

Contents

Acknowledgements	iii
Note	xv
 INTRODUCTION	 1
 CHAPTER 1
THE MANAGER IN THE TRADING SYSTEM	8
The business firm and the trading system	8
The strategic importance of the regulatory trade environment	8
The hierarchy of international institutions in the trading system	10
Why do business firms need the World Trade Organization?	11
Preferential market access and the WTO system	15
Managerial concerns and the WTO system	18
The anatomy of change in international trade and regulation	20
Client orientation, technology and trade	20
The developing country firm and globalization	20
The emerging business firms from developing and transition economies	22
Managerial concerns with trade regulations	23
The business environment and developments in the WTO system	24
The opportunities and threats of trade liberalization	27
The winners and losers of the globalization process	27
The competitive exporters	27
The domestic leaders	28
Assessing the threats and opportunities of globalization	30

CHAPTER 2

THE BUSINESS FIRM AND BARRIERS TO EXPORTING	32
Regulatory trade resistance and other determinants of success in exporting	32
External and internal barriers	34
Regulatory or formal (F) barriers to trade: the export manager's perspective	37
Barriers to market entry	38
Barriers at the domestic border	40
Informal (I) barriers to exporting	41
I barriers and F barriers: a comparison	41
The characteristics of I barriers	43
Evidence of the effects of regulatory barriers	46
The individual firm and perceptions of regulatory barriers to trade	47
Managerial perceptions and corporate features	47
Managerial perceptions and mode of entry into export markets	49
Managerial perceptions and the export product portfolio	50
Managerial perceptions and the stages of a firm's internationalization	51
Estimating the cost of regulatory trade resistance	54
Estimating costs: an example	54
Lowering the cost of regulatory trade resistance	55
A model of the interaction between an exporter and the regulatory environment	56
The firm's organizational structure and strategies	57
Operations management	58
The reactive strategy	59
The proactive strategy	59

CHAPTER 3

MARKETING MANAGEMENT WITHIN THE INTERNATIONAL TRADING SYSTEM	60
Export market choice and market contestability	60
Market access conditions and border measures in the export market	60
The competitive position of an exporter and regulations in export markets	63
Merchandise exports and national treatment	65
Trade in services and national treatment	65
Harmonization vs. diversification of national standards	66
Marketing mix and the regulatory environment	67
The export marketing mix	67
Marketing mix and regulation	69

Product strategy and regulation in export markets	70
Product concept and product definition	70
Technical norms and sanitary standards	72
The 'Made in' rule and rules of origin	76
Intellectual property rights	77
Product liability and consumer protection	81
Pricing strategy and regulation in export markets	82
Incoterms and regulatory concerns in exporting	82
Taxes and duties	84
Value-added tax	88
Nominal and effective rate of protection	89
Rules on price competition	91
Dumping	92
Trade diversion and preferential market access	96
Indication of prices in export markets	97
Communication, distribution and customer services	98
Promotion and regulation in export markets	98
Customer services and investment policies	100

CHAPTER 4

MANAGING REGULATORY ISSUES IN EXPORTING	101
Corporate structure for handling regulatory issues in international trade	101
Corporate structure and information flow	101
The firm's internal customs services	108
Dealing with customs	111
The business view of customs	111
Customs documentation	114
The firm's reputation and relationship with customs	116
Facilitation fees and corruption	116
Information search and marketing analysis	119
Market research on regulation	119
Preliminary market research and market access	121
Market research and import regulations	123
Market research on export pricing	124
Market research on communication and promotion	124

CHAPTER 5

BUSINESS STRATEGY AND REGULATORY CHANGE	126
Strategic responses to trade regulation	126
Reactive strategies	127
Avoidance	127
Circumvention	127
Adapting	127
Appeasement	128
Good relations with the authorities	128
Proactive strategies	128
Public relations	129
Confrontation	129
Dealing with regulatory change	130
Responding to the new trade legislation	131
Opportunity and threat analysis of the trading system	132
Option 2	132
Option 3	133
Evaluating the probable outcome of trade negotiations	136
Business involvement in trade policy-making	138
Public relations and trade policy	138
Public relations and proactive business strategies in trade	143
The business community and trade policy decision-making	144
Business alliances and the WTO network	149
Business alliances and WTO	149
Public relations in the trading system	152

CHAPTER 6

CASE STUDIES	156
Introduction	156
Case study 1: C-Products – regulatory concerns of a small business firm in export markets	157
Summary	157
Products and the company profile	157
Exports	158
Barriers to exporting	160
Case analysis	163

Case study 2: Laktopol Ltd – responding to the changing international food market	164
Summary	164
The dairy industry	164
The company profile	165
Markets for food ingredients	166
Regional trading arrangements and agricultural support	167
Customs clearance	168
Case analysis	168
Case study 3: China Tuhsu Yunnan Tea – marketing tea worldwide	169
Summary	169
Yunnan tea	169
The company profile	171
Export markets	172
Barriers to exporting and managerial concerns	173
What export strategy should the corporation follow?	173
Case analysis	175
Case study 4: CDA – an export consortium lobbying for market access	175
Summary	175
Product	176
The Canadian alfalfa industry	177
The export market	178
The export marketing role of the producers' association	179
Monitoring regulation in export markets	181
Responding to regulations in export markets	183
Case analysis	186
Case study 5: SOTIB – exporting textiles from Tunisia	187
Summary	187
The company profile	187
Market profiles and market access	189
Domestic market	189
Markets in the Gulf and in North Africa	189
The European Union market	190
Considering business strategies for the future	190
Case analysis	193

Case study 6: Intergum – marketing mass consumption goods globally	193
Summary	193
Business development	194
Product portfolio and the company vision	195
Positioning and marketing strategy	196
Export strategy and mode of entry	199
Brand promotion and export	202
Export development and corporate structure	203
Intergum exports and regulatory barriers to trade	204
Case analysis	206

BIBLIOGRAPHY	209
---------------------	-----

INDEX	217
--------------	-----

BOXES

Chapter 1

1.1	The hierarchy of institutions in the trading system	11
1.2	Economic turmoil and WTO	13
1.3	WTO negotiations and the business community	14
1.4	Short guide to preferential trading arrangements	16
1.5	Developing and transition economies and regional trading arrangements	16
1.6	Why the WTO trading system is an area of concern to developing country managers	18
1.7	Developing country governments are increasingly business friendly	22
1.8	‘Reef of Brazil’ and the opportunities of globalization	23
1.9	Regulation in export markets: common shortcomings of managers	24
1.10	The business firm and its regulatory environment: what is changing?	26
1.11	Assessing the threats and opportunities of the globalization process: guidelines for a business firm	31

Chapter 2

2.1	Determinants of export performance: major problem areas	33
2.2	Guidelines for a business audit on regulatory trade resistance	34
2.3	Regulatory trade resistance arising from external and internal barriers	37

2.4	Regulatory or formal (F) barriers to trade	39
2.5	Barriers to exporting at the border of the developing country	40
2.6	An illustrative list of I barriers to exporting	42
2.7	Forces favouring the use of I barriers	45
2.8	Impediments to exporting: ranking	46
2.9	Perceptions of regulatory export barriers	48
2.10	Export growth and SMEs	49
2.11	Managerial concerns and modes of market entry	50
2.12	Producers of food products, chemical products, express delivery services and pharmaceuticals: major regulatory concerns	51
2.13	Knowing how to deal with export regulations means higher profits	52
2.14	The joint export group	53
2.15	Costs of regulatory trade resistance in an export market: a managerial perspective	54
2.16	Managing regulatory issues in the export trade: a checklist of frequent managerial concerns	58

Chapter 3

3.1	Categories of export markets, by market access conditions	61
3.2	Export market selection and border measures: short audit guidelines	62
3.3	European Union: GSP graduation and market access	63
3.4	Exporter's status with respect to domestic regulations in export markets	64
3.5	Textiles trade: a comparison of the impact of MFN and that of a bilateral arrangement	64
3.6	Questions managers should ask on domestic regulations in export markets	66
3.7	Marketing mix and the regulatory environment of a business firm	68
3.8	Product strategy: a checklist of frequent regulatory concerns in export markets	69
3.9	Product strategy and customs classification	71
3.10	Mutual recognition of testing and certification means less red tape	73
3.11	Increasingly strict phytosanitary standards in export markets: the case of seafood	75
3.12	Phytosanitary regulations and business services	76
3.13	WTO work on rules of origin	77
3.14	Kalbe Farma of Indonesia	79

3.15	'Chimas whisky' is not 'Chivas whisky'	80
3.16	Incoterms: costs and responsibilities to be assumed by the exporter (selected items)	83
3.17	Taxes and duties	85
3.18	Frequently asked questions on tariffs and taxes	87
3.19	What is the Harmonized System?	88
3.20	Cocobut Ltd and the effective rate of protection	89
3.21	Dumping and export marketing objectives	93
3.22	Anti-dumping and countervailing actions taken against Brazilian products, 1997-1998	94
3.23	Development in one region may affect business firms in third countries	96
3.24	The Internet and new business options	99

Chapter 4

4.1	How to obtain information on regulations in export markets	104
4.2	Hilti, Nestlé and Novartis: corporate structures dealing with export market regulations	106
4.3	CS Services International: a forwarder in a least developed country	107
4.4	Working with the customs administration in a least developed country	110
4.5	Red tape at customs	112
4.6	DHL and customs	115
4.7	Rent-seeking and regulatory controls	117
4.8	Corruption and public policy	118
4.9	National institutions providing marketing information and assistance to exporters	120
4.10	WTO, ITC and other sources for market research	121
4.11	Examples of secondary sources of information on market access regulations	122
4.12	Regulations in new export markets: essential questions	125

Chapter 5

5.1	WTO as a network	129
5.2	Confronting regulatory change: three situations calling for response	130
5.3	Responding to new regulations in export markets: the leading managerial concerns	132
5.4	An illustrative list of WTO commitments for progressive implementation	134

5.5	Responding to new and potential regulations in export markets: checklist of points to consider	136
5.6	Analysing the driving forces behind the harmonization of standards	137
5.7	Evaluating the probable outcome of trade policy decisions	140
5.8	Public relations and trade policy: a managerial perspective	142
5.9	Evaluating a company's interest in a proactive PR strategy	144
5.10	Lobbying for developing countries in the United States: between the President and the Congress	147
5.11	Lobbying for trade policy in the European Union	148
5.12	Lobbying for NAFTA	153

Chapter 6

6.1	Chronology of the development of the Amran family business	195
6.2	Consumer reasons for buying sugar-free and sugarless gum (1996)	197
6.3	Consumer reasons for buying sugar-sweetened gum (1996)	197
6.4	Consumption per capita: chewing gum and bubble gum (1996)	198

Figures

1.1	Market/competitiveness matrix	28
2.1	Classifying barriers to exporting	35
2.2	Interaction between an exporter and the regulatory environment	56
5.1	Developments in the trading system: an opportunity/threat matrix	135
5.2	Forces favouring diversity vs. harmonization of national standards	138
5.3	Business alliances and the WTO system	150
6.1	Corporate sales structure of Intergum	204