

Table of Contents

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Preface  | II  |
| Introductory                                   |     |
| Ideas of Philosophy, Dreams of a Nation | 17  |
| Chapter One                                    |     |
| The People of the Chalice               | 27  |
| Chapter Two                                    |     |
| Reason and Romance of Nation Building   | 51  |
| Chapter Three                                  |     |
| The Edge of Modernity                   | 71  |
| Chapter Four                                   |     |
| The first philosopher: T. G. Masaryk    | 93  |
| Chapter Five                                   |     |
| The Crucible of Praxis                  | 117 |
| Chapter Six                                    |     |
| The Unacceptable and the Inevitable     | 143 |
| Chapter Seven                                  |     |
| The Other Philosopher: Jan Patočka      | 165 |
| Chapter Eight                                  |     |
| Gray Naught and the Green Horizon       | 195 |

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Conclusion                                 |     |
| Cultural Identity in a Global World | 217 |
| Literature cited                           | 231 |
| Index of Topics                            | 235 |
| Index of Names                             | 241 |