

About This Book

This Analytical Contents provides a topic outline of each chapter and of the entire volume, complementing the Table of Contents, the closing section of the Introduction (§0.5) and the Subject Index. A uniform numbering of §§ and sub-§§ by legal decimals is used here which preserves the structure and numbering of the authors' sub-section headings. The first digit is in each case the number of the chapter. Some section headings have been supplied for this Analytical Contents; these are placed in square brackets.

Contents	xxi
Notes on Contributors	xxv
Notes on Sources and Key to Abbreviations	xxxi

0	Introduction: Understanding Hegel and His Philosophical Project, Kenneth R. Westphal and Marina F. Bykova
0.1	Introduction	xxxix
0.2	Hegel's Entré	xl
0.3	Hegel's Systematic Philosophy	xliii
0.4	Dialectic	xlvi
0.5	The Palgrave Hegel Handbook: Aims and Scope	1

I. INTELLECTUAL BACKGROUND AND PHILOSOPHICAL PROJECT

1	Hegel: His Life and His Path in Philosophy, Marina F. Bykova
1.0	[Introduction]	3
1.1	Early Life and First Encounter with Philosophy	4
1.2	Time in Tübingen: Acquaintance with Hölderlin and Schelling, and Lived Experience of the French Revolution	6
1.3	Pre-Jena Period: Despair, Uncertainty and Desire for a New Path	8
1.4	At Jena: Launching His Academic Career	10
		xi

1.5	Between Jena and Heidelberg: Another Period of Despair	13
1.6	Heidelberg Period: Return to the University	16
1.7	Call to Berlin: Realization of Goals and Ambitions	17
2	Situating Hegel: From Transcendental Philosophy to a Phenomenology of Spirit , Michael Baur
2.0	[Introduction]	23
2.1	Kant's Transcendental Philosophy	24
2.2	Early Skeptical Critiques of Kant's Transcendental Philosophy	26
2.3	Fichte's Philosophy of Freedom	30
2.4	Schelling's Turn to Spinoza	35
2.5	On the Way to Hegel's Phenomenology of Spirit	38
3	Kant, Hegel and the Historicity of Pure Reason, Kenneth R. Westphal
3.1	Introduction	45
3.2	Kant and the History of Pure Reason	48
3.3	Hamann, Herder and the "Meta-critique" of Pure Reason	49
3.4	The Profusion of Post-critique Alternatives	50
3.5	Hegel's "Self-Consummating Skepticism"	52
3.6	The Twin Targets of Hegel's Phenomenological Critique	55
3.7	Hegel's Phenomenological, Critical History of Pure Reason in the 1807 Phenomenology	57
3.8	Hegelian Conclusions	59
4	Hegel's Epistemology, Giuseppe Varnier
4.0	[Introduction]	65
4.1	Problems of Scholarly Neglect of Hegel's Epistemology	66
4.2	Hegel's Striking Originality in Epistemology	67
4.3	Skeptical Naturalism and Reconceiving Knowing as a Dynamic Process	69
4.4	Kant's Critical Self-Scrutiny of Reason is Achieved Historically	72
4.5	Hegel's Systematic Philosophy Anticipates (inter alia) Structural Realism	75
4.6	Knowing is Anchored in Doing, in Practical Reasoning and Activities	78

II. PHENOMENOLOGY OF SPIRIT

5	The Role of Religion in Hegel's Phenomenological Justification of Philosophical Science, Ardis B. Collins
5.1	Introduction	85

5.2	Hegel's Ambiguous Discussion of the Presupposition Question	86
5.3	Hegel's Scientific Proof Procedure	88
5.4	Consciousness Retreats into the Infinity of Life and Self-Consciousness	91
5.5	Self-Consciousness Retreats into the Transcendence of the Rational	93
5.6	The Emergence of the Irrational and the Retreat into Spirit	95
5.7	The Spirit of the Enlightenment	97
5.8	The Spirit of the Moral World and the Retreat into Religion	99
5.9	The Spirit of Religion and the Retreat into Absolute Knowing	102
5.10	Conclusion	105
6	Absolute Spirit in Performative Self-Relations of Persons, Pirmin Stekeler-Weithofer
6.1	Introduction and Main Results	109
6.2	Systematic and Conceptual Background	116
6.2.1	Ding an sich, Transcendental Apperception, and Intellectual Intuition	118
6.2.2	Self-Consciousness	119
6.2.3	Being an Object of Knowledge and Being as a Performative Attitude	120
6.2.4	Relative Self-Ascriptions and Absolute Performance	121
6.3	Investigating Real Human Consciousness	121
6.3.1	Deconstructing Empiricist Self-Knowledge	121
6.3.2	Deconstructing a Thinking Soul as the Master of the Body	122
6.3.3	Deconstructing Intuitive Appeals to Reason	122
6.3.4	Human Spirit as the Form of a Personal Subject in We-Groups	124
6.4	Absolute Spirit	125
6.4.1	Finite Knowledge and the Practical Role of Ideals	125
6.4.2	The Idea of the Good	127
6.4.3	Ideal Truth	128
6.4.4	Mundane Truth in Religion and Art vs. Parochial Views in Empiricism and Scientism	128
6.5	Conclusion	129
7	Individuality, Individualism and Our Human Zoön Politikon , Kenneth R. Westphal
7.1	[Introduction: Self-Consciousness and Self-Sufficiency]	133
7.2	[Social Ontology: Moderate Collectivism]	134
7.3	[Hegel's (Kantian) Campaign against Logical Egoism]	135
7.4	[Individualistic Claims to Self-sufficiency, from 'Sense Certainty' through 'Spirit']	135

7.5	[Reconciliation, Reciprocal Recognition and Absolute Spirit]	143
7.6	[Why Autonomous Individual Rational Judgment and Justification are Fundamentally Social and Historical]	144

III. SCIENCE OF LOGIC AND THE SYSTEM OF PHILOSOPHY

8	Method in Hegel's Dialectic-Speculative Logic, Angelica Nuzzo
8.0	[Introduction]	151
8.1	Form and Content of Thinking: Formal, Transcendental, Dialectic-Speculative Logic	153
8.2	Method and the Inner Self-Movement of the Content	161
8.3	Conclusion	164
9	Aufhebung , John W. Burbidge
9.0	[Introduction]	167
9.1	[Sublation: from Being to Dasein]	169
9.2	[As developed in the Science of Logic]	172
9.3	[As developed in the Phenomenology of Spirit and the Philosophy of Spirit]	178
9.4	[As developed in the Philosophy of Nature]	180
10	Freedom as Belonging: A Defense of Hegelian Holism, Henry M. Southgate
10.1	Introduction	183
10.2	A Tale of Two Stories	186
10.3	"Freedom Is Not Free"	187
10.4	Kill, Eat, Be Free	190
10.5	An Exercise in Idealism	194
10.6	[Conclusion]	195

IV. PHILOSOPHY OF NATURE

11	Levels of Reality or Development? Hegel's Realphilosophie and Philosophy of the Sciences, Michael Wolff
11.0	[Introduction: ' Realphilosophie ' and Philosophy of the Special Sciences]	201
11.1	[Why Special Sciences Afford and Require Realphilosophie]	204
11.2	[Hegel's Creation Metaphor encloses a Notable Core]	213
12	Causality, Natural Systems, and Hegel's Organicism, Kenneth R. Westphal
12.1	Introduction	219

12.2	Conceptual Analysis and Philosophical Naturalism	220
12.3	Hegel's Lessons from and Corrections to Kant's Critical Philosophy	221
12.3.1	Singular Cognitive Reference	221
12.3.2	Matter and Dynamism	222
12.3.3	Deductive Scientia and Conceptual Analysis	222
12.3.4	Transeunt Causality	223
12.3.5	Metrics for Natural Phenomena?	224
12.3.6	Functional Explanation	224
12.3.7	Reductionism and Complex Systems	225
12.4	Hegel and Scientific Biology	226
12.4.1	Geosphere, Biosphere and Environment	226
12.4.2	Causal Powers vs Causal Activities?	226
12.5	Hegel's Central Theses in "Force and Understanding"	227
12.5.1	[Six Central Theses from "Force and Understanding"]	227
12.5.2	[Hegel's Critique of the Traditional Concept of Substance]	227
12.6	Hegel's Semantics: Conceptual Explication and 'the Necessity of the Concept'	228
12.6.1	[Philosophical theory of knowledge must take the natural sciences into close consideration.]	228
12.6.2	Hegel's Co-determination Thesis	230
12.6.3	Conceptual Explication	231
12.7	One Central Aim of Hegel's Philosophy of Nature	232
13	Hegel's Philosophy of Natural and Human Spaces, Cinzia Ferrini
13.1	Introduction	241
13.2	Space from Mechanics to Physics	242
13.2.1	Nature as the Idea in the Form of Being-Other	242
13.2.2	The Quantitative Beginning of the Philosophy of Nature: Indifferent Spatial Externality in Mechanics	246
13.2.3	The Significance of Space in the Physics of Individualized Matter	251
13.3	Space in the Experience of Inhabiting the Earth	253
13.3.1	Animal Life and Its Space	253
13.3.2	Geognosy, Physical Geography and World History: Hegel's Speculative Deduction of Natural Spaces	255
13.4	Space in Spirit	258
13.4.1	Space from the Natural Soul to the Phenomenality of Spirit	258

V. PHILOSOPHY OF SPIRIT

14	Embodied Cognition, Habit, and Natural Agency in Hegel's Anthropology, Italo Testa
14.0	[Introduction]	269

14.1	Ontology of Living Activity	270
14.1.1	Embodiment	270
14.1.2	Self-Organization	271
14.1.3	Interaction	272
14.2	Embodied Cognition	273
14.3	Habit as Sensorimotor Life Form	275
14.3.1	Bodily Memory and Imagination	278
14.3.2	The Integration of Holism and Associationism in Habit Formation	280
14.3.3	Lower and Higher Level Habits, and Animal Life	282
14.4	Embodiment Revisited. Physiological, Functional, and Phenomenological Aspects	284
14.5	Habits and the Conditions of Agency	287
14.5.1	Hegel's Continuity Thesis	291
15	Sentience and Feeling in the Anthropology, Allegra de Laurentiis
15.1	Introduction	297
15.2	On Waking up to Sentience	299
15.3	On Quivering, Sensibility, and Sentience	302
15.4	Transition from Sentience to Feeling	304
15.5	On Self-Feeling	307
15.6	Conclusion	311
16	Intuition, Representation, and Thinking: Hegel's Psychology and the Placement Problem, Markus Gabriel
16.0	[Introduction]	317
16.1	The Method	319
16.2	Intuition	323
16.3	Representation	325
16.3.1	Recollection (Erinnerung)	327
16.3.2	Imagination (Einbildungskraft)	328
16.3.3	Memory (Gedächtnis)	329
16.4	Thinking (Denken)	330
16.5	Conclusion: Overcoming the Dilemma	332
17	Hegel on Poetry, Prose and the Origin of the Arts, Allen Speight
17.0	[Introduction]	337
17.1	Hegel on the Origins of Poetry and Art	338
17.2	The Development of Prose	341
17.3	Poetry in the Developed World of Prose: The Literary and Post-romantic Art	343
17.4	Conclusions and Questions	347

18	Hegel's Recasting of the Theological Proofs, Robert Williams
18.1	Introduction	351
18.2	Hegel's Critique of Kant's Understanding of Religion	353
18.3	Philosophy of Religion Displaces Traditional Natural Theology	354
18.4	Kant's Fact of Reason: From Immanence to Transcendence	355
18.5	Hegel's Fact of Religion as Elevation of Spirit to God	356
18.6	The Cosmological Proof	358
18.7	The Defect in the Traditional Cosmological Proof	360
18.8	Differentiating Elevation of Spirit from the Traditional Cosmological Proof	361
18.9	The True Infinite: The Ontological Proof and the Unity of the Proofs	365

VI. PRACTICAL AND POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY

19	Logic and Social Theory: Hegel on the Conceptual Significance of Political Change, Christopher L. Yeomans
19.0	[Introduction]	373
19.1	The Logical Significance of the Objectivity of Political Spirit	376
19.2	The Logical Significance of Free Choice of Profession Open to Talent	379
19.3	The Logical Significance of Social Pluralism	382
19.4	Conclusion	386
20	Sittlichkeit and the Actuality of Freedom: On Kant and Hegel, Christian Krijnen
20.0	[Introduction]	389
20.1	Criticism of Kant's Formalism as Criticism of the Program of Transcendental Philosophy	389
20.2	The Perspective of Actualizing Freedom	392
20.3	On the Exposition of the Concept of Freedom in Kant and Hegel and its Ramifications	393
20.4	Hegel's Criticism of Practical Formalism	396
20.4.1	Formalism as Frustration of Actualizing Freedom	398
20.4.2	Hegel's Logic of Freedom	399
20.4.3	Externality as the Unfreedom of Action	400
20.4.4	Hegel's Sittlichkeit as Rationalization of the Content	401
21	Speculative Institutionalism: Hegel's Legacy for Any Political Economy that Will Be Able to Present Itself as a Science, Ivan Boldyrev
21.0	[Introduction]	409

21.1	Speculative Political Economy: What Were the Questions?	410
21.2	Hegel's Institutional Theory: A Tentative Reconstruction	413
21.3	Habit: A Redemptive Repetition	416
21.4	Corporations: Devices of Conformity	417
21.5	Hegel and Current Economics: Accepting the Prophet?	418
21.6	Conclusion: Political Economy of the Future	420
22	Hegel's Philosophy of Bildung , Marina F. Bykova
22.1	Introduction	425
22.2	On the Early History of the Term	427
22.3	Hegel and the German Tradition of Bildung	429
22.4	A Note on Sources	432
22.5	On the Relation Between Bildung and Spirit	433
22.6	Bildung as the Dialectic of Recognition	434
22.7	Otherness and Its Importance to Bildung	436
22.8	Dialectical Negation and Bildung	437
22.9	Mutual Recognition, Intersubjectivity and the Social Significance of Bildung	438
22.10	The Historical-Cultural Significance of Bildung : Acculturation and Freedom	440
22.11	Conclusion	444

VII. PHILOSOPHY OF WORLD HISTORY AND HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY

23	Hegel's Philosophy of World History, Andreas Arndt
23.1	On the Tradition of the Lectures	453
23.2	The Systematic Position of World History	454
23.3	Types of Historiography: The "Introduction" 1822–1828	458
23.4	History and Reason: The Introduction 1830/31	460
23.5	The End of History	464
24	Freedom and the Logic of History, Simon Lumsden
24.0	[Introduction]	467
24.1	Providence, Teleology and Freedom	468
24.2	Reason, Passion and the Universal	473
24.3	World History and the State as the Realization of Freedom	478
25	History of Philosophy in Hegel's System, Nelly V. Motroshilova
25.1	Evolution and Change in Hegel's Account of the History of Philosophy	485
25.1.1	Establishing History of Philosophy as a Philosophical Discipline	485

25.1.2	Dating Hegel's Lectures on History of Philosophy	487
25.2	Problems with Michelet's Record of Hegel's Lectures on History of Philosophy	487
25.3	Hegel's Introduction to His Lectures on History of Philosophy (28 October 1816, Jena)	489
25.4	Hegel: Introduction to the History of Philosophy, and its Concept	490
25.5	This Entails Further Consequences That Hegel Stresses	492
25.6	Sources of the History of Philosophy	494
25.7	Philosophy as "Its Epoch Captured in Thought"	497
25.8	Philosophy, its Distinctive Character, and the Role of the History of Philosophy	499
25.9	"Gestalt" of Recent German Philosophy in Hegel's Concept of the History of Philosophy	501
25.10	Hegel's Analysis of "the Latest German Philosophy" Through Its Central Concepts	504
25.10.1	Freedom of the Human Spirit	504
25.10.2	Hegel's Historical-Philosophical Portrait of Kant	505
25.10.3	Philosophical Idealism as a Distinct Feature of German Classical Philosophical Teachings of Hegel's Time	506
25.10.4	"Objective Spirit" and the History of Philosophy	508
25.11	The Place of History of Philosophy in Hegel's System	511
25.12	"Final Result" of the History of Philosophy as Portrayed by Hegel	513

VIII. HEGELIANISM AND POST-HEGELIAN THOUGHT

26	Hegel and Recent Analytic Metaphysics, Paul Redding
26.0	[Introduction]	521
26.1	The Hidden Role of Hegel in the Development of Modal Logic in Twentieth Century	523
26.1.1	Hegel, Royce, Russell and C. I. Lewis	523
26.1.2	Hegel, Findlay and Prior	526
26.2	Hegel's Idealism as Mediated Actualism	531
26.3	Conclusion	536
27	Hegel's Pragmatism, Willem de Vries
27.0	[Introduction]	541
27.1	Mind and Knowledge in the Cartesian Tradition	543
27.2	Problems with Cartesianism, 1: The Case of "Experience"	544
27.3	Problems with Cartesianism, 2: Agency and Externality	547
27.4	Problems with Cartesianism, 3: Rational Being as Social Achievement	549
27.5	Yet Hegel Was Not a Pragmatist	553

28	The “Pittsburgh” Neo-Hegelianism of Robert Brandom and John McDowell, Paul Redding
28.1	Introduction	559
28.2	From Sellars to the Sellarsians: Rorty, Brandom and McDowell	561
28.3	The Creation of the Pittsburgh “Neo-Hegelians”	564
28.4	A Future for Pittsburgh Neo-Hegelianism?	567
	Appendices	573
	The Chronology of Hegel’s Life	575
	Hegel’s Philosophical System in His Writings and Lecture Series	577
	Conclusion: An Agenda for Future Research, Marina F. Bykova and Kenneth R. Westphal	581
	Name Index	587
	Subject Index	591