

Table of Contents

List of Figures and Table	xix
List of Authorities	xxi
List of Abbreviations	xxv

Part I Setting the Scene

Introduction: Righting Policing	3
Prologue	3
The Arrival of Human Rights on the Police Scene	6
The Research Scene	9
Policing Human Rights	13
In the Shadow of the Past: Policing, Human Rights and the Condition of Northern Ireland	17
The Arrangement of the Book	24
1. Towards a Sociological Approach to Human Rights Law	32
Reconsidering 'Legal Closure'	34
Human Rights as a 'Vernacular' of Policing	41
Human Rights, Socialization and Sensemaking	45
Police as 'Practitioners' of Human Rights	49
Research Methods	54
Conclusion	61

Part II Official Vernaculars: The Politics of Rights

2. The Official Police Voice	65
Legitimation, the Official Voice and Influential Audiences	66
Listening to the Official Voice: The Construction of Human Rights	70
Interpreting the Official Voice	73
Human Rights as Legality	74
Human Rights as an 'Ethics of Power'	79
Human Rights as Accountability	85

xvi Table of Contents

Influential Audiences: 'Authorizing' Human Rights Narratives	89
Conclusion	95
3. The Policing Board: Ethno-Political Tenors	98
The Policing Board	99
Human Rights in Context	103
Talking through Human Rights	111
Policing the Conflict	111
Contemporary Policing	117
Mobilizing Human Rights	121
Conclusion	128
 Part III Routine Policing: Making Sense of Rights
4. Dirty Work: The Tactical Support Group	133
Doing 'Dirty Work'	136
Counter-Narratives of Human Rights	140
'They Go On About It Ad Nauseam'	141
'It's More for the Bosses'	145
'It's Just Common Sense'	152
'It's What We've Always Been Doing'	157
Conclusion	165
5. Community Work: Neighbourhood Policing Teams	169
Community Policing in Northern Ireland	170
The Research Sites: Clantown and Orangeville	173
Joining up the Dots: Human Rights and the Practice of Community Policing	175
Talking Rights in Communities	185
Whose Rights, Whose Order?	191
Conclusion	200
 Part IV Public Order Policing: The Rights of Protestors, Public and Police
6. Righting the Public Order Script	205
Parades and Protests in Northern Ireland	207
The Shifting Legal Landscape: Revisiting Liberty and Order	211

Embedding Human Rights: The Organizational ‘Script’	217
Writing the Script	217
Promoting the Script: Reporting to the Parades Commission	221
Delivering the Script: Briefings and Operational Orders	222
Understanding the Script: Translating Human Rights Law into Practice	225
Public Order Command Training	226
The ‘Bridgers’	233
Conclusion	238
 7. The Script in Action: Participation and Performance	 241
Selling the Script: Community Engagement	243
Over-Facilitating (Un)Peaceful Protest?	248
Performing the Script: Managing the Use of Force	261
The Authorization Process	263
Avoiding ‘Trouble’?	267
Human Rights Law in the Face of ‘Trouble’	272
Conclusion	277
 Part V Police Custody: The Rights of Suspects
 8. ‘Arrest, Arrest, Arrest’: Statutory Safeguards under Pressure	 283
Statutory Safeguards Protecting the Right to Liberty	286
Processing Pressure: Receiving Arrests and Detaining Suspects	292
Reasonable Suspicion of an Offence	293
The Necessity to Arrest	299
The Necessity to Detain	307
Conclusion	314
 9. Feeling the Pressure: Custody Officers’ Decision to Detain	 316
The Decision to Detain: Routine Authorization	317
Ploys and Narratives for Pro-Authorization of Suspects’ Detention	319
Dynamics Affecting the Decision to Authorize	323
Cultural Dynamics of Legal Decision-Making	324
Organizational Dynamics of Legal Decision-Making	328

xviii Table of Contents

The Presence of Outsiders: Defence Solicitors and Lay Custody Visitors	331
Conclusion	337
Conclusion	342
Introduction	342
Embracing a Sociological Approach to Human Rights Law	343
Encounters with Human Rights Law in Policing	348
‘Before the Law’	349
‘With the Law’	352
‘Against the Law’	356
Lessons from the Local?	360
Bibliography	369
Index	407