

Contents

Preface VII

Introduction: 'Nobel Prize-winner with dirty hands' 1

1 'As conservatively as possible' 7

2 'Physics must be rebuilt' 22

3 'The beginning of something new' 34

4 'Intellectual freedom is a thing of the past' 43

5 'Service to science must be service to the nation' 65

6 'There is very likely a Nordic science' 82

7 'You obviously cannot swim against the tide' 107

8 'I have seen my death!' 142

9 'As a scientist or as a man' 165

10 'Hitherto unknown destructive power' 187

11 'Heisenberg was mostly silent' 197

12 'We are what we pretend to be' 232

Epilogue: 'We did not speak the same language' 251

Notes 268

Bibliography 288

Image Credits 295

Index 297