

Contents

What's New in the Second Edition? vii

Preface ix

A Note on the Exercises xi

Part I. What Writing Is 1

1. On Bacon, Hobbes, and Newton, and the Selfishness of Writing Well 3

2. Genius, Craft, and What This Book Is About 11

Part II. Writing Behavior 15

3. Writing and Reading 17

4. Managing Your Writing Behavior 22

5. Getting Started 30

6. Momentum 42

Part III. Content and Structure 57

7. Finding and Telling Your Story 59

8. The Canonical Structure of the Scientific Paper 76

9. Front Matter and Abstract 81

10. The Introduction Section 88

11. The Methods Section 94

12. The Results Section 104

13. The Discussion Section 127

14. Back Matter 134

15. Citations	140
16. Beyond the IMRaD Canon	147
Part IV. Style 157
17. Paragraphs	159
18. Sentences	169
19. Words	184
20. Brevity	193
Part V. Revision 203
21. Self-Revision	205
22. “Friendly” Review	216
23. Formal Review	224
24. Revision and the “Response to Reviews”	235
Part VI. Some Loose Threads 245
25. Journals and Preprints	247
26. The Diversity of Writing Forms	258
27. Managing Coauthorships	275
28. Three Kinds of Reading: Reference, Survey, and Deep	287
29. Writing for Speakers of English as an Additional Language	295
Part VII. Final Thoughts 309
30. On Whimsy, Jokes, and Beauty: Can Scientific Writing Be Enjoyed?	311
Acknowledgments	325
References	327
Permanent URLs	341
Index	345