

Table of Contents

Introduction.....	11
 Chapter 1
The socio-pedagogical point of view: the conceptual frame.....	15
Preliminary remarks: contexts and justifications.....	15
Point of view - perspective – horizon.....	17
The humanist and relational paradigm of non-strategic action: an ontological frame	18
The concept of a symbolic institution and the invisible environment: an axiological frame	20
Constructing intersubjectively shared experience: an epistemological frame.....	21
Research in the process of change: a methodological framework	22
Conceptual apparatus: continuity and change	25
 Chapter 2
Activity in the field of practice: conceptualizations and tools/dispositifs.....	29
Preliminary remarks	29
Analysis/dispositif tool: determination of meanings.....	30
The relational concept of a person situated in social contexts	31
The culture of spiritual/mental activity	35
Hermeneutic work on oneself: complexity and paradoxicality	38
Experience and its relational dimension: integration through reconstruction and reorganization.....	40
Sharing experience and its contexts: the example of the historical generation	44
 Chapter 3
Activity in the field of practice: transformation variants.....	47
Preliminary remarks	47
Paradigmatic change and “discovery of activity”	47
Activity in the field of practice: concepts and tools	49
Transversal activity analysis.....	50
The trialectic approach	51
Activity - transformation transformations: structural ‘coupled’ relationships (couplage structurel).....	54

Invisible and silent transformations: conception and suggestions for analysis	56
The process of silent accumulation of experience	60
Invisible transformation stream versus modifications	62
Related/"coupled" braid transformations	64
Chapter 4
Culture of practice: orientations of activity	67
Preliminary remarks: culture of practice - scope of the concept.....	67
Orientation of activity/action in the field of practice: premises of the conceptual framework	70
Comprehensive/holistic thinking versus integrated action	71
Mediation space: towards mediation approaches	75
Transformations of the relationship: between asymmetry and transcending the master	82
Activity orientation transformations - two oscillations	86
Chapter 5
Fields of practice: senses and meanings of activity	93
Preliminary remarks	93
Education/formation: raising awareness of the activity framework in the field of practice	93
Reflective practice: creating one's own knowledge.....	96
Design: spiral activity located in the formation space.....	99
Social work: becoming/towards societal work.....	102
The field of practice in transformation: the discovery of invisible space	107
The subject operating in the field of practice: silent transformations .	108
Fields of practice in transversal approaches.....	110
Practice fields - research fields: alternation of activity and implications	112
Chapter 6
Valuation of activity in the field of practice	119
Preliminary remarks	119
The relational dimension of values - valuation	120
Valuation: preferences for choosing the orientation of activity.....	122
Social relations in the field of practice: self-interest (reification and commodification) versus disinterestedness (la gratuité).....	125
Valuation/estimation of effects: evaluation of activity in the field of practice	131

The phenomenon of evaluation - a starting point	131
Activity evaluation in the field of practice - an analysis tool	135
Chapter 7
Social pedagogy “at the crossroads of the sciences”	141
Preliminary remarks	141
Conceptual inspirations for constructing a socio-pedagogical point of view on activity in the field of practice	143
Inspirations for constructing a framework for orienting activity in the field of practice	143
Scientific method: enriching the methodological workshop	147
The whole related disciplinarily: an integrated paradigm of activity in the field of practice	151
An integrated paradigm of activity in the field of practice: variants	152
Transversal approaches to analysis of the field of practice.....	157
Interdisciplinary inspirations: two doubts	159
Chapter 8
The transversal paradigm of social pedagogy: a conceptual framework..	163
Preliminary remarks	163
Transversal reason: the ontological frame.....	163
“Long duration” and “rupture and discontinuity”: the methodological frame.....	166
The disciplinarization and institutionalization of social pedagogy: two coupled processes	168
The school of thought: discontinuity versus the paradox of rupture	171
Comprehensiveness (complexity/duality) and integration of interrelationships: the epistemological frame.....	173
Final remarks	174
In place of a conclusion: an invitation for co-reflection	179
References	181
List of articles published 2008-2019	195
Dictionary of key terms	201
Index of names.....	207
Index of subjects.....	223