

CONTENTS

List of figures	ix
List of tables	xi
List of contributors	xiii
Foreword by Ronald Barnett	xxiii
Acknowledgements	xxvii

Introduction: the global knowledge economy	1
Rob Bongaardt and Anne Lee

PART I

Doctoral research in the changing university	3
1 The changing face of doctoral education	5
Kate Whittington and Sally Barnes
2 Agency in doctoral education: towards Graduate School cohesion and a heightened societal awareness	18
Søren Bengtsen
3 Doctoral reform for the 21st century	28
Susan Porter
4 Is it time for a central campus office to ensure quality in doctoral education in the 21st century?	40
Maresi Nerad and Ziyang Bai

- 5 Mind the gap: a description of US doctoral education, challenges, and the skills gap 53
Maxine P. Atkinson and Richard W. Slatta
- 6 Working towards future epistemic justice: incorporating transcultural and Indigenous knowledge systems in doctoral education 65
Catherine Manathunga, Jing Qi, Tracey Bunda and Michael Singh

PART II

Collaborations and funding 77

- 7 Trust within capacity building for the development of supervision training: a case study of Sweden and Mozambique 79
Cecilia Almlöv, Rehana Capurchande, Francisco Januário, and Lars Geschwind
- 8 Identifying key factors in successful bidding for doctoral training 92
Paul Spencer and Jane Khawaja
- 9 The interplay between policy and funding 101
Anne-Marie Coriat
- 10 Doctoral education in Norway and inter-institutional collaboration within doctoral education: a case study 110
Rune Johan Krumsvik, Bård Mæland, and Stein Helge Solstad
- 11 Paving the way for healthy and empowering working environments: a joint action of institutes, early career researchers (ECRs) and funders 120
Mathias Schroijen and Giulia Malaguarnera

PART III

Doctoral researchers' perspectives 131

- 12 Professionalising doctoral education 133
Lucas Zinner and Melita Kovačević
- 13 Supporting supervisors in promoting doctoral researchers' mental health and wellbeing 145
Rob Bongaardt and Vibeke Krane

14	PhD candidates as informal caregivers in the Netherlands Josephine Bergmans and Inge van der Weijden	155
15	What makes English flow and why? Understanding the cultural difficulties facing novice postgraduate second-language writers in English Karen Ottewell	171
16	Doctoral students as early career university teachers: what hinders and what helps them to embrace the essentials of good teaching? Gabriela Pleschová and Agnes Simon	182
17	Networks as learning environments for doctoral education Inger Mewburn, Cally Guerin and Claire Aitchison	195
PART IV
	Doctoral supervisors' perspectives	207
18	What influences how we supervise? Kate Whittington, Sally Barnes and Anne Lee	209
19	Towards a framework for the recognition of good supervisory practice Stan Taylor and Karen Clegg	224
20	Integration of doctoral supervisor courses in the research culture: a socio-cultural approach Anders Ahlberg	239
21	Action learning as means for supervisor development Line Wittek and Thomas de Lange	249
22	Doctoral examiners' judgements: do examiners agree on doctoral attributes and how important are professional and personal characteristics? Gillian Houston	263
23	Enhancing the doctorate at ETH Zurich: towards a new organisational culture – a qualitative data analysis of the ETH "Doctoral Supervision Symposium" 2019 Marion Lehner, Benno Volk, Alfredo Picariello and Antonio Togni	277

PART V

Ethics and accountability 293

- 24 How research on ethics in doctoral supervision can inform doctoral education policy 295

Erika Löfström and Kirsi Pyhältö

- 25 Specialist courses in research ethics: more important now
than they used to be? 307

Rune Nydal

- 26 Research integrity training for early career researchers 318

Margaux Kersschot, Iryna Degtyarova and Peter Novitzky

- 27 Supporting students to complete their doctorate 333

Rachel Spronken-Smith

- Conclusion: the future of doctoral research in the light of experience 345

Anne Lee and Rob Bongaardt

- Index* 354