

Contents

Tables and Figures	xiii
Preface to the Classic Paperback	xv
Preface	xix
The Authors	xxiii

Part One: A New Approach to Evaluation

1. Comparing Evaluation Models	1
--------------------------------	---

The Tyler Rationale • Turmoil and Dissent • Countenance Model • Context-Input-Process-Product Model • Goal-Free Model • Connoisseurship Model • Summary
2. Emergence of Responsive Evaluation	23
Stake's Responsive Model • An Expansion of Stake's Proposals • Summary
3. Determining Merit and Worth	39
Merit and Worth as Pluralistic Phenomena • Determining Merit and Worth • Relationship of Merit and Worth • Relationship to Formative and Summative Evaluation
Part Two: The Naturalistic Method of Inquiry
4. Advantages of Naturalistic Methods	53
Basic Assumptions of the Paradigms • Derivative Postures of the Paradigms • Can the Scientific and the Naturalistic Paradigms Be Integrated? • A Definition of Naturalistic Inquiry • Relevance of the Naturalistic Paradigm for Educational Evaluation • Summary
5. Naturalistic Solutions to Methodological Problems	85
Establishing Boundaries • Finding a Focus • Meeting Tests of Rigor
Part Three: Improving Evaluator Skills and Techniques
6. The Evaluator as Instrument	128
Major Characteristics of the Instrument • What Are Desirable Qualities for "Human Instruments"? • Can the Evaluator as Instrument Be Improved? • Summary
7. Interviewing, Observation, and Nonverbal Cue Interpretation	153

When Is an Interview the Most Appropriate Tool?

- Types of Interviews • Techniques for Interviewing
- Planning and Setting Up the Interview • Analysis and Integration of Field Notes • Determining Reliability and Validity of Interview Data • Observation
- A Rationale for Observation • Overt and Covert Observation: Are There Trade-Offs? • Observation and Recording of Data • Drawbacks of Observation
- Ethical Problems of Observing • Training for Observation • Determining Reliability and Validity of Observational Data • Nonverbal Communication
- Categorization of Nonverbal Communication

8. Using Documents, Records, and Unobtrusive Measures 226

- Documents and Records • Why Differentiate Between Documents and Records? • Utility of Documents and Records • Using Documents and Records • Methodology of Content Analysis
- Methodology of Case-Study Aggregation Analysis
 - Analysis of Records • Integrating and Using the Information Collected from Records • Does the Use of Records Create Special Ethical Problems?
 - Unobtrusive Measures • Strengths and Weaknesses of Unobtrusive Measures

Part Four: Implementing Naturalistic Responsive Evaluation

9. Initiating and Organizing the Evaluation 270

- Negotiating the Evaluation Contract • Organizing the Evaluation Team • Getting Established at the Evaluation Site • Taking Account of Human and Political Factors

10. Identifying Key Issues and Concerns 303

- Key Definitions • Identifying Stakeholders

• Making Contact with Informants • Eliciting Concerns and Issues • Inferring Value Frameworks • Testing the Rigor of the Identification Process • An Example
11. Gathering Useful Information	339
Kinds of Information Required • Sources of Information
12. Reporting Results Effectively and Making Recommendations	363
Forms of Reports • The Case Study • Making Judgments and Recommendations
References	383
Name Index	411
Subject Index	417