

Contents

|  |            |
|--|------------|
| List of illustrations   | vii        |
| List of contributors  | ix         |
| Preface and acknowledgements  | xiii       |
|    |            |
| 1 The European Union and international organizations:A framework for analysis                          | 1   |
| KNUD ERIK JØRGENSEN  |            |
|    |            |
| 2 The accidental player: The European Union andthe global economy                                      | 21  |
| JEAN PISANI-FERRY  |            |
|    |            |
| 3 Complex engagement: The EU and the UN system  | 37  |
| FRANZISKA BRANTNER AND RICHARD GOWAN   |            |
|    |            |
| 4 A single EU seat in the International Monetary Fund?  | 61  |
| LORENZO BINI SMAGHI  |            |
|    |            |
| 5 The World Trade Organization and the European Union   | 80  |
| JENS LADEFOGED MORTENSEN   |            |
|    |            |
| 6 The European Union and NATO: ‘Shrewdinterorganizationalism’ in the making?                           | 101 |
| JOHANNES VARWICK AND JOACHIM KOOPS   |            |
|    |            |
| 7 EU–OSCE relations: Partners or rivals in security?  | 131 |
| PETER VAN HAM  |            |
|    |            |
| 8 The European Union at the ILO’s International LabourConferences: A ‘double’ principal–agent analysis | 149 |
| PETER NEDERGAARD   |            |

vi Contents

|           |  |            |
|-----------|--|------------|
| 9  | The European Union and the International Criminal Court:The politics of international criminal justice | 167 |
|           | MARTIJN GROENLEER AND DAVID RIJKS  |            |
| 10 | Conclusion and perspectives   | 188 |
|           | KNUD ERIK JØRGENSEN  |            |
|           | Index   | 198 |