

CONTENTS

1	Introduction	1
	A Visegrad Group Political Culture?	9
	Vestiges of Communism and Troubles with Liberalism	15
2	Democracy Promotion by the V4 States: Origins and Motives	21
	Democratic Identity	23
	Europeanization	25
	Return to the "West" and Status	28
	Geopolitics and Geostrategy	32
	Solidarity and Epistemic Communities	38
3	The Democracy Assistance Infrastructure of the Visegrad States	43
	The Czech Republic: A Determined Promotor	46
	Hungary: A Reluctant Promotor	50
	Poland: Engaging in the Name of Solidarity	55
	Slovakia: Joining Democracy Promotion Efforts with a Time-Lag	59
4	The Target States of Visegrad Countries' Democracy Assistance	63

5	The Substance of Visegrad States' Democracy Assistance	77
	Conceptualizing Democracy	78
	Transition Experience—"De-ideologizing" Democracy Assistance	81
	Educating and Mobilizing the Youth	85
	Training and Expertise Sharing	88
	Civil Society Support	92
	Rules-Based Market Economy	98
6	External and Internal Factors Shaping the Substance of Visegrad States' Democracy Assistance	103
	Downloading and Uploading the Rationale for Conducting Democracy Assistance	105
	Gender and the Empowerment of Women	113
	Windows of Opportunity, Domestic Discourses and Rhetoric	121
7	The International Visegrad Fund as a Democracy Promotion Instrument	135
	A Theoretical Perspective on the IVF	136
	The Structure and Procedures of the IVF	139
	Substance of the IVF's Activities	141
8	Conclusion	149
	Index	157