CONTENTS

Preface page xiii
Table of cases xv
Table of statutes xxvi
Table of statutory instruments xxxi
International treaties xxxii
List of abbreviations xxxiii

1 Introduction 1

The role of corporate lawyers and their firms: the issues 1

The scope of the book 7

Corporate lawyers 7
The large corporate firms 8
Smaller firms 10
In-house lawyers 10
The corporate client 12
Corporate governance 14

The organisation of the book 17

2 The international perspective 19

Introduction 19

The comparative landscape: the United States, Australia and Canada 21

The United States 21
The US Legal profession and corporate scandals 21
A profession under scrutiny 26
The ABA Model Rules 28
The Sarbanes-Oxley Act 2002 29
Australia 30
Canada 35

Extraterritorial regulation of the corporate lawyer 38
Europe and the in-house lawyer 38
The cross-border provision of services and double deontology 41

The global role of UK (and US) corporate lawyers 45

3 The roles of the corporate lawyer 48

Introduction 48

The legal services business 49

The professional role and public service 56
A public-service role? 56
The standard conception of the lawyer's role 62
Zealous advocacy 63
Neutrality 65

Renegotiating the professional role 70
The social functions of the corporate lawyer 70
Counsellor 72
The duty to counsel on ethical issues 73
Counselling respect for the law 75
Gatekeeper 76
Whistle-blower 78

Conclusion 80

4 Identifying the corporate client 82

Introduction 82

Establishing the retainer 83
Express and implied retainers 83
Implying a retainer: relevant factors 86

Identifying the client in owner-managed companies 88
Start-ups 88
Majority shareholders and alter ego companies 89
Minority shareholders 92

Identifying the client in groups 93

The consequences of acting for more than one corporate constituent 96
Conflicts of interest 96
Informed consent 98

The reasonableness of representation – representing joint owners 100
Standing to complain 102
Avoiding conflicts of interest 105
Limited retainers 105
Joint representation and information barriers 106
Confidentiality and privilege 107

Dispersed share-ownership companies 108
Identifying the client 109
Three Rivers (No. 5) and actual authority 109
Section 40 of the Companies Act 2006 and apparent authority 111
Agent acting without authority 112
The effect of the director's assertions of the client's approval 115
Agents possessing authority but acting in breach of duty to the company 117
The lawyer's response to misconduct: who is the client for up-the-line reporting? 118

Conclusion 122

5 The role of the corporate lawyer in intra-corporate litigation 124

Introduction 124

The corporate governance function of the unfair prejudice remedy and the derivative claim 126

The role of the lawyer in unfair prejudice litigation in owner-managed companies 129
Section 994 litigation and the interests of the company 129
Representing the company 133
Representing the majority 134
Present clients and conflicts of interest 135
The company as a past client 137
The minority shareholder as a past client 140
Where the minority shareholder was never a client 140
Problems and possible solutions 141
A fiduciary relationship surviving the end of the retainer 143
The supervisory jurisdiction of the courts 146

The role of the lawyer in the derivative claim 149
Representing the company 150

Representing the company and the alleged wrongdoers 154
Representing the alleged wrongdoers 155

Conclusion 156

6 The corporate lawyer as director 158

Introduction 158

Arguments for lawyers sitting on the board of client companies 159
It promotes the client's interests 159
It promotes the interests of lawyers and their firms 161

Arguments against lawyers sitting on the board of client companies 163
The board's composition and performance and the lawyer-director 163
Conflicts of interest 166
Loss of professional independence 170
Legal professional privilege 173

Conclusion 176

7 The regulation of the corporate lawyer 179

Introduction 179

Civil liability controls: lawyers as reputational intermediaries and gatekeepers 181
Obligations to the client and resulting liabilities 181
An obligation to advise 182
An obligation to report up the line 186
An obligation to withhold assistance 190
Dishonest assistance of breach of fiduciary duty 193
The economic torts 196
Third parties' causes of action 196
Duty of care in tort 198
The economic torts 201
Lawful means conspiracy 207
Inducing breach of contract 208

Legislative controls 209

Disciplinary controls: the SRA Code 211
Refusing assistance 212
The duty to disclose and up-the-line reporting 213

Whistle-blowing 214
The common law 214
Disciplinary controls: the SRA Code 216
Legislative controls 217

Conclusion 220

8 The case against reform 223

Introduction 223

Change is unnecessary 223
The present system of corporate governance is sufficiently strong 223
Reforms should focus on other groups 230

Reform would not work 232
Reputational capital 232
Structural constraints 234
Cognitive bias 236

Reform would undermine legal professional privilege 238

Reform would be too costly 244
Whistle-blowing 244
Disclosure counsel and certification 246

Conclusion 248

9 Reforming the role of the corporate lawyer 249

Addressing fraud 249
Strengthening the gatekeeper role of in-house and external lawyers: up-the-line reporting 249
To whom should lawyers report? 252
Triggering the obligation 253
To whom should the obligation apply? 255
Withdrawal 255
Strengthening the gatekeeper role of in-house lawyers 256

Addressing creative compliance 258
The SRA Code of Conduct and the spirit of the law 258
The proposal is too uncertain 258
The proposal offends against the rule of law 260
The proposal requires lawyers to impose their moral views on the client 261

The proposal could deter legitimate innovation and place lawyers at a competitive disadvantage 262
Lawyers will ignore it 263
Withdrawing legal advice privilege 263
Third-party rights of action 268

Strengthening the counselling role 274

Conclusion 275

10 The reform of the legal profession and the role of the corporate lawyers 276

Introduction 276

Alternative business structures 277
How ABSs might strengthen the lawyer's corporate governance role 279
Privilege 279
Professional values 280
Closing the information and accountability gap 283
Practising to share price 284
How ABSs could undermine the lawyer's corporate governance role 287
Practising to share price 287
Conflicts of interest: MDPs 287
Conflicts of interest: outside-owned firms 289
Innovation 291

Entity regulation 292

Outcomes- and principles-based regulation 294

Risk-based regulation 296

Conclusion 300

11 Conclusion 303

Bibliography 311
Index 336