

Contents

Notes on contributors	v
one Introduction	1
Ursula Apitzsch, Joanna Bornat and Prue Chamberlayne
Part One: Putting the subject into policy and practice	17
two Biographical methods and social policy in European perspective	19
Prue Chamberlayne
three Balancing precarious work, entrepreneurship and a new gendered professionalism in migrant self-employment	39
Ursula Apitzsch
four Considerations on the biographical embeddedness of ethnic entrepreneurship	57
Maria Kontos
five Ethnic entrepreneurship as innovation	73
Feiwei Kupferberg
Part Two: Subjectivity in context	91
six The social subject in biographical interpretive methods: emotional, mute, creative, divided	93
Andrew Cooper
seven A socially and historically contextualised psychoanalytic perspective: Holocaust survival and suffering	101
Daniel Bar-On
eight Professional choices between private and state positions in Russia's transformation	115
Victoria Semenova
nine Maintaining a sense of individual autonomy under conditions of constraint: a study of East German managers	131
Ulrike Nagel
Part Three: Self-awareness in research and practice	147
ten Biographical reflections on the problem of changing violent men	149
David Gadd
eleven The biographical turn in health studies	165
Wendy Rickard
twelve Ethical aspects of biographical interviewing and analysis	181
Kaja Kaźmierska
thirteen Ghost writers: using biographical methods across languages	193
Bogusia Temple

Part Four: Recognising trajectories of disempowerment	203
fourteen 'Bucking and kicking': race, gender and embodied resistance in healthcare Yasmin Gunaratnam	205
fifteen Biography as empowering practice: lessons from research Joanna Bornat and Jan Walmsley	221
sixteen 'It's in the way that you use it': biography as a tool in professional social work Riitta Kyllönen	237
seventeen Interpreting the needs of homeless men: interviewing in context Karin Schlücker	251
Part Five: Biographical resources in education and training	263
eighteen In quest of teachers' professional identity: the life story as a methodological tool Marie-Françoise Chanfrault-Duchet	265
nineteen Narratives, community organisations and pedagogy Rosemary Du Plessis, Jane Higgins and Belinda Mortlock	285
twenty Doctors on an edge: a cultural psychology of learning and health Linden West	299
twenty-one Intercultural perspectives and professional practice in the university: what's new in Germany Lena Inowlocki, Maria Teresa Herrera Vivar and Felicia Herrschaft	313
Index	331