

Contents

List of tables and figure	xi
1. Introduction	1
Approaches to the study of religion and politics	2
A social science approach to religion	4
The religion and state dataset	6
Religious discrimination vs. religious freedom	8
A note on methodology and citations	8
Conclusions	9
Notes	9
2. Secularization and functionalism: predictions of religion's decline and irrelevance	10
Classic secularization theory	11
Religion's resurgence?	15
The evolution of secularization theory	17
Moving past secularization theory	20
Functionalism	20
Critiques of functionalism	22
Religion as a tool vs. as an independent force in political science theory	23
The doctrine of religion's irrelevance	25
Secularization, functionalism, religion, and political science theory	27
Discussion questions	30
Notes	30
Further reading	31
3. Religious identity	32
Is religious identity unique?	33
The origins of religious identity in politics	33
Religious identity and tolerance	38
Religious identity and democracy	40
Religious identity and conflict	43
Political opinions, voting, and beyond	45
Discussion questions	47
Notes	47
Further reading	47

4. Religious worldviews, beliefs, doctrines, and theologies	49
Religion as a basis for understanding the world	49
Religious rules and standards of behavior	51
Political manifestations of religious worldviews, beliefs, and ideologies	53
Religious actors	55
Belief vs. identity	56
Conclusions	57
Discussion questions	57
Notes	58
Further reading	58
5. Religious legitimacy	59
Religion as a justification for anything	60
The evolving role of religious legitimacy in government	61
The political uses of religious legitimacy	64
The limits of religious legitimacy	69
Discussion questions	71
Notes	71
Further reading	72
6. Religious institutions and political mobilization	73
Religious institutions and political resource mobilization	73
Religion and the “free rider” problem	77
The downside of religious-based mobilization	77
When do religious institutions mobilize?	79
Conclusions	81
Discussion questions	81
Notes	81
Further reading	82
7. Rational religion	83
Functionalism and rational choice	83
The supply side theory	85
Religious liberty and rational calculation	87
The interests of religious institutions	90
Rational actor theories in perspective	92
Religion and the economy	94
Conclusions	96
Discussion questions	96
Notes	97
Further reading	97
8. Religious fundamentalism	98
What is fundamentalism?	98
Why is fundamentalism politically relevant?	104
Radicals, extremists, and deviants?	107
Conclusions	108

Discussion questions	108
Notes	109
Further reading	109
9. Religion and conflict	110
Religious worldviews, beliefs, doctrines, and ideologies	112
Religious legitimacy	117
Religious institutions	120
Fundamentalists and violent conflict	120
Religious terror	121
Messianic violence	122
Recruitment	123
Are religious conflicts different?	124
Religion and peace	125
It is not just religion	125
Discussion questions	126
Notes	126
Further reading	126
10. Government religion policy 1: official policies and supporting religion	127
What is government policy?	127
Official policy	129
Motivations for supporting religion	135
Types of support for religion	138
Conclusions	148
Discussion questions	148
Notes	148
Further reading	149
11. Government religion policy 2: restrictions, regulation, control and discrimination	150
Regulation, restriction, and control	151
Religious discrimination in theory	157
Religious discrimination in practice	160
Conclusions	167
Discussion questions	168
Notes	168
Further reading	168
12. Political secularism	169
What do “secular” and “secularism” mean?	169
Defining political secularism	170
Families of political secular ideologies	171
Secular–religious competition	176
A complex competition	179
Conclusions	179

Discussion questions	180
Notes	181
Further reading	181
13. Religious freedom	182
Official religious freedom	182
The multiple meanings of religious freedom	183
The complexity of religious freedom	191
Conclusions	193
Discussion questions	194
Notes	194
Further reading	194
14. Religion in international relations	195
Secularization, and ignoring religion	195
Religious identity	197
Religious legitimacy	198
Religious institutions and mobilization	199
Transnational religious institutions and other religious actors	200
Transnational religious issues and phenomena	200
Faith-based diplomacy	201
Religious worldviews, ideologies, and beliefs	202
Conclusions	204
Discussion questions	204
Notes	204
Further reading	205
15. Conclusions	206
Linking theory and practice	206
A theoretical framework to comprehend religion and politics	208
Bibliography	211
Index	231