

Contents

Tables and figures	vii
Preface	ix
Abbreviations	xiii

PART ONE: THE RATIONALE: WHY PARTIES? 1

1 The party as part	3
1.1 From faction to party	3
1.2 Pluralism	13
1.3 Responsible and responsive government	18
1.4 A rationalization	24
Notes to Chapter 1	29
2 The party as whole	39
2.1 No-party versus one-party	39
2.2 The party-state system	42
2.3 One-party pluralism	47
Notes to Chapter 2	51
3 The preliminary framework	56
3.1 Channelment, communication, expression	56
3.2 The minimal definition	58
3.3 An overview	64
Notes to Chapter 3	67
4 The party from within	71
4.1 Fractions, faction, and tendencies	71
4.2 A scheme of analysis	75
4.3 Southern politics: "factions" without parties?	82
4.4 Italy and Japan: fractions within parties	88
4.5 The structure of opportunities	93
4.6 From party to faction	105
Notes to Chapter 4	106

PART TWO: PARTY SYSTEMS 117

5 The numerical criterion	119
5.1 The issue	119

Contents

5.2 Rules for counting	121
5.3 A two-dimensional mapping	125
Notes to Chapter 5	129
6 Competitive systems	131
6.1 Polarized pluralism	131
6.2 Testing the cases	145
6.3 Moderate pluralism and segmented societies	173
6.4 Twoparty systems	185
6.5 Predominant-party systems	192
Notes to Chapter 6	201
7 Noncompetitive systems	217
7.1 Where competition ends	217
7.2 Single party	221
7.3 Hegemonic party	230
Notes to Chapter 7	238
8 Fluid polities and quasi-parties	244
8.1 Methodological cautions	244
8.2 The African labyrinth	248
8.3 Ad hoc categorizing	255
8.4 The boomerang effect	265
Notes to Chapter 8	267
9 The overall framework	273
9.1 System change, continuum, and discontinuities	273
9.2 Mapping function and explanatory power	282
9.3 From classification to measurement	293
9.4 Measuring relevance	300
9.5 Numbers and size: the index of fractionalization	304
9.6 Combining the nominal and mathematical routes	315
Notes to Chapter 9	319
10 Spatial competition	324
10.1 The Downsian theory revisited	324
10.2 Issues, identification, images, and positions	328
10.3 Multidimensional, unidimensional, and ideological space	334
10.4 The direction of competition	342
Notes to Chapter 10	351

Index	357
--------------	-----