

Contents and Acknowledgments

List of Figures	page viii
Preface and Acknowledgments	ix
List of Abbreviations	xiii
1 Diplomacy through Foreign Public Engagement: Core Terminology and History	1
2 Listening: The Foundational Skill	20
3 Advocacy: The Cutting Edge	39
4 Culture: The Friendly Persuader	60
5 Exchange and Education: The Soul of Public Diplomacy	80
6 International Broadcasting: The Struggle for News	101
7 Nation Brands and Branding: The Metaphor Run Amok	120
8 Partnership: The Emerging Paradigm	141
Conclusion: Public Diplomacy and the Crisis of Our Time	162
Notes	171
Selected Bibliography	205
Index	211

I arrived at USC in September 2005 but, before the master's degree in public diplomacy had truly got underway, I was persuaded to take part in a further project from which these essays derive. The distinguished Israeli scholar Eytan Gilboa was attached to the Center on Public Diplomacy as a visiting fellow for my first year and proposed that he and I organize a