

Contents

List of Figures	ix
List of Tables	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xix
Part I Language: Some Basic Questions	1
1 The Socially Charged Life of Language	3
So, What Do You Need to Know in Order to “Know” a Language?	9
Examples of Linguistic Diversity	13
Examples of Diversity in Research
Topics in Linguistic Anthropology	17
Keith Basso	18
Marjorie Harness Goodwin	18
Bonnie Urciuoli	19
Alessandro Duranti	20
Kathryn A. Woolard	20
James M. Wilce	21
Key Terms in Linguistic Anthropology	21
Multifunctionality	22
Language Ideologies	24
Practice	26
Indexicality	29
The Inseparability of Language, Culture, and Social Relations	33
2 Gestures, Sign Languages, and Multimodality	35
Bakhtin’s Double-Voiced Discourse	37
Goffman’s Participation Framework and Production Format	38
Speech and the Analysis of Conversation	39
Gestures and Other Forms of Embodied Communication	42

	Sign Languages	47
	Poetry, Whistled Languages, Song, and Images	50
3	The Research Process in Linguistic Anthropology	54
	What Kinds of Research Questions Do Linguistic Anthropologists Formulate?	55
	What Kinds of Data Do Linguistic Anthropologists Collect, and with What Methods?	57
	Participant Observation	58
	Interviews	58
	Surveys and Questionnaires	60
	Naturally Occurring Conversations	60
	Experimental Methods	62
	Matched Guise Tests	63
	Written Texts	64
	How Do Linguistic Anthropologists Analyze Their Data?	64
	What Products Do Linguistic Anthropologists Generate from their Research?	67
	What Sorts of Ethical Issues Do Linguistic Anthropologists Face?	68
4	Language Acquisition and Socialization	72
	Language Acquisition and the Socialization Process	74
	Gaps in the “Language Gap” Approach	78
	Language Socialization in Bilingual or Multilingual Contexts	81
	Language Socialization throughout the Lifespan	84
	Conclusion	88
5	Language, Thought, and Culture	90
	A Hundred Years of Linguistic Relativity	91
	The Sapir–Whorf Hypothesis	94
	Investigating the Effects of Language on Thought	97
	Language-in-General	98
	Linguistic Structures	102
	Color	106
	Space	108
	Time	110
	Language Use	111
	Conclusion	117
Part II	Global Communities of Speakers, Hearers, Readers, and Writers	121
6	Global Communities of Multilingual Language Users	123

Defining "Speech Community"	124
Size and Location of the Community	124
What Is Shared by the Members of a Speech Community?	125
The Type of Interactions that Speech Community Members Have	125
Alternatives to the Concept of "Speech Community"	129
Speech Areas	129
Speech Networks	130
Communities of Practice	132
Multilingual and Transnational Linguistic Practices	136
Diglossia, Code-Mixing, and Code-Switching	144
Diglossia	145
Code-Switching	146
Code-Mixing	148
Heteroglossia	151
Conclusion	152
7 Literacy Practices	153
Literacy Events vs. Literacy Practices	155
"Autonomous" vs. "Ideological" Approaches to Studying Literacy	156
Some Examples of Situated Literacy Research	158
Preschool Literacy Practices in the Southeastern United States	158
Pema Kumari's letter	162
Love-letter Writing in Nepal	164
Instant Messaging: More like Speech or Writing?	166
8 Online Communities and Internet Linguistic Practices	170
Online Literacy Practices	171
Capitalization, Punctuation, and Emojis	172
Online Communities, Relationships, and Social Media	175
Who's Zoomin' Who?	177
Online Avatars	179
So Close and yet so Far	183
Conclusion	185
9 Performance, Performativity, and the Constitution of Communities	186
Performance Defined in Opposition to Competence	188
Performativity	189
Performance as a Display of Verbal Artistry	197
Ethnographies of Performance and Performativity	200

Part III	Language, Power, and Social Differentiation	211
10	Language and Gender	213
	What is Gender, and How Does it Relate to Language?	215
	Do Men and Women Speak Alike or Differently?	221
	Do Women and Men of All Ages and All Ethnic, Racial, and Cultural Backgrounds Share the Same Gendered Differences in Their Language Use?	233
	Some Thoughts on Myths and Realities	237
11	Language, Race, and Ethnicity	240
	Defining Race and Ethnicity	241
	The Rule-Governed Nature of African American English	246
	Invariant or Habitual "Be"	248
	Copula Deletion	249
	Double Negatives	250
	The Reduction of Final Consonants	251
	Pronouncing the Word "Ask" as "Aks"	252
	Racist Language and Racism in Language	253
	Language and Racial/Ethnic Identities	258
	Conclusion	261
12	Language Endangerment and Revitalization	262
	Enumerating the Crisis: How Many Endangered Languages are There?	265
	What Dies When a Language Dies?	270
	Why Do Languages Die?	276
	Can Endangered Languages Be Saved?	278
	Conclusion	280
13	Conclusion: Language, Power, and Agency	281
	What Is Power?	283
	Hegemony	284
	Foucault's Power Relations and Discourse	285
	Practice Theory and Power	287
	Agency	298
	The Grammatical Encoding of Agency	302
	Talk About Agency: Meta-Agentive Discourse	305
	Power and Agency In/through/by/of Language	310
	Notes	313
	References	328
	Index	364