

CONTENTS

List of contributors	vii
Preface	ix

PART I

Introduction and conceptual foundations 1

- 1 The experience of being an emerging adult in Europe 3
Rita Žukauskienė
- 2 Emerging adulthood, early adulthood, and quarter-life crisis: Updating Erikson for the twenty-first century 17
Oliver Robinson

PART II

Experiencing the transition to adulthood 31

- 3 Are being responsible, having a stable job, and caring for the family important for adulthood? Examining the importance of different criteria for adulthood in Italian emerging adults 33
Elisabetta Crocetti & Semira Tagliabue
- 4 What does it mean to be an adult? Perceptions of adulthood among Lithuanian emerging adults 54
Rimantas Vosylis, Goda Kaniušonytė, & Saulė Raižienė

vi Contents

5	Experiencing the transition to adulthood in Germany: Including emerging adults of the "forgotten half"	79
	Inge Seiffge-Krenke
6	The transition to adulthood in Turkey: Views from university students and workers	94
	Aysun Doğan, Demet Vural Yüzbaşı, & Melikşah Demir
PART III
	Trajectories and diverse patterns in the transition to adulthood	115
7	Becoming an adult in Portugal: Negotiating pathways between opportunities and constraints	117
	Luísa Marinho Saraiva & Paula Mena Matos
8	Emerging adulthood in Finland	138
	Katariina Salmela-Aro, Florencia M. Sortheix, & Mette Ranta
9	Swedish emerging adults' sense of identity and perceptions of adulthood	154
	Maria Wängqvist & Ann Frisén
10	Emerging adults in the Czech Republic: Views into and across different domains of life	175
	Petr Macek, Stanislav Ježek, Lenka Lacinová, Ondřej Bouša, Lucia Kvitkovičová, Radka Neužilová Michalčáková, & Jan Širůček
PART IV
	Closing summary	203
11	Emerging adults in Europe: Common themes, diverse paths, and future directions	205
	Jeffrey Jensen Arnett
	Index	217