

Principle & Practice in Applied Linguistics

This book provides a wide-ranging overview of the many and diverse issues in applied linguistics today. Leading specialists consider the relation of their own areas of enquiry both to professional practice and to the discipline as a whole. The volume includes state-of-the-art papers on

- theory and research in language learning and teaching
- second language acquisition
- spoken and written discourse
- International English
- communicative competence and grammar
- genre and rhetoric
- communication across cultures
- corpus linguistics
- literature and literature teaching
- classroom practices.

Together, they emphasize the reciprocal relationship of principle and practice, and the interdisciplinary nature of applied linguistics.

The editors, contributors, and publishers are privileged to dedicate this volume to H.G. Widdowson in recognition of the invaluable contribution he has made to so many aspects of the profession.

GUY COOK is Reader in Education at the University of London Institute of Education.

BARBARA SEIDLHOFER is Associate Professor in Applied English Linguistics at the University of Vienna.
