

Contents

VOLUME 1

|                                                                                      |                                                                                                         |         |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| Khaled El-Enany                                                               | Preface                                                                                                 | 11–12   |
| Tabula Gratulatoria                                                           |                                                                                                         | 13      |
| List of Abbreviations                                                         |                                                                                                         | 15–24   |
| Janice Kamrin – Miroslav Bárta – Salima Ikram – Mark Lehner – Mohamed Megahed | Zahi Hawass: A Life in the Spotlight                                                                    | 25–31   |
|                                                                                      | Zahi Hawass, PhD, Curriculum Vitae                                                                      | 45–53   |
|                                                                                      | Zahi Hawass: A Bibliography to 2019                                                                     | 55–72   |
| Soad S. Abdelaal                                                              | An Early Demotic Letter from Tuna el-Gebel                                                              | 73–86   |
| Safaa Abdelmoneem Ibrahim                                                     | Who is the Bending Woman, Nut or Isis? Some Remarks on the Vignette of Spell 17 of the Book of the Dead | 87–104  |
| Iman R. Abdulfattah                                                           | A Forgotten Man: Maurice Nahman, an Antiquarian-Tastemaker                                              | 105–123 |
| Ola el-Aguizy                                                                 | The Discovery of the Tomb of the “Head of the Army Archives,” Paser, at Saqqara: A Preliminary Report   | 125–131 |
| Hartwig Altenmüller                                                           | Der rw.tj — „Einer, der mit dem Volumenmass misst“                                               | 133–143 |
| Dieter Arnold                                                                 | Reflections on Construction Phases of the Djoser Complex at Saqqara                                     | 145–153 |
| Aiman Ashmawy Ali                                                             | An Amarna Head from the Eastern Delta                                                                   | 155–161 |
| Roger S. Bagnall – Paola Davoli                                               | Amheida (Dakhla Oasis): The First Fifteen Years                                                         | 163–175 |
| Ladislav Bareš                                                                | The Large Offering List on the Inner Sarcophagus of Iufaa                                               | 177–190 |
| Miroslav Bárta                                                                | Guards of the Caverns in Gilf Kebir: “Headless Beasts” or Baboons?                                      | 191–203 |

|                                                |                                                                                                                                                    |         |
|------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| Hussein Bassir                          | A First Intermediate Period Slab Stela of a General from Nag el-Deir: Cairo Museum (JE 45969)                                                      | 205–219 |
| Robert Steven Bianchi                   | The God Huron and Pharaoh Merneptah                                                                                                                | 221–234 |
| Manfred Bietak                          | Why Radiocarbon Dates from Egyptian Funerary Contexts are Approximately Accurate while those from Stratified Settlements are Precisely Wrong       | 235–245 |
| Mansour Boraik                          | A Private Ptolemaic Bath in Front of Karnak Temple                                                                                                 | 247–266 |
| Bob Brier                               | An Asante Connection to Ancient Egypt                                                                                                              | 267–271 |
| Edward Brovarski                        | Tombs of Non-royal Women in the Old Kingdom                                                                                                        | 273–294 |
| Betsy M. Bryan                          | A Statue of Ramesses III from the Mut Temple Precinct, Luxor Museum 966: Archaeological, Art Historical, and Cultic Context                        | 295–308 |
| Karen (Maggie) Bryson                   | New Technology and Ancient Images: The Application of Digital 3D Imaging to the Study of Ancient Egyptian Art                                      | 309–322 |
| Pearce Paul Creasman– Kei Yamamoto | Birket Habu as a Flood Retention Basin?                                                                                                            | 323–342 |
| John Coleman Darnell                    | Tutankhamun in the Wadi Abbad                                                                                                                      | 343–355 |
| Aidan Dodson                            | On the Graffito in Theban Tomb 139                                                                                                                 | 357–365 |
| Günter Dreyer – Jack A.Josephson   | Egypt in the Archaic Period: Dissolution and Resolution                                                                                            | 367–380 |
| Earl L. Ertman                          | Three Crowns Worn by Nefertiti: New Creations or Duplications?                                                                                     | 381–393 |
| Richard A. Fazzini                      | Some Interesting Objects from North and South                                                                                                      | 395–411 |
| Marjorie M. Fisher                      | A Statue of Ramesses III from the Mut Temple Precinct, Luxor Museum 966: Prince Prehirwenemef, Son of Ramesses III                                 | 413–434 |
| Laurel Flentye                          | The Eastern Cemetery (G 7000) at the Giza Necropolis: The Architecture and Decorative Programs of the Mid to Late 4 th Dynasty Mastabas | 435–457 |
| Florence Dunn Friedman                  | The Brussels Head, Menkaure's Triads, and Reisner's Sculptors A and B                                                                              | 459–485 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |                                                                                  |         |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------|---------|
| Nashwa Gaber                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | The False Door of Shepsespuptah at Saqqara                                       | 487–495 |
| Yehia Z. Gad – SomaiaIsmail – Dina Fathalla– Rabab Khairat – SuzanFares – Ahmed Z. Gad– Rama Saad – AmalMoustafa – Eslam el-Shahat – Naglaa H. AbuMandil – MohamedFateen – Hisham el-Leithy– Sally Wasef – AlbertZink – Zahi Hawass– Carsten M. Pusch | Maternal and Paternal Lineages in KingTutankhamun's Family                   | 497–518 |
| Mona Haggag                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | Before Alexandria: A Study of Time and Place                                     | 519–539 |
| Fayza Haikal                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | Trading with the Gods and the Search forImmortality                          | 541–549 |
| W Benson Harer Jr                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Narcotic of the Nile: The Blue Lotus in AncientEgyptian Religious Activities | 551–564 |
| Yvonne M. Harpur                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Studies of Selected Reliefs in Old KingdomChapels at Saqqara                 | 565–584 |