

Volume 1

- | | | |
|------|---|------|
| [1] | Chapter 1: The family of Dashwood had long been settled in Sussex. | 3:40 |
| [2] | Mr Dashwood's disappointment... | 2:32 |
| [3] | No sooner was his father's funeral over... | 3:33 |
| [4] | Chapter 2: Mrs John Dashwood now installed herself mistress... | 3:56 |
| [5] | 'I would not wish to do anything mean...' | 4:09 |
| [6] | 'To be sure it will...' | 3:24 |
| [7] | Chapter 3: Mrs Dashwood remained at Norland several months... | 4:28 |
| [8] | Edward had been staying several weeks in the house... | 5:06 |
| [9] | Chapter 4: 'What a pity it is Elinor,' said Marianne | 4:13 |
| [10] | Elinor started at this declaration... | 4:12 |
| [11] | But whatever might really be its limits it was enough... | 3:32 |
| [12] | Chapter 5: No sooner was her answer dispatched... | 6:20 |
| [13] | Chapter 6: The first part of their journey... | 3:40 |
| [14] | In the mean time, till all these alterations could be made... | 4:03 |
| [15] | Chapter 7: Barton Park was about half a mile from the cottage... | 4:12 |
| [16] | Mrs Jennings, Lady Middleton's mother... | 3:32 |
| [17] | Chapter 8: Mrs Jennings was a widow with an ample jointure. | 3:23 |
| [18] | 'Mama, you are not doing me justice.' | 4:09 |

CD 2

- | | | |
|----|---|------|
| 1 | Chapter 9: The Dashwoods were now settled at Barton... | 3:44 |
| 2 | A gentleman, carrying a gun... | 3:12 |
| 3 | Sir John called on them... | 4:12 |
| 4 | Chapter 10: Marianne's preserver... | 4:38 |
| 5 | Willoughby, on his side gave every proof of his pleasure... | 4:11 |
| 6 | Perhaps she pitied and esteemed him more... | 4:03 |
| 7 | Chapter 11: Little had Mrs Dashwood or her daughters imagined... | 4:47 |
| 8 | In Colonel Brandon alone... | 4:34 |
| 9 | Chapter 12: As Elinor and Marianne were walking together... | 4:33 |
| 10 | Margaret related something to her the next day... | 5:38 |
| 11 | Chapter 13: Their intended excursion to Whitwell... | 4:07 |
| 12 | 'There's no persuading you to change your mind Brandon...' | 4:17 |
| 13 | It was settled that there should be a dance in the evening... | 4:50 |
| 14 | Chapter 14: The sudden termination of Colonel Brandon's visit... | 4:18 |
| 15 | One evening in particular... | 4:52 |

CD 3

- | | | |
|----|---|------|
| 1 | Chapter 15: Mrs Dashwood's visit to Lady Middleton... | 4:07 |
| 2 | Mrs Dashwood felt too much for speech... | 3:44 |
| 3 | 'Then you would have told me...' | 4:20 |
| 4 | 'A mighty concession indeed!' | 3:46 |
| 5 | Chapter 16: Marianne would have thought herself very inexcusable | 4:23 |
| 6 | It was several days before Willoughby's name was mentioned... | 3:16 |
| 7 | He was the only person in the world... | 5:02 |
| 8 | Chapter 17: Mrs Dashwood was surprised only for a moment... | 3:37 |
| 9 | Elinor smiled again... | 3:41 |
| 10 | 'I have frequently detected myself in such kind of mistakes...' | 3:16 |
| 11 | Chapter 18: Elinor saw with great uneasiness the low spirits... | 4:33 |
| 12 | The subject was continued no farther... | 5:09 |
| 13 | Chapter 19: Edward remained a week at the cottage... | 2:51 |
| 14 | 'I think Edward,' said Mrs Dashwood... | 4:15 |
| 15 | Elinor sat down to her drawing-table... | 4:28 |
| 16 | Mrs Palmer was several years younger than Lady Middleton... | 3:22 |
| 17 | 'Here comes Marianne,' cried Sir John... | 2:53 |

CD 4

- | | | |
|------|--|------|
| [1] | Chapter 20: As the Miss Dashwoods entered the drawing-room... | 4:10 |
| [2] | Charlotte laughed heartily... | 4:05 |
| [3] | Elinor was again obliged to decline her invitation... | 5:40 |
| [4] | Chapter 21: The Palmers returned to Cleveland... | 4:07 |
| [5] | When their promised visit to the park... | 4:14 |
| [6] | 'Poor little creatures!' said Miss Steele... | 4:38 |
| [7] | This specimen of the Miss Steeles was enough... | 4:48 |
| [8] | Chapter 22: Marianne, who had never much toleration... | 5:20 |
| [9] | What felt Elinor at that moment? | 4:53 |
| [10] | She was silent. | 3:57 |
| [11] | Here she took out her handkerchief... | 4:55 |

Volume 2

- | | | |
|------|--|------|
| [12] | Chapter 1: However small Elinor's general dependence... | 4:00 |
| [13] | As these considerations occurred to her.... | 4:11 |
| [14] | But it was not immediately that an opportunity of doing so... | 3:41 |
| [15] | Lucy directly drew her work table near her... | 2:51 |
| [16] | Chapter 2: In a firm, though cautious tone... | 4:34 |
| [17] | 'But what,' said she after a short silence... | 3:41 |
| [18] | They were again silent for many minutes... | 5:07 |

CD 5

- | | | |
|------|--|------|
| [1] | Chapter 3: Though Mrs Jennings was in the habit... | 3:40 |
| [2] | Mrs Jennings repeated her assurance... | 4:06 |
| [3] | Elinor could not help smiling at this display of indifference... | 3:53 |
| [4] | Chapter 4: Elinor could not find herself in the carriage... | 3:38 |
| [5] | As dinner was not to be ready in less than two hours... | 4:39 |
| [6] | This, and the manner in which it was said... | 3:37 |
| [7] | After an hour or two... | 4:02 |
| [8] | Chapter 5: 'If this open weather holds much longer...' | 4:23 |
| [9] | About a week after their arrival... | 3:14 |
| [10] | Elinor found, when the evening was over... | 3:46 |
| [11] | Her letter was scarcely finished when a rap foretold a visitor... | 5:11 |
| [12] | Chapter 6: Nothing occurred during the next three or four days... | 4:46 |
| [13] | He made no reply; his complexion changed... | 4:25 |
| [14] | Chapter 7: Before the housemaid had lit their fire... | 5:06 |
| [15] | Mrs Jennings laughed again, but Elinor had not spirits to say more... | 4:18 |
| [16] | In her earnest meditations on the contents of the letter... | 5:03 |
| [17] | Elinor said no more. | 3:31 |
| [18] | That such letters, so full of affection and confidence... | 3:44 |
| [19] | Again they were both silent. | 3:12 |

CD 6

- | | | |
|------|---|------|
| [1] | Chapter 8: Mrs Jennings came immediately... | 4:21 |
| [2] | 'Poor soul!' cried Mrs Jennings... | 4:11 |
| [3] | 'It would be unnecessary I am sure...' | 4:59 |
| [4] | In the drawing room whither she then repaired... | 2:52 |
| [5] | 'You mean,' answered Elinor, with forced calmness... | 3:32 |
| [6] | Chapter 9: From a night of more sleep than she had expected... | 5:01 |
| [7] | Mrs Jennings left them earlier than usual... | 4:11 |
| [8] | 'You have probably entirely forgotten a conversation...' | 4:35 |
| [9] | He could say no more... | 3:05 |
| [10] | Again he stopped to recover himself; and Elinor spoke her feelings... | 3:38 |
| [11] | 'Good heavens!' cried Elinor | 4:01 |
| [12] | Elinor's thanks followed this speech with grateful earnestness... | 2:25 |
| [13] | Chapter 10: When the particulars of this conversation were repeated... | 4:20 |
| [14] | Marianne had promised to be guided by her mother's opinion... | 3:02 |
| [15] | The calm and polite unconcern of Lady Middleton... | 3:05 |
| [16] | Early in February... | 5:59 |

CD 7

- | | | |
|------|---|------|
| [1] | Chapter 11: After some opposition Marianne yielded... | 3:14 |
| [2] | Their affection and pleasure in meeting was just enough... | 3:19 |
| [3] | After staying with them half an hour... | 4:16 |
| [4] | He paused for her assent and compassion... | 4:58 |
| [5] | 'Why to be sure,' said he, seeming to recollect himself... | 3:24 |
| [6] | Chapter 12: Mrs John Dashwood had so much confidence... | 4:19 |
| [7] | Their claims to the notice of Mrs John Dashwood... | 4:24 |
| [8] | Lucy was all exultation on being so honourably distinguished... | 3:50 |
| [9] | The Colonel, though disclaiming all pretensions... | 4:50 |
| [10] | Chapter 13: Elinor's curiosity to see Mrs Ferrars was satisfied... | 5:54 |
| [11] | Elinor was prevented from making any reply... | 4:30 |
| [12] | This remark was not calculated... | 5:10 |
| [13] | Chapter 14: Within a few days after this meeting... | 4:39 |
| [14] | I come now to the relation of a misfortune... | 3:43 |
| [15] | The events of this evening were not very remarkable... | 3:30 |
| [16] | 'You reside in Devonshire, I think,' | 2:39 |
| [17] | As John Dashwood had no more pleasure in music... | 4:52 |

CD 8

Volume 3

- | | | |
|----|--|------|
| 1 | Chapter 1: Mrs Palmer was so well... | 2:21 |
| 2 | 'That is exactly what I said, my dear.' | 4:34 |
| 3 | Here Mrs Jennings ceased... | 3:55 |
| 4 | Her first communication had reached no farther... | 3:53 |
| 5 | 'I understand you.' | 3:54 |
| 6 | The next morning brought a farther trial of it... | 3:52 |
| 7 | Here Marianne, in an ecstasy of indignation clapped her hands... | 3:02 |
| 8 | 'Poor young man!' | 3:08 |
| 9 | Chapter 2: Mrs Jennings was very warm in her praise... | 3:39 |
| 10 | It was lucky, however, for Mrs Jennings's curiosity... | 5:43 |
| 11 | 'I do not understand what you mean by interrupting them,' | 5:55 |
| 12 | The next morning brought Elinor a letter... | 3:32 |
| 13 | Chapter 3: The Miss Dashwoods had now been... | 3:46 |
| 14 | Perhaps Mrs Jennings was in hopes... | 4:42 |
| 15 | Elinor's astonishment at this commission... | 3:52 |

CD 9

- | | | |
|----|---|------|
| 1 | Chapter 4: 'Well Miss Dashwood,' said Mrs Jennings... | 5:04 |
| 2 | How she should begin, how she should express herself... | 3:57 |
| 3 | 'Yes,' continued Elinor, gathering more resolution... | 4:15 |
| 4 | When Mrs Jennings came home... | 3:16 |
| 5 | Chapter 5: Edward, having carried his thanks to Colonel Brandon... | 4:54 |
| 6 | Elinor contradicted it, however, very positively... | 5:24 |
| 7 | Elinor had heard enough, if not to gratify her vanity... | 6:12 |
| 8 | Chapter 6: One other short call in Harley Street... | 3:26 |
| 9 | Marianne entered the house with her heart swelling... | 3:30 |
| 10 | The two gentlemen arrived the next day... | 4:00 |
| 11 | Chapter 7: Marianne got up the next morning at her usual time... | 5:18 |
| 12 | Two days passed away... | 4:52 |
| 13 | The comfort of such a friend at that moment... | 3:48 |
| 14 | Mr. Harris was punctual in his second visit... | 3:26 |
| 15 | Elinor could not be cheerful. Her joy was of a different kind... | 4:21 |

CD 10

- | | | |
|----|---|------|
| 1 | Chapter 8: Elinor, starting back with a look of horror... | 3:58 |
| 2 | The steadiness of his manner and the intelligence of his eye... | 5:01 |
| 3 | 'You did then,' said Elinor, a little softened... | 3:48 |
| 4 | 'Your indifference, however, towards that unfortunate girl...' | 4:45 |
| 5 | They were both silent for a few moments. | 4:40 |
| 6 | 'Even so. You would be surprised to hear...' | 4:45 |
| 7 | 'Your wife!' | 4:35 |
| 8 | 'Last night, in Drury Lane lobby...' | 5:36 |
| 9 | Chapter 9: Elinor, for some time after he left her... | 3:16 |
| 10 | As soon as Mrs Dashwood had recovered herself... | 3:27 |
| 11 | 'At last we are alone.' | 3:46 |
| 12 | 'Oh! my love, I could not then talk of hope to him...' | 4:02 |
| 13 | Chapter 10: Marianne's illness though weakening in its kind... | 4:34 |
| 14 | As they approached Barton... | 4:17 |
| 15 | Marianne had been two or three days at home... | 3:24 |
| 16 | 'Do you compare your conduct with his?' | 3:41 |
| 17 | Here ceased the rapid flow of her self-reproving spirit... | 4:00 |

CD 11

- | | | |
|----|--|------|
| 1 | Chapter 11: Mrs Dashwood did not hear unmoved... | 5:09 |
| 2 | Marianne's lips quivered... | 4:14 |
| 3 | Their man-servant had been sent one morning to Exeter... | 3:32 |
| 4 | Mrs Dashwood now looked at her daughter, but Elinor knew better... | 2:46 |
| 5 | Chapter 12: Elinor now found the difference... | 4:45 |
| 6 | His countenance as he entered the room, was not too happy... | 4:25 |
| 7 | Chapter 13: Unaccountable, however, as the circumstances... | 4:31 |
| 8 | The change which a few hours had wrought... | 4:17 |
| 9 | How long it had been carrying on between them... | 4:30 |
| 10 | That Lucy had certainly meant to deceive... | 3:59 |
| 11 | Edward heard with pleasure... | 4:00 |
| 12 | The letters from town... | 5:29 |
| 13 | Chapter 14: After a proper resistance on the part of Mrs Ferrars... | 4:13 |
| 14 | They were visited on their first settling... | 5:47 |
| 15 | What Edward had done to forfeit the right of eldest son... | 6:23 |