Ann Clayton, and William Caton . . . . .	101

xii THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
Judge Fell's return home . . . . .	102
Extravagant letter from Margaret Fell and other members of the household to George Fox . . . . .	104
Fox's enthusiasm and persecution . . . . .	106
Charged at Lancaster quarter-sessions (Oct. 1652) with blasphemy . . . . .	107
Petition from Lancashire justices and ministers against Fox and Nayler . . . . .	108
Answered in Saul's Errand to Damascus . . . . .	108
Question raised by this answer as to the early Quaker view of personal infallibility . . . . .	109
Criticism of this view by Sherlock in Quakers' Wilde Questions . . . . .	109

CHAPTER VI

FURTHER WORK IN THE NORTH

(1653-1654)

Quotation from George Fox . . . . .	111
Nayler and Howgill's imprisonment at Appleby . . . . .	111
Anthony Pearson's conviction on the Bench and sketch of his subsequent career . . . . .	112
Work in Durham by newly convinced Westmorland Seekers and James Nayler in 1653, with Pearson's house (Ramshaw Hall) as a centre . . . . .	114
Persecuting spirit in Northumberland . . . . .	116
Planting of Quakerism in Cumberland, 1653 . . . . .	116
Fox's imprisonment at Carlisle (Augt.-Sept. 1653) on a charge of blasphemy . . . . .	117
Fear lest he should be hanged . . . . .	118
Attitude of the Nominated (Barebone's) Parliament and their intervention . . . . .	118
Fox and Gervase Bennett . . . . .	119
Settlement of Cumberland meetings . . . . .	120
Pardshaw Crag meeting . . . . .	120
John Burnyeat's spiritual experience . . . . .	120
Cumberland Seeker communities who followed Fox . . . . .	121
Specially favourable conditions which existed for the spread of the Quaker movement, 1650-1654 . . . . .	122
Further work in Yorkshire . . . . .	122
Work in Cheshire and the borders of Wales . . . . .	122
Morgan Lloyd and John ap John . . . . .	122
Richard Sale, his testifying by signs and his sufferings . . . . .	126
Work of Farnsworth and others in the North Midlands . . . . .	127
Summary of position at end of 1653 . . . . .	128

CHAPTER VII

QUAKERISM AT THE BEGINNING OF 1654

Quotation from Edward Burrough . . . . .	130
Group-life a characteristic of early Quakerism . . . . .	130

CONTENTS

xiii

	PAGE
The warm spiritual fellowship maintained in these groups . . .	131
Their wide unsectarian aims . . . . .	131
Their "nascent" energy . . . . .	132
A camp of the Lord formed rather than a religious society . . .	132
Testifying in churches . . . . .	133
Preaching in private houses and in the open air . . . . .	133
Real leadership exercised by Fox, Farnsworth, and Dewsbury . .	134
Margaret Fell, the "nursing-mother" of the Publishers of Truth, and her wide correspondence . . . . .	134
Establishment of the Kendal Fund for the service of Truth . . .	135
Internal development, showing a rapid agreement as to many of the distinguishing views of Friends . . . . .	137
The meetings of Friends . . . . .	138
Traces of variations of practice as to the days of the week and the names of the months . . . . .	139
Institution of General Meetings . . . . .	140
Letter from Dewsbury to Friends, 1653 . . . . .	140
Local leadership through Elders . . . . .	142
Place given by the General Baptists to Elders and Travelling Ministers	142
Monthly Meetings of Elders established in Durham, etc. . . . .	143
Marriage arrangements, and the registration of births and burials .	144
Internal difficulties, cases of John Gilpin and James Milner . . .	146
Testifying by signs after the manner of the Hebrew prophets . .	148
Going naked as a Sign . . . . .	148
William Simpson and Richard Robinson . . . . .	148
Prophetic character of early Quakerism clearly shown by this practice of testifying by signs . . . . .	151
The potent message given by Friends in a consistent daily life . .	151
Quotation from Fox as to this . . . . .	152

CHAPTER VIII

THE MISSION TO THE SOUTH

(1654)

Quotation from T. Edmund Harvey . . . . .	153
Distribution of population in England in 1654 as compared with present day . . . . .	154
Mission to the South . . . . .	155
Camm and Howgill's visit to Cromwell, spring of 1654 . . . . .	156
The preliminary work done in London by women Publishers of Truth	157
Six Quaker Preachers start for the South at end of June . . . . .	157
Preliminary work of women at Oxford and Cambridge . . . . .	158
Howgill and Burrough's early work in London . . . . .	159
Anthony Pearson's interview with Cromwell . . . . .	161
Work in Eastern Counties by Hubberthorne and George Whitehead, and their imprisonment . . . . .	162
Difficult conditions in Eastern Counties increased by Christopher Atkinson's fall . . . . .	164
Work of a Pentecostal character at Bristol by Camm and Audland, Sept. 1654 . . . . .	165

b

xiv THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
Particulars respecting the community of Seekers whom they found ready to receive them . . . . .	165
Visit of Howgill and Burrough to Bristol, Oct. 1654 . . . . .	168
Reference to some of the persons convinced . . . . .	170
Ralph Farmer's opposition . . . . .	171
Quakers charged with being Jesuits in disguise . . . . .	172
Work in the North Midlands by Farnsworth and Dewsbury . . . . .	174
Dewsbury's long imprisonment at Northampton . . . . .	174
Farnsworth's spirit of triumph in his war with the Puritan professors . . . . .	176

CHAPTER IX

FURTHER WORK IN THE SOUTH

(1655)

Quotation from 2 Corinthians (Dr. Weymouth's translation) . . . . .	177
Meeting arranged by Fox at Swannington, Jan. 1655 . . . . .	177
Authorities suspect plots and arrest Fox at Whetstone, 11th Feb. . . . .	178
Carried to London and sees Cromwell, 6th March, satisfying him as to plotting . . . . .	179
The Proclamation on Religious Toleration of 15th Feb. . . . .	180
Scurrilous charges against Fox and his impressions of the city . . . . .	181
Hiring of Bull and Mouth Meeting House and further particulars of London work . . . . .	182
John Stubbs and William Caton in Kent . . . . .	186
John Lilburne and Samuel Fisher convinced . . . . .	186
Imprisonment at Bury St. Edmunds of George Whitehead, etc. . . . .	187
Career and death of James Parnell . . . . .	188
Farnsworth's and Goodaire's controversies with Baxter . . . . .	193
Persecution of Humphry Smith and others at Evesham . . . . .	195
Savage treatment at Evesham of Margaret Newby and Elizabeth Cowart . . . . .	196
Farnsworth and Nayler's controversy with the Manifestarians . . . . .	198
The blank sheet of paper theory of ministry . . . . .	198
Persecution of Ann Audland, Jane Waugh, and Farnsworth at Banbury . . . . .	199
Itinerating work of Fox in Kent, Sussex, Reading, Eastern Counties, Cambridge, West Midlands, and West of England . . . . .	200
Work of Miles Halhead and Thomas Salthouse in West of England . . . . .	203
Fox in Cornwall . . . . .	204
Arrest at St. Ives, 18th Jan. 1656, and imprisonment at Launceston . . . . .	204
Number of leaders in prison during winter 1655-1656 . . . . .	205

CHAPTER X

THE WIDER OUTLOOK

Quotation from Fox . . . . .	206
Early work in Wales . . . . .	206
Vavasor Powell. Lack of preaching in Wales . . . . .	207

CONTENTS

XV

	PAGE
Richard Davies, the Welshpool hatter . . . . .	208
Fox's visit to Wales in 1657 . . . . .	209
Planting of Quakerism in Ireland . . . . .	210
Spiritual experience of William Edmondson, the Founder of Irish Quakerism . . . . .	210
Settlement of Lurgan Meeting, 1654 . . . . .	210
Visits of James Lancaster, etc., John Tiffin and Richard Clayton . . . . .	211
Ireland under the harrow of Cromwell's resolute government . . . . .	212
Visit of Burrough and Howgill, Aug. 1655-Feb. 1656 . . . . .	212
Their large service in the South of Ireland . . . . .	214
Alarm of the Dublin authorities . . . . .	215
Burrough and Howgill brought to Dublin and deported . . . . .	217
Barbara Blaugdone's remonstrance . . . . .	217
William Ames and other Irish converts . . . . .	218
The military régime Anti-Quaker, as illustrated from proceedings at Limerick . . . . .	219
Slow but sure growth of Irish Quakerism . . . . .	219
Dublin meeting . . . . .	220
Visits of Burrough, 1660, and Thomas Loe . . . . .	221
Visits of John Burnyeat and others . . . . .	222
Efforts of Friends to spread their message in the Isle of Man . . . . .	224
Rigorous measures of the authorities . . . . .	224
Religious and political condition of Scotland . . . . .	226
Alexander Hamilton begins meetings in Clydesdale in 1653 . . . . .	227
Visit from Caton and Stubbs at end of 1655, and from Caton and Grave, May 1656 . . . . .	227
Army in some cases receptive . . . . .	228
Suspicion of military authorities . . . . .	228
John Hall court-martialled at Aberdeen, 1657 . . . . .	229
The Scottish army purged of Quakers . . . . .	229
Timothy Langley's impressions of Scottish Quakers, Dec. 1657 . . . . .	230
Howgill and Robertson's visit, 1657 . . . . .	231
Work on Continent and in America also opening out in winter 1655-56, when Fox was lying caged at Launceston . . . . .	232
Particulars of the Launceston imprisonment . . . . .	232
Visits to Fox—Ann Downer's help . . . . .	235
Offers of Humphrey Norton and Joseph Nicholson to lie in prison for him . . . . .	235
Fox continues his leadership of the Quaker movement from prison . . . . .	236
Case of Thomas and Elizabeth Holme and their child . . . . .	236
Their fervent service—their singing in meetings . . . . .	237
William Caton's visit to Fox . . . . .	237
Fox writes to Friends in the ministry . . . . .	238
Triumphant release of Launceston prisoners, Sept. 1656 . . . . .	239

CHAPTER XI

NAYLER'S FALL

(1656)

Quotations from Charles Lamb and John Wilhelm Rowntree . . . . .	241
James Nayler's work in London, June 1655 onwards . . . . .	241

xvi THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
Rebecca Travers convinced by him . . . . .	242
Nayler's personal charm and appearance . . . . .	243
Richard Nelson's prophetic advice . . . . .	243
Nayler's own account of the psychology of his fall . . . . .	243
Ensnaring of his spirit, about June 1656, by Martha Simmonds and others . . . . .	244
Extravagant proceedings at Bristol in July . . . . .	245
Nayler sets out to see Fox at Launceston, but is imprisoned at Exeter	245
His condition there . . . . .	246
"Raising to life" of Dorcas Erbury . . . . .	247
Other cases of alleged or attempted miracles by Friends . . . . .	247
Fox on his release visits Exeter and censures Nayler . . . . .	247
Margaret Fell's extraordinary letter to Nayler . . . . .	249
On his release, in October, Nayler travels with his company towards London by way of Bristol . . . . .	251
The Messianic entry into Bristol, 24th Oct. . . . .	252
Imprisonment of the whole party . . . . .	252
Clear position of Bristol Friends . . . . .	253
Nayler's examination by the magistrates . . . . .	253
Not mad, but misguided into allowing himself to be presented as a Sign of Christ's coming . . . . .	254
Sensible letter of Thomas Simmonds . . . . .	255
Case carried to the Protector's second Parliament . . . . .	255
Examination before the Committee—Pearson's impressions . . . . .	256
Protracted debates as to jurisdiction and punishment . . . . .	258
The punishment which was finally resolved upon . . . . .	261
First part carried out, 18th Dec. 1656 . . . . .	262
Petitions on Nayler's behalf . . . . .	263
Cromwell's intervention . . . . .	264
Action of Parliament had been grossly irregular . . . . .	264
Second part of punishment carried out . . . . .	266
Third part at Bristol carried out . . . . .	266
Nayler returned to London and imprisoned . . . . .	267
Consequences of his conduct on the Quaker movement . . . . .	267
William Dewsbury writes to Nayler . . . . .	271
Nayler's speedy repentance . . . . .	272
Release by Rump Parliament, 8th Sept. 1659 . . . . .	273
Dewsbury, in Jan. 1660, at last effects reconciliation between Fox and Nayler . . . . .	274
Remaining months of Nayler's life . . . . .	274
His death and beautiful dying utterance . . . . .	275
Estimate of his character . . . . .	275
Beauty of some of his later writings . . . . .	276
How far early Quaker extravagances throw doubt on the validity of the Inner Light . . . . .	276

CHAPTER XII

CONTROVERSY

Quotation from Emily J. Hart . . . . .	279
Friends attacked Puritan ministers as false prophets and Antichrists . . . . .	279

CONTENTS

xvii

	PAGE
Counter-attack upon Friends on same charges . . . . .	281
Fox's Great Mistry, etc. . . . . .	282
Virulence of the pamphlet-war . . . . .	284
Names of chief controversialists on each side . . . . .	285
Burrough held first place in Quaker estimation . . . . .	285
His discussions, 1656 and 1657, with John Bunyan . . . . .	286
Nayler as a controversialist . . . . .	288
Samuel Fisher and his Rusticus ad academicos . . . . .	288
His advanced position respecting Inspiration and Biblical criticism . . . . .	289
Note as to Tract, Something concerning Agbarus, etc. . . . . .	291
Opposition between Quakerism and the dogmatism of the Puritan theologians . . . . .	294
Quakers slighted human learning . . . . .	294
Extraordinary treatment of Friends at Cambridge . . . . .	294
Equally shameful proceedings at Oxford . . . . .	297
Fox as a controversialist . . . . .	299
Extract concerning Dr. John Owen, showing Fox's method . . . . .	299
His parade of learning . . . . .	301
Other controversialists—Farnsworth, Howgill, Hubberthorne, and George Whitehead . . . . .	302
Methods of printing and circulating Quaker books . . . . .	303
Importance in their own day of these obscure controversies . . . . .	305

CHAPTER XIII

CHURCH ORGANIZATION

Quotation from Edward Burrough . . . . .	306
Personal influence and work of itinerating leaders still the chief force . . . . .	307
Premature to speak of "Society of Friends" . . . . .	307
First doubtful use of term in 1665 . . . . .	307
Earlier conception illustrated by trusts of Danby graveyard in 1658 . . . . .	308
Importance of tracing carefully the formative influences which gradually change a religious movement into a religious institution . . . . .	308
Fox, after release from Launceston, attends three important General Meetings . . . . .	309
His letters of advice . . . . .	309
Balby Meeting of Elders, Nov. 1656 . . . . .	310
The apostolic letter issued from this Meeting . . . . .	311
Document issued by Meeting of Four Counties (Kent, Sussex, Surrey, and Hampshire), May 1659 . . . . .	314
Similar documents from other meetings . . . . .	316
Kendal Fund "for the service of Truth" . . . . .	317
Accounts, 1st June 1654–Sept. 1657 . . . . .	317
Fortnightly Meeting of London men Friends not in the ministry . . . . .	320
General collections for service "beyond seas" in 1657 . . . . .	321
Account of the steps taken . . . . .	321
General Meeting at Scalehouse, June 1658 . . . . .	325
Followed up by collections in the South . . . . .	326

xviii THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
General Meeting at Skipton, June 1659 . . . . .	327
General Meeting at Skipton, Oct. 1659 . . . . .	328
Anthony Pearson's preparatory work for this meeting . . . . .	328
Proposals for a more systematic organization . . . . .	329
Suggestion for a General Meeting for the whole country . . . . .	331
Establishment of fact that previous meetings for the whole country, at John Crook's (May 1658), at Bull and Mouth (April 1659), and later at Balby and Warmsworth (April 1660), were for ministers, and primarily religious in character . . . . .	332
General Meeting convened at Skipton, April 1660 . . . . .	335
Fox's account of the proceedings . . . . .	335
Further General Meetings of the Northern Counties . . . . .	337
Foregoing investigation shows that county was unit of administration, but there was a grouping of the North in General Meetings, and similar groupings elsewhere, and at last a national business meeting . . . . .	338
All these meetings, however, held a subordinate, almost an accidental place, not superseding the congregations, nor controlling the Publishers of Truth who exercised spiritual leadership . . . . .	339
The Restoration persecution prevented their full development . . . . .	339
Burrough's description of the London fortnightly meeting . . . . .	339
Side by side with this two women's Meetings developed . . . . .	340
Their setting-up, in its circumstances, again shows the subordination of the business men to the Publishers of Truth . . . . .	342
The direction! given by these leaders was the chief controlling force of the Quaker movement during the Commonwealth period . . . . .	342

CHAPTER XIV

ITINERATING WORK OF THE LEADERS IN GREAT BRITAIN, 1656-1660

Quotation from Fox . . . . .	343
Recognition of services of itinerating leaders . . . . .	343
Traces, as early as March 1656, of jealousy of them at Kendal . . . . .	344
Local Friends sometimes burdened by unsuitable women ministers . . . . .	345
Mary Howgill, Ann Blaykling . . . . .	345
Work of George Fox—his visit to Wales, 1657 . . . . .	346
Journey in Scotland . . . . .	350
Stay in and about London . . . . .	354
Time of darkness at Reading in summer of 1659 . . . . .	355
Reconciliation with Nayler, Jan. 1660 . . . . .	356
Travels in early part of Restoration year . . . . .	356
Death of John Camm in opening days of 1657 . . . . .	356
Work of Audland, Howgill, and Burrough . . . . .	357
Burrough and Fisher's visit to Dunkirk, then in English hands . . . . .	358
Hubberthorne chiefly in London . . . . .	359
George Whitehead's travels and disputes with Puritan divines . . . . .	359
Thomas Taylor's work . . . . .	360
Farnsworth less active than formerly . . . . .	360
Dewsbury's rare years of freedom . . . . .	361

CONTENTS

xix

	PAGE
Sketch of his inspiring service . . . . .	361
His visit to Scotland in autumn of 1658 . . . . .	363
His experiences at Bristol, Feb. 1660 . . . . .	364
George Harrison's sufferings and death, Jan. 1657 . . . . .	366

CHAPTER XV

SURVEY OF THE GROWTH OF QUAKERISM

(1656-1660)

Quotation from Joan M. Fry . . . . .	368
Survey will follow order of planting of Quakerism . . . . .	368
Strength of movement in Yorkshire—particulars of some of the local leaders . . . . .	368
Westmorland and Furness area—details of the various Meetings . . . . .	370
Margaret Fell's hospitality—how the children fasted . . . . .	371
Cumberland district . . . . .	372
Exclusion of Friends from Carlisle and Newcastle-on-Tyne . . . . .	372
Number of Cumberland meetings held out-of-doors . . . . .	373
South Lancashire—Manchester and Liverpool . . . . .	374
London a strong centre, "the mansion-house of liberty" . . . . .	375
Names of some London Friends who became powerful ministers . . . . .	376
Details of the London Meetings . . . . .	376
Gilbert Lathey, the court-tailor . . . . .	378
Eastern Counties—strength of Friends at Colchester . . . . .	381
Steven Crisp . . . . .	382
Ipswich and Norwich . . . . .	382
Local leaders in the Eastern Counties . . . . .	383
William Allen, the barber-surgeon of Cambridge . . . . .	383
Developments at Bristol . . . . .	384
Devon and Cornwall . . . . .	385
Quakerism strong in Somerset, largely through convincement of Baptists . . . . .	386
Particulars of some of the local leaders . . . . .	386
Wiltshire . . . . .	387
Gloucestershire—origin of Nailsworth Meeting—names of Gloucestershire ministers—origin of Gloucester Meeting . . . . .	388
Leominster and Ross Friends . . . . .	389
Worcestershire groups—Susanna Pearson's "mad whimsey" . . . . .	391
Work in Staffordshire—Richard Hickock—Humphrey Woolrich and his baptism, on one occasion, of a woman . . . . .	391
William Smith, of Besthorpe, near Newark . . . . .	393
Warwickshire . . . . .	393
Oxfordshire Meetings . . . . .	394
Particulars of Kent Meetings—Thomas Howsigoe, Luke Howard . . . . .	395
Accessions from Baptists in Kent . . . . .	396
Sussex, Surrey, Hampshire, and the Isle of Wight . . . . .	397
Persecutions of Ambrose Rigge and Thomas Robertson . . . . .	398
Thomas Laycock . . . . .	399
Dorsetshire—George Bewley's sufferings . . . . .	399

CHAPTER XVI

WORK BEYOND SEAS

	PAGE
Quotation from Dewsbury . . . . .	401
Brief sketch of work in America, told in detail in The Quakers in the American Colonies . . . . .	401
Barbados and Rhode Island the two centres . . . . .	402
Woodhouse mission . . . . .	402
New England persecutions and martyrdoms . . . . .	404
Opposition between Quakerism and Calvinism showed itself more plainly in New England than at home . . . . .	405
Continental work . . . . .	405
Holland the home of religious liberty . . . . .	406
Visits of Caton, Stubbs, and Ames . . . . .	406
Isaac Furnier's extravagances . . . . .	408
Convincement of Jacob Sewel and Judith Zinspenning . . . . .	409
Recruits from the Mennonites and the Collegianten . . . . .	409
Dr. Galenus Abrahamsz . . . . .	410
Further work of Ames and Caton . . . . .	411
Ministry of Judith Zinspenning . . . . .	413
Convincement in the Mennonite village of Griesheim in the Palatinate—the Princess Elizabeth—story of the Griesheim Quaker group . . . . .	413
Ames visits Bohemia and Danzig . . . . .	415
Fox urges still wider work . . . . .	415
Attempts to carry Quakerism to Roman Catholic countries and to the East . . . . .	415
Burrough conscious that much preparatory work was needed . . . . .	416
Friends and the collection for the Vaudois . . . . .	416
Harwood and George Bayly visit France . . . . .	416
Harwood's subsequent enmity against Fox . . . . .	417
William Salt's imprisonment at Morlaix . . . . .	417
George Robinson's visit to Jerusalem . . . . .	418
Important Quaker Mission to the East in 1657 . . . . .	420
Names of its members: John Perrot, John Luffe, John Buckley, all probably from Ireland; and Mary Fisher, Mary Prince, and Beatrice Beckly . . . . .	420
Visit Leghorn, Zante, and Smyrna—are turned back from going on to Jerusalem—Buckley, Mary Fisher, and Beatrice Beckly reach Constantinople . . . . .	421
Mary Fisher visits the Sultan at Adrianople . . . . .	423
Perrot and Luffe return to Venice—bear testimony in Rome—are imprisoned by the Inquisition—Luffe is hanged—Perrot imprisoned in mad-house till May 1661 . . . . .	424
Visits of Elizabeth Harris and Elizabeth Cowart to Venice, and of Stubbs and Fisher to Venice and Rome . . . . .	426
Willingness of Jews to hear Quaker message . . . . .	427
Katharine Evans and Sarah Chevers set out for Alexandria and Jerusalem . . . . .	428
Their long imprisonment in the Inquisition of Malta . . . . .	428
Stubbs, Fell, Richard Scosthrop, and Daniel Baker set out for the East . . . . .	429
Stubbs and Fell reach Alexandria, but are shipped home . . . . .	430

CONTENTS

xxi

	PAGE
Scosthrop and Baker reach Smyrna and are also sent home . . . . .	430
Death of Scosthrop in Zante . . . . .	431
Baker goes to Malta and offers himself for the prisoners . . . . .	431
The two women are at length released through the influence of Lord d'Aubigny . . . . .	432
Baker is made a Sign during High Mass at Gibraltar . . . . .	432
Quakerism had reached the Mediterranean countries not in a form that could be understood by Southern peoples, but as a sign of some great but mysterious Divine working . . . . .	433

CHAPTER XVII

RELATIONS WITH THE STATE

Quotation from Samuel R. Gardiner . . . . .	434
Fox at first addressed himself specially to those in authority . . . . .	434
His confidence that his message was needed for the government of the State . . . . .	434
Cromwell's grievance against Friends was due to their disturbance of ministers . . . . .	435
His interviews with Friends . . . . .	435
His contact with Fox . . . . .	437
Capt. William Bradford's appeal to Cromwell . . . . .	439
Cromwell's moderate carriage towards Friends endeared him to them . . . . .	440
Quakers in the Protector's household . . . . .	441
Notice of Quakers taken by the Nominated Parliament . . . . .	442
The Protectorate as set up by the Instrument of Government . . . . .	442
Character of the Council of State, and their action as regards Quakers . . . . .	442
Proclamation of 15th Feb. 1655 . . . . .	444
Previous persecution purely local . . . . .	445
Now it had an appearance of authority . . . . .	445
Proclamation of April 1655 as to oaths—the ease with which this became an instrument of persecution . . . . .	446
Military régime of the Major-Generals . . . . .	447
Boteler, Goffe, and Haynes hostile . . . . .	447
Worsley and Berry well disposed . . . . .	448
Desborough hostile at first, but became more moderate . . . . .	449
The Parliament of 1656, which tried Nayler, was, like the Puritan party, less moderate than the Protector . . . . .	450
Its harsh legislation . . . . .	450
The Petition and Advice . . . . .	451
No Parliament during last seven months of Protector's life . . . . .	452
Letter to justices, Nov. 1658, advising mildness to Quakers . . . . .	453
Petition of Friends to Richard Cromwell's Parliament, offering body for body for imprisoned Friends . . . . .	454
The Rump Parliament and liberty of conscience . . . . .	456
Sir Henry Vane . . . . .	457
Friends present an influential petition against tithes . . . . .	458
Supplemental petition from women . . . . .	458
Royalist rising of Sir George Booth . . . . .	458
Situation in Nov. 1659 . . . . .	459
In May the Rump had asked Friends for lists of persecuting justices and of men fit to serve . . . . .	460

xxii THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
Commissioners for the Militia in Bristol . . . . .	461
Fox's advice to Francis Gawler of Cardiff . . . . .	462
Anthony Pearson's action in the North . . . . .	462
General attitude of Friends . . . . .	463
Belonged to the Puritan party, were often supported by the soldiers, but came into collision with the ministers and magistrates . . . . .	464
Actual persecution large in amount, but essentially local and capricious . . . . .	464
Separation between Friends and others . . . . .	465
Political action not easy for Friends . . . . .	465
Their high language to the authorities . . . . .	465
Burrough's address to the Committee of Safety, etc. . . . .	466

CHAPTER XVIII

THE RESTORATION YEAR

(1660)

Quotation from Alexander Parker . . . . .	468
Reasons for the swift overthrow of Puritanism . . . . .	468
Attitude of Monck, the General in Scotland . . . . .	469
Movement for a "free" Parliament . . . . .	469
Illustrations from Quaker letters of the ferment of feeling . . . . .	470
The Declaration of Breda . . . . .	473
Its promise of toleration dependent on Parliament . . . . .	473
Entry of King Charles, 29th May 1660 . . . . .	473
Friends' meetings in some cases broken up as tumultuous assemblies . . . . .	474
Fox's imprisonment at Lancaster as a malignant . . . . .	475
Goes up to London and is discharged . . . . .	476
Hubberthorne sees the King . . . . .	476
Fair prospects of toleration in autumn of 1660 . . . . .	477
Thos. Moore's interview with the King and Council . . . . .	478
Difficulties at Bristol, etc., as to Quakers taking oaths . . . . .	478
Proposed engagement by leading Friends in each county . . . . .	479
Prospects blighted by the Fifth Monarchy rising . . . . .	479
General non-interference of Friends in the political struggles . . . . .	480
Their point of view theocratic—Quotation from Nayler . . . . .	481
Many of the noblest Puritans in favour of an enforced theocracy, rather than a Parliamentary democracy . . . . .	482
Milton's ideal for Cromwell . . . . .	483
Quaker theocracy resolutely excluded compulsion from its scheme of the Kingdom of God . . . . .	484
Extract from Audland . . . . .	484

CHAPTER XIX

FRIENDS IN PRIVATE LIFE

Quotations from John Burnyeat and London Yearly Meeting of 1911 . . . . .	485
The Quaker type of character . . . . .	486
The practice of Quakerism involved a separation from the world . . . . .	486

CONTENTS

xxiii

	PAGE
Cases of Quaker apprentices . . . . .	486
Cases of disownment by relatives . . . . .	488
Ellis Hookes and his treatment by Lady Waller . . . . .	488
Narrative of Thomas Ellwood's treatment by his father . . . . .	489
Significance of the Quaker testimony for plain language and against hat-honour, etc. . . . .	493
Usage as to the hat and "thee" and "thou" in the seventeenth century . . . . .	493
Friends witnessed for reality in life, and for the truth that there was no respect of persons with God . . . . .	494
Ridicule into which these "testimonies" brought them . . . . .	496
The Battle-Door by Fox, Stubbs, and Furly, published in 1660 . . . . .	496
Strength of the Quaker type of character . . . . .	499
Illustrations of the personal authority possessed by Friends . . . . .	499
Isaac Penington and his wife . . . . .	501
Summary of the type of life that marked the Quaker groups . . . . .	507

CHAPTER XX

QUAKERISM AT THE END OF 1660

Quotation from Isaac Penington . . . . .	508
Stage of development reached by 1660 . . . . .	508
Place of meeting for worship . . . . .	508
Lack of teaching ministry for the vacant or indolent mind . . . . .	510
Warnings against slothfulness, unpunctuality, etc. . . . .	511
Probable numbers of Friends in 1660 . . . . .	512
Drawn principally from the trading and yeoman classes, though there were some artisans and labourers, a fair number of merchants, and a few gentry . . . . .	512
The life that united all Friends . . . . .	513
Importance of the first years of Quaker expansion . . . . .	513
Marks of its apostolic character . . . . .	514
The spirit of Messianic expectation . . . . .	514
Strange forms of spiritual exaltation . . . . .	514
Heavenly-mindedness which saw things of earth in true perspective . . . . .	515
Conduct resulting from this heavenly-mindedness, as illustrated in cases of Gilbert Latey, Edmondson, and Humphrey Bache . . . . .	517
Certain employments closed to Friends . . . . .	519
The army . . . . .	519
The navy—Thos. Lurting . . . . .	520
Clear perception of moral issues shown by Friends . . . . .	522
Illustrated from case of Fox . . . . .	522
Quakerism belongs to the prophetic and charismatic type of religion by contrast with the priestly and institutional type . . . . .	523
The vital and vitalizing relations with God and with one another which, in the early days, filled the Quaker groups with radiant strength . . . . .	526
Comparison with the vital forces at work in the Apostolic Churches . . . . .	527
Quaker history of singular interest for the light it throws on the obscure but profoundly important changes that turned prophetic into Catholic Christianity . . . . .	528

xxiv THE BEGINNINGS OF QUAKERISM

	PAGE
Quaker history of help in task which awaits modern Christianity— the task of transforming institutional religion into a Church whose intercourse with the Spirit is shared by whole body, and whose corporate life is a true fellowship of discipleship and service . . . . .	528

APPENDICES

A. THE JOURNALS OF GEORGE FOX . . . . .	531
B. SWARTHMORE DOCUMENTS . . . . .	538
INDEX . . . . .	543

---

MAPS

(At end of Volume before Index)

1. THE PRESTON PATRICK DISTRICT.
2. QUAKERISM IN ENGLAND AND WALES AT THE BEGINNING OF 1654.
3. ENGLAND AND WALES—NORTHERN SECTION.
4. ENGLAND AND WALES—SOUTHERN SECTION.