
Table of Contents

Foreword	v
Chapter 1: Introduction	1
1.1. Why bother?	1
1.2. What is a principle of law?	3
1.3. Theories	4
1.4. Methods and research questions	8
1.5. Outline of the book	10
Chapter 2: European Legal Principles and National Legal Challenges Jörgen Hettne	15
2.1. Introduction	15
2.2. The position of general principles of law in EU law	15
2.3. The scope of general principles of law	18
2.4. Effectiveness of Union law and general principles	20
2.5. Consistent interpretation	21
2.6. Consistent interpretation and general principles of law?	24
2.7. Abuse of rights – Principle or right?	25
2.8. European legal principles and national legal challenges	26
Chapter 3: The Role of (Legal) Principles in EU Tax Law Frans Vanistendael	29
3.1. Introduction	29
3.2. The role of principles in tax law	30
3.2.1. The role of principles in tax law in general	30
3.2.2. The role of principles in EU tax law	31
3.3. Different types of legal principles	32
3.3.1. Difference between principles and rules	32
3.3.2. General principles	33
3.3.3. General principles in constitutional form	34
3.3.4. Constitutional principles of taxation	34
3.3.5. Constitutional principles of state organization	35
3.3.6. Principles in the EU legal order	35
3.3.7. Tax technical principles	37

Table of Contents

3.3.8.	Preliminary conclusion	38
3.4.	Different forms of EU tax law	38
3.4.1.	Different roles for principles	38
3.4.2.	Common customs regime	39
3.4.3.	Unharmonized indirect taxation	39
3.4.4.	VAT	40
3.4.5.	Direct tax directives and exchange of information and assistance directives	42
3.4.6.	The treaty freedoms	45
3.5.	The functional hierarchical order of principles	46
3.5.1.	Which hierarchy?	46
3.5.2.	Principles as political guidance	46
3.5.3.	Mandatory principles of EU law for the legislator and the ECJ	47
3.5.4.	Mandatory principles of EU law for the ECJ not for the legislator	47
3.5.5.	Discretionary principles of interpretation	48
3.5.6.	Tax technical principles	48
3.6.	Conclusion	49
 Chapter 4: Clarifying or Diluting the Application of the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights? – The Judgments in Åkerberg Fransson and Melloni from 26 February 2013		 51
Xavier Groussot and Ingrid Olsson
4.1.	Introduction	51
4.2.	Article 51 of the Charter – The most important provision	52
4.2.1.	Background to article 51 of the Charter	52
4.2.2.	Comments in light of Åkerberg Fransson and Melloni	58
4.3.	Article 52 of the Charter – The most complex provision	62
4.3.1.	Background of article 52	62
4.3.2.	Comments in light of Åkerberg Fransson and Melloni	69
4.4.	Article 53 of the Charter – The most underestimated provision	76
4.4.1.	Background of article 53 of the Charter	76
4.4.2.	Comments in light of Åkerberg Fransson and Melloni	84
4.5.	Conclusion	88

Chapter 5: The EU Law Dimension of Human Rights in Tax Matters	91
Pasquale Pistone
5.1. Introduction	91
5.2. On the nature of the EU Charter of Fundamental Rights and its implications in tax matters	92
5.3. The EU Charter and the search for a global supranational dimension of fundamental rights in tax matters	101
5.4. The meaning of the “implementation” of EU law in the EU Charter	106
5.5. An overview of human rights in the EU Charter and their key implications in the field of taxation	108
5.5.1. The right to privacy as a human right and its implications in tax matters	108
5.5.2. Substantive human rights in tax matters	113
5.5.3. Human rights in judicial and administrative tax procedures, as well as in respect of tax penalties	116
5.6. Provisions applicable to the sole EU institutions	118
5.6.1. Article 41 of the EU Charter	118
5.6.2. Article 42 of the EU Charter	120
5.6.3. Article 43 – Ombudsman	122
5.7. Conclusions	123
Chapter 6: Tax Sovereignty and Territoriality under Siege: How Far Should the EU Freedoms of Movement Impact on the Territorial Allocation of Taxing Powers between Member States?	125
Edoardo Traversa and Alice PirLOT
6.1. Introduction	125
6.2. Exploring the meaning of the principle of tax sovereignty in EU law	125
6.3. Discussing the nature of the EU Treaty freedoms for direct tax purposes	133
6.4. Acknowledging the function of the principle of territoriality in the allocation of taxing powers within the internal market	139
6.5. Conclusion	149

Table of Contents

Chapter 7: Equality in Taxation: Reflections on the Social Construction of Comparability in Tax Law	151
Robert Pålsson
7.1. Introduction	151
7.2. Equal treatment as a legal principle	151
7.3. Equal treatment as constitutional statutory law	152
7.3.1. Equality in tax law	152
7.3.2. Equality in the European Convention on Human Rights	153
7.3.3. Equality in the Swedish Constitution	155
7.4. The ECJ's construction of comparability	156
7.4.1. The significance of the residence criterion	156
7.4.2. Justification of the residence criterion	157
7.4.3. Neutralization of the residence criterion	159
7.5. Conclusion	160
Chapter 8: The Principle of Effectiveness	163
Guglielmo Maisto
8.1. Introduction	163
8.2. Principle of effectiveness and res judicata	164
8.3. Principle of effectiveness and rules of national procedures	171
8.3.1. Re-opening of the statute of limitations	171
8.3.2. Refund of taxes unduly levied and rules on evidence	177
8.4. Interest on taxes unduly paid	180
Chapter 9: Access to Effective Legal Remedy	183
Peter J. Wattel
9.1. The (genesis of the) right to effective judicial protection as (a general principle of) EU law	183
9.2. Reach and content of the right to effective judicial protection	185
9.2.1. Not just civil rights/obligations and criminal charges	185
9.2.2. Preliminary questions indirectly on the meaning of ECHR rights	186
9.2.3. Content of the right to effective judicial protection	187
9.2.4. A negative and a positive obligation for national courts	188

9.2.5.	Reasonable time limits allowed	189
9.2.6.	Summary of minimum access to court requirements set by EU law	190
9.2.7.	Reverse discrimination	190
9.3.	Access to court in respect of individual administrative decisions and in respect of legislative acts	191
9.3.1.	Kühne & Heitz and Byankov : Administrative decisions that have become final	191
9.3.2.	Sopropé : The rights of the defence in respect of individual administrative decisions	192
9.3.3.	Unibet : Access to court in respect of legislative acts considered contrary to EU law	195
9.4.	The principle of effectiveness of EU law and the right to effective judicial protection	198
9.5.	Interaction between the ECHR and EU law as regards effective judicial protection	199
9.5.1.	The EU side: Supporting ECHR law; concordance rule (article 52(3) of the EU Charter)	199
9.5.2.	The ECHR side: Supporting (access to) EU law	200
9.6.	Concluding observations	203
 Chapter 10: No Taxation without Representation in the European Union: Democracy, Patriotism and Taxes		 205
Ana Paula Dourado
10.1.	Introduction	205
10.2.	Legitimacy and validity of parliaments and delegated legislation	206
10.3.	Tax state, tax sovereignty, tax patriotism and tax exile in the European Union	209
10.4.	Vagueness in law and legal determinacy	213
10.5.	Hard cases in tax law: The example of a common GAAR in the EU Member States	216
10.6.	Legal gaps and GAARs	219
10.7.	The rule of law and validity in the European Union	220
10.8.	Harmonization and separation of powers	221
10.9.	How detailed should tax directives be: National parliaments as executive powers when transposing a directive	228
10.10.	The rule of law in the European Union and a tax union: Concluding remarks	230

Chapter 11: Legal Certainty, Legitimate Expectations, Legislative Drafting, Harmonization and Legal Enforcement in EU Tax Law	235
Dennis Weber and Thidaporn Sirithaporn
11.1. Constitutional recognition of legal certainty and legitimate expectations	235
11.1.1. Introduction	235
11.1.2. The principle of legal certainty in the (tax) case law of the ECJ	243
11.1.2.1. Knowledge of legal rules and foreseeability of legal situations	243
11.1.2.2. Different applications of the principle of legal certainty	244
11.1.3. Principle of the protection of legitimate expectations	246
11.1.3.1. Introduction	246
11.1.3.1.1. General	246
11.1.3.1.2. Only “a prudent and circumspect trader” may invoke the principle of the protection of legitimate expectations	247
11.1.3.2. Community and national legislation with retroactive effect	250
11.1.3.2.1. Substantive rules with retroactive effect	250
11.1.3.2.2. Procedural rules with retroactive effect	250
11.1.3.2.3. Community case law concerning national legislation with retroactive effect	251
11.1.3.3. Immediate entering into effect of legislation; transitional provisions on the basis of the principle of the protection of legitimate expectations	254
11.2. Legal certainty, legislative drafting and tax law application	257
11.2.1. General	257
11.2.2. Improved lawmaking: Pre-legislative consultation process	258
11.2.3. Impact assessments in taxation	260
11.3. EU ruling system	262

11.4. Legal certainty, harmonization and legal enforcement	265
11.4.1. Harmonization and coordination of taxation in the European Union	265
11.4.2. Legal enforcement: Appeals and conflict resolution	268
11.5. Conclusion	272
Chapter 12: Direct Applicability and Direct Effect Georg Kofler	273
12.1. Introduction	273
12.2. Direct effect and direct taxation	278
12.2.1. Overview	278
12.2.2. Fundamental freedoms	279
12.2.3. Directives	284
12.2.4. International agreements	298
12.2.5. Recommendations	299
12.3. Conclusions	301
Chapter 13: The Principle of Proportionality and (European) Tax Law Adam Zalasiński	303
13.1. General remarks	303
13.2. Origins and meaning	303
13.3. Proportionality as a legal principle?	305
13.4. Fields of application	307
13.4.1. In general	307
13.4.2. Taxation	307
13.5. EU (tax) law	309
13.5.1. Review of EU legislative actions	309
13.5.2. Review of Member States' legislative actions	310
13.5.2.1. In general	310
13.5.2.2. Implementation of tax directives	311
13.5.2.3. Taxation constituting discrimination or restriction on free movement rights – Justification	313
13.5.2.4. Challenge to accuracy of the application of the proportionality test in the ECJ's case law	314
13.6. Conclusion	316

Chapter 14: The Principle of Good Faith in Swiss Domestic and International Tax Law	319
Madeleine Simonek
14.1. Introduction	319
14.2. The principle of good faith in Swiss domestic tax law	320
14.2.1. Constitutional basis	320
14.2.2. The principle of good faith in Swiss tax law	322
14.2.2.1. In general	322
14.2.2.2. General anti-avoidance rule	323
14.2.2.3. Advance tax rulings	326
14.3. The principle of good faith in Swiss international tax law	328
14.3.1. Good faith in international tax law	328
14.3.2. Swiss jurisprudence on good faith as an interpretation rule	329
14.4. Concluding remarks	331
 Chapter 15: Accessorium Sequitur Principale – The Issue of Defining the Tax Object for VAT Purposes	 333
Oskar Henkow
15.1. Introduction	333
15.2. Every transaction must normally be viewed separately for fiscal purposes	337
15.3. Closely linked services that form, objectively, a single, indivisible economic supply, which it would be artificial to split	341
15.4. Principal supplies and ancillary supplies	344
15.4.1. Introduction	344
15.4.2. A good or a service?	345
15.4.3. Financial services	348
15.4.4. Place of supply	351
15.4.5. Immovable property	353
15.5. Several supplies	355
15.6. Regard should be had to all circumstances assessing the essential features of the transaction	358
15.7. Conclusions	362

Chapter 16: The Principle of Neutrality in EU VAT	365
Marta Papis
16.1. Introduction	365
16.2. Origins of neutrality	366
16.2.1. Economic dimension of neutrality	366
16.2.2. Neutrality as a principle of law	367
16.3. Sources of the principle of neutrality in European VAT	368
16.3.1. The legislative history	368
16.3.2. Treaty provisions	370
16.3.3. Secondary sources of Union law	371
16.3.4. The case law of the ECJ	373
16.4. Different “faces” of neutrality	374
16.4.1. Theoretical considerations	375
16.4.2. OECD Guidelines	376
16.4.3. The case law of the ECJ	377
16.5. The status of the principle of neutrality in the light of its origin, sources and meaning	378
16.5.1. Descriptive character of the principle of neutrality	379
16.5.2. The principle of neutrality as a principle of Union law	379
16.5.3. A place for the principle of neutrality in a hierarchy of sources of law	380
16.6. The status of the principle of neutrality in the light of the case law of the ECJ	381
16.6.1. Principle of neutrality as an aid to interpretation	382
16.6.2. Principle of neutrality binding for Member States who exercise their powers	384
16.6.3. The principle of neutrality/equality as a ground for review?	385
16.7. Conclusions	388
Chapter 17: The Principle of Elimination of Double Taxation under EU Law – Does it Exist?	391
Marjaana Helminen
17.1. The risk of international double taxation	391
17.2. To what extent must double taxation be eliminated in the European Union?	392
17.3. Obligation to take into account taxes levied in another Member State	395

Table of Contents

17.4. Exemption or credit?	398
17.5. EU law compatible division of taxing rights	403
17.6. Double taxation and the right to property	406
17.7. Conclusion	408
 Chapter 18: Fairness: A Legal Principle in EU Tax Law?	 413
Sigrid Hemels
 18.1. Introduction	 413
18.2. The principle of fairness	415
18.3. The principle of fairness and taxation	418
18.4. Does the principle of fairness require specific consent to being subject to a tax system?	420
18.5. Principle of fairness primarily imposes obligations on taxpayers	422
18.6. References to fairness in European Treaties and the tax directives	424
18.6.1. Legislation in force	424
18.6.2. Proposal for a Common Consolidated Corporate Tax Base Directive	425
18.6.3. Proposal for a Financial Transaction Tax Directive	427
18.6.4. Action plan against fraud and tax evasion	427
18.7. The principle of fairness and the ECJ	428
18.7.1. Fairness for taxpayers who acted in good faith	429
18.7.2. Fairness of commercial transactions as a justification	432
18.7.3. Fairness as justification (no specification)	433
18.7.4. Fairness as a justification for not favouring a non-compliant company	433
18.7.5. Fairness as a reason to differentiate between taxpayers based on their contribution to a problem	434
18.7.6. Abuse of law a reflection of fairness?	434
18.8. Conclusion	436
 Chapter 19: Ability to Pay	 439
Joachim Englisch
 19.1. The concept of ability to pay	 439
19.1.1. Ethical foundations	439
19.1.2. Core features of taxation in conformity with ability to pay	444

19.2. A reflection of fundamental rights and general principles of Union law, in the area of taxation?	446
19.2.1. Possible foundations in primary Union law	446
19.2.2. Do common constitutional traditions of the Member States support a reading of primary law that confers constitutional status on the ability-to-pay principle?	451
19.3. Potential legal relevance in European tax law	456
19.3.1. Assessing national tax legislation	456
19.3.2. Assessing EU tax legislation	460
Chapter 20: Tax Authorities and EU Law	465
Daniel Gutmann
20.1. Introduction	465
20.2. Strategy 1: Open “civil disobedience”	466
20.3. Strategy 2: Hidden “civil disobedience”	467
20.4. Strategy 3: Denial	469
20.5. Strategy 4: Faking it	473
20.6. Remedies?	475