

Table of Contents

	Page
Glossary	ix
Overview and Summary	xiii
– Definitions and terminology	xiv
– Overview	xv
– A question of autonomy	xvii
 CHAPTER 1
The Gestation of European Security and Defence	1
– Security and European integration	1
– NATO assumes its defence role with American backing	2
– De Gaulle's legacy	4
– Security resurfaces through political cooperation	5
– London calling	7
– The Single European Act	8
– NATO flourishes – with no adversary	10
– NATO's handmaiden	11
– The WEU stirs	12
– Institutional cacophony grows	13
– The camel that would be a horse – CFSP emerges	15
– The Amsterdam modifications	16
– From ESDI to CESDP	16
 CHAPTER 2
Visions of Autonomy – From St Malo to Helsinki	23
– ESDI's last gasp ...	23
– ... and CESDP's tentative first steps	25
– St Malo – a revolutionary change?	27
– NATO's Washington Summit	30

– The institutional structure of CESDP emerges	31
– Operation Allied Force – the allies join a U.S. show	34
– Meanwhile, CESDP shapes up – on paper	35
– Prelude To Helsinki	35
i) The Anglo-Italian Declaration	35
ii) ‘The Wise Men’s Report’ on the Implications of Institutional Enlargement	36
iii) WEU Audit of Assets and Capabilities for European Crisis Management Operations	37
iv) ... a second Anglo-French summit	39

CHAPTER 3

The EU’s Technicoloured Dream Coat – Pinstripe, Khaki and Blue

– The Helsinki European Council	43
– The interim structures	44
– The devil’s always in the details	45
– The Portuguese Presidency	47
– Which Europe?	48
– Welcome, the men in blue	50
– The French Presidency and progress towards Nice	51
– Openness, transparency and security	52
– The Commission stakes its territory	54
– Chirac on the offensive	55
– Committing capabilities	57
– The demise of the WEU	62

CHAPTER 4

From Nice to Laeken

– The Nice Summit	67
– Planning for EU-led operations	68
– Standing arrangements for consultation and cooperation between the EU and NATO	69
– Ankara’s objections	75
– The inclusion into the EU of appropriate functions of the WEU	78
– The Civilian Aspects of Crisis Management	80
– Conflict prevention as a ‘fixed priority’	82
– The Treaty of Nice	84
– Improving capabilities	86

CHAPTER 5

The Institutional Structures of EU External Relations	91
– The European Council	94
– The Council (of Ministers)	94
– COREPER	97
– The Presidency	99
– The High Representative and the Council General Secretariat	100
– The establishment of permanent structures	104
i) The Political and Security Committee	104
ii) The Military Committee	109
iii) The EU Military Staff	111
– The Committee for Civilian Aspects of Crisis Management	113
– The Commission	114
– The European Parliament	127
– The Agencies	130

CHAPTER 6

Developing the Civilian Aspects of Crisis Management, Conflict Prevention and Civil Protection	133
– The dominance of the EU's military mission	133
– Civilian crisis response mechanisms: a retrospective	136
– The German Presidency	136
– The Finnish Presidency	137
– The Portuguese Presidency	137
– The French Presidency	139
– The Swedish Presidency	143
– Civil protection	146
– Exercise programme	146
– Conflict prevention and the future	147
– EU-UN relations	148
– The vox populi	150

CHAPTER 7

Public Support for EU External Relations	151
– An old chestnut ... political will	151
– More specific indicators	153
– What do the figures suggest?	159
– The wages of terrorism	161

CHAPTER 8
Three Challenges for Crisis Management	165
– Affording CESDP	165
– EU-U.S. relations: more Washington schizophrenia?	175
– ... and 11 September	180
– An extended security community?	182
 Conclusions	187
– Consistency	188
– Relations with NATO	190
– The cost of rhetoric	191
– Common Defence?	193
– The question of legitimacy of EU action	191
 NOTES	199
 INDEX	221