

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword by Frans NELISSEN	V
Summary of contents	VII
List of abbreviations	XV
 Chapter 1
The European integration process: a continuum of ‘deepening’ and ‘widening’	1
Steven BLOCKMANS and Sacha PRECHAL
1. Introduction	1
2. A short history of ‘deepening’ and ‘widening’	2
3. The EU’s final frontier – and beyond	4
4. The perceived need for further ‘deepening’	6
5. A flexible future for the European Union?	8
6. The academic contribution: this volume	10
 Chapter 2
A diagnosis of the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice: remedies and reforms in the domains of immigration, terrorism and security	13
Monica DEN BOER
1. Introduction	13
2. Diagnosing the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice: the positive symptoms	13
3. Diagnosing the Area of Freedom, Security and Justice: the negative symptoms	15
4. It’s the decision-making rules, stupid!	20
5. Would the Constitutional Treaty have been a good remedy?	23
6. Finale	25
7. Conclusion	27
 Chapter 3
‘Widening’ vs. ‘deepening’ the European Union: free movement vs. social rights in the Laval case before the ECJ	29
Norbert REICH
1. Introduction	29
2. The Swedish Laval case as a starting point	30
3. Social rights as fundamental rights exempted from EC free movement rules?	32
3.1 Possible exemptions from Article 49 and 43 TEC for labour unions	32

3.1.1	Article 137(5) TEC?	32
3.1.2	'Non-statutory exemption' for trade unions derived from competition law?	33
3.1.3	Freedom of contract?	33
3.2	The importance of the Gustafsson and Rasmussen judgment of the ECtHR	34
3.3	The Werhof judgment of the ECJ	35
3.4	Constitutional traditions of Member States concerning social action	35
4.	The applicability of Article 49 TEC to social actions against the posting of workers in Laval	37
4.1	The origin of the industrial conflict	37
4.2	The posting of workers by Laval in Sweden as an exercise of the freedom to provide services	38
4.3	Restrictions on the provision of services	38
4.3.1	Obligations of the Swedish state	39
4.3.2	Effects of Article 49 TEC against Byggnads, et al.?	40
4.4	Preliminary results of the discussion	41
5.	Justifications	41
5.1	The Lex Britannia	42
5.1.1	Industrial action against an undertaking established in the European Union	43
5.1.2	Equivalence of Swedish and Latvian collective bargaining agreements?	45
5.1.3	The discriminatory element of action inherent in the Lex Britannia	46
5.2	Directive 96/71	46
5.2.1	Objectives of the directive	46
5.2.2	Article 3(1) of the Directive 96/71	47
5.2.3	The option for collective agreements under Article 3(8)	48
5.2.4	Enforcement of eventual minimum pay obligations?	50
5.3	Public policy exceptions under Article 3(10) in conjunction with constitutional law	51
6.	Effects of an eventual non-justification of industrial action	52
7.	Annex: Opinion of AG Mengozzi of 23 May 2007	55
 Chapter 4
Consolidating the enlargement agenda for South Eastern Europe		59
Steven BLOCKMANS
1.	Introduction	59
2.	The state of affairs	61
2.1	Turkey	61
2.2	Stabilisation and Association Process	65
2.2.1	Raising the threshold	65
2.2.2	A graduated process	67
2.2.3	Croatia	68

2.2.4	Macedonia (FYROM)	72
2.2.5	The 'potential' candidate countries	73
3.	Novelties in pre-accession conditionality	76
3.1	Multi-dimensional nature	76
3.2	The requirement of regional cooperation	77
3.2.1	Conundrum	77
3.2.2	Reconciling enhanced bilateralism with enhanced multilateralism	79
3.3	ICTY conditionality	81
4.	The revised procedure for accession negotiations	82
4.1	Protecting the Union	82
4.2	Benchmarking	83
5.	Concluding remarks	85

Chapter 5

Box of chocolates integration: the European Economic Area and the Swiss model revisited 87

Adam ŁAZOWSKI

1.	Introduction	87
2.	The basics: What do the enhanced multilateralism and bilateralism amount to?	89
2.1	General remarks	89
2.2	The institutional set-up	91
3.	The conundrum: how to reconcile the prerequisite of uniform application and interpretation of EU law with the enhanced multilateralism and bilateralism?	93
3.1	Introductory remarks	93
3.2	The nature of the European Economic Area and EC/EU-Swiss legal frameworks	95
3.3	Legislative methods for securing homogeneity	99
3.4	Administrative and judicial methods for securing homogeneity	102
4.	The conclusions: is there a future for enhanced multilateralism and bilateralism?	108

Chapter 6

On the European Union's institutional capacity to cope with further enlargement 111

Fabian AMTENBRINK

1.	Introduction	111
2.	Absorption, enlargement and integration capacity	112
3.	In search of the limits of the institutional framework	116
3.1	Democratic legitimacy	117
3.2	Efficiency	120
4.	In search of sustainable solutions	123
4.1	Treaty establishing a Constitution for Europe – an adequate response?	123

4.2	Towards an 'enlargement-proof' institutional structure?	127
5.	Conclusion	129
Chapter 7
A flexible future for the European Union: the way forward or a way out?		133
Andrea OTT
1.	Introduction	133
2.	Supranationality versus disintegration?	134
3.	Different forms of flexibility in EU law and policy	136
3.1	Constitutional flexibility: enhanced cooperation and voluntary withdrawal	137
3.2	Differentiation through international agreements	140
3.2.1	Extending participation in EU law and policy for EU members	140
3.2.2	Extending participation in EU law and policy to non-EU members	142
3.3	Differentiation through accession treaties	146
3.3.1	Excluding participation in EU law and policy for EU members	146
3.3.2	Constitutional principles limiting exclusion?	150
4.	Flexibility in an enlarging Union: the way forward of a way out?	154
5.	Conclusion	155
Chapter 8
Widen to deepen? The potential and limits of accession treaties to achieve EU constitutional reform		157
Christophe HILLION
1.	Introduction	157
2.	Can widening serve as a vehicle for deepening?	158
3.	The role of accession treaties in bringing about institutional reform	160
3.1	Legal potential	160
3.2	Advantages in introducing reforms through accession treaties	161
3.3	Practice	162
4.	Limits to the introduction of institutional reforms through accession treaties	163
5.	Role of the court	164
6.	Conclusion	165
Keynote speech		167
Piet-Hein DONNER
1.	Introduction	167
2.	General remarks	168
3.	Deepening	169
4.	New solutions	170
5.	The judicial system	172
6.	Conclusion	172

Report of the discussions during the colloquium	175
Karolien PIETERS, Leonardo MASSAI and Tamara TAKÁCS
1. Deepening	175
2. Widening	177
3. Reconciling deepening and widening	179
 List of contributors	 185
Index	187