

Contents

|   |                         |            |
|---|-------------------------|------------|
| Preface   |                         | vii        |
| Repressive Population Transfers in Central,Eastern and South-eastern Europe: A HistoricalOverview                           | Alfred J. Rieber | 1   |
| The Deportation of the Polish Population tothe USSR, 1939–41  | N.S. Lebedeva    | 28  |
| The Polish–Czechoslovak Conflict over Teschen:The Problem of Resettling Poles and thePosition of the USSR                   | T.V. Volokitina  | 46  |
| The Catholic Church and Deportations ofEthnic Germans from the Czech Lands  | Emilia Hrabovec  | 64  |
| The Fate of Hungarian Minorities in Slovakiaafter the Second World War: Resettlement andRe-Slovakization: Moscow's Position | G.P. Murashko    | 83  |
| Migration of the Germans after the Second WorldWar: Political and Psychological Aspects   | A.F. Noskova     | 96  |
| 'Make the Germans Do It': The Refugee Problemin the American Zone of Post-war Germany   | Sylvia Schraut   | 115 |
| The Integration of Deportees into the Society ofthe Federal Republic of Germany   | Thomas Grosser   | 125 |
| Refugees and Expellees in the Soviet Zone ofGermany: Political and Social Problems of theirIntegration, 1945–50             | Michael Schwartz | 148 |

Ethnography of an Encounter: Reactions to Refugees in Post-war Germany and Russian
Migrants after the Reunification – Context,
Analogies and Changes

Susanne Spülbeck 175

Notes on Contributors

191

Index

193